Rose Coghlan Gone, Russia May Laugh, Mussolini in 4 Languages, Taxes Educate Us,

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ROSE COGHLAN is dead, 80 years old. To ninety Americans out of a hundred this means nothing. To the other ten it means much. It takes them back to the days when Augustin Daly was young, with Ada Rehan and John Drew in their prime, to days before Weber and Fields or Warfield or Marcus Loew or any moving picture.

Those that are now "great" with names spelled in large letters, will soon be as thoroughly forgotten as Rose Coghlan, Ada Rehan and Daly.

Life is a succession of shadows, and its meaning a mystery to the shadows that move through it.

THE NATIONAL Child Labor Committee reports that 700,000 children from 10 to 15 years old are at work in this country, and in addition 300,000 between 16 and 17 years of age are employed in "unsuitable occupations."

Our glorious country which has from six to eight million men unable to find work, has at work one million children that ought to be in school.

And we criticize the Russians, and tell them how to run their country. They must laugh.

WISE IS Mussolini. Honoring the hundredth anniversary of Goethe's death, he dedicated in Rome an institute of German studies in a magnificent villa donated by Mrs. Henrietta Tower Wurts, an American. He spoke in German, English, French and Italian, because Goethe, like all geniuses, belongs to all nations and all languages.

Many of Goethe's lines might be adopted by Mussolini, applying them to himself.

"Es liebt die Welt das strahlende zu schwaerzen."

"The world loves to besmirch that which is brilliant."

Also "Courage lost, everything lost, better thou wert never born," and Goethe's statement that personality is the greatest gift that earth's children can possess.

One of Goethe's sayings might possibly disturb Mussolini, if he took it too seriously:

"Gegen dummheit kaempfen goetter selbst vergebens."

IT IS IMPORTANT that citizens take an interest in their government. Therefore, news that New York riders on street, subway and elevated car lines will be taxed on each ride is good news.

Every time the harassed New Yorker is forced to add 1 or 2 cents to his fare as a contribution to government, he will remember that it might be a good idea to take an interest in that government and know something about it.

IT HAS BEEN often predicted here during the happy, boom years of 1929 and previously, that sooner or later this country would PAY for the war, and would not enjoy paying.

Our fair land is paying for its war now.

However, if citizens can be persuaded to take henceforward as much interest in their government as they usually take in the selection of a spring or fall overcoat, the cost of the war will not be too great.

WALL STREET has one of its frequent fits of the "trembles." Brokers naturally object to taxation that would take $29 in taxes on every hundred shares of stock sold at par.

However, that tax need not necessarily discourage speculation. He who buys one hundred shares at par expects to make at least five dollars a share, or $500. A $29 tax will not make him abandon an imaginary profit of $500. Speculators are optimistic.

THE WORST, from the broker's point of view, is that seats on the Stock Exchange that once sold above $600,000 each are now selling as low as $83,000.

Big speculators will probably buy seats and save money hereafter by hiring $2 brokers to do their buying and selling, instead of paying regular commissions.

FINLAND ABANDONED prohibition and there was rejoicing.

But Finland's government will sell the liquor to the citizens, and now whisky is at $6.50 a bottle, brandy $9 a bottle, and there is wailing and gnashing of Finnish teeth.

Those prices are as high as American bootleg prices. But there is a difference.

THE ENORMOUS profit in Finland goes to the government, to be used for old age and unemployment funds, prevention of illegal liquor traffic, and government expenses generally.

In this fair land the hundreds of millions of annual profit go to the bootleggers, and to officials that collect their share of bootleg profits.

NINE DEMOCRATIC leaders, including Roosevelt, Smith and Garner, predict a Democratic sweep next fall, IF the 100,000 chosen Democrats to whom they send an appeal, and other Democrats, will organize AND CONTRIBUTE.

That word "contribute" will cause many to pause. After the people have finished contributing to the taxes that Congress has "dug up," many will be contribution-weary.

LEAK ON UTILITY QUIZ PROBED

Obtained by subterfuge, foes of high utility rates say a legislative questionnaire of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association has fallen into the hands of the Pennsylvania Electric Association, power industries organization. Leaders of the Fair Rate Association were incensed today because the questionnaire appeared in the enemy camp before the association was ready to reveal its contents. Tney were investigating the manner in which the electric association obtained it.

The questionnaire has not been mailed to Legislative candidates, and copies have been only in the hands of the executive committee members, it was said by President A. B. Davidson, of Tarentum. The questionnaire was published in the weekly news bulletin of the Pennsylvania Electric Association, the power companies' organization with headquarters in Harrisburg.

SEES UTILITIES FEARFUL

Declaring an investigation will be made within the Fair Rate group to determine how a copy was obtained, Davidson said:

"That public utility interests fear an aroused public's determination to take over the control of Pennsylvania's laws so

Film Block Booking Upheld by Court

NEW YORK, April 5.—(INS.)—Judge Nanton, presiding justice in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, today handed down a decision in favor of Paramount Publix Corporation and against the Federal Trade Commission in the matter of block booking of pictures.

He held that block booking is not illegal and is not unfair competition. The case, which covers the sale of pictures to exhibitors in blocks instead of singly, has been in litigation for some years.

One-Pound Baby Normal In All But Size

KANSAS CITY, April 5.—(AP.)—A cardboard carton warmed by hot water bags cradles a one-pound baby boy born here yesterday to a young couple.

The child was pronounced normal, except in size, by the attending physician, who has high hopes that the infant will live.

The doctor said the young son of Mr. and Mrs. William St. John was undernourished. The father is a strapping youth of 18 and the mother is 17.

The baby wasn't expected for 2½ months. Only a few clothes were ready for him and they didn't fit, of course. As one of his husky uncles remarked, the crocheted boots might do very well for stocking caps.

No crib was ready either, so for the present the baby's odd little cries issue from a coffee carton at the St. John Home, where he was born. The tiny arms are just about as big as his father's forefingers. He is 14 inches long.

The boy had his first drink of water from an eye-dropper.

BERLIN, April 5.—(AP.)—Germany has a "wonder baby" that is getting first page notice in the newspapers. The baby is a girl 12½ inches long and weighing slightly under one and one-fifth pounds at birth.

The child has been kept alive in regular incubator style, much after the fashion of a baby chick.

LINK SEA LIGHTS TO LINDY HUNT

3 TOWNS TO ABANDON LIGHTS

Johnstown, Punxsutawney And Sayre Ready to Act In Fight for Rate Cuts

Three Pennsylvania communities today were ready to take drastic steps to procure lower electric rates for their muncipal lighting systems.

Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown, former prizefighter and one of the leaders of the movement for reduced utility rates, spurred by ultimatums of Punxsutawney and Sayre Borough councils that they would discontinue street lighting unless substantial revisions of costs were made, said today:

"I'll go before council this afternoon and demand that all city lighting contracts be cancelled at once unless immediate rate reductions are granted.

"And if I don't get the cuts by tomorrow night, I'll take two men and a ladder and turn out every city light myself."

TO TURN OUT LIGHTS

Punxsutawney, in Jefferson County, and Sayre, in Bradford County, are serviced by the Associated Gas and Electric Company, the same firm that furnishes Johnstown's lights.

The Punxsutawney Council last night voted to leave its streets dark after 6 p. m. tomorrow if lower rates are not granted by that time. It also warned the Punxsutawney Water Service Company, subsidiary of the Federal Water Company, that unless it, too, reduces its charges, a municipal water plant will be established.

SET TIME LIMIT

In Sayre, the borough fathers gave the Associated Gas and Electric officials until April 20 to submit a new contract. The council members informed the company that the five-year contract offered to go in effect at that time called for "exorbitant" rates and that all municipal lighting would be discontinued at the expiration of the present contract unless "drastic" reductions were made. They also told the utility officials that the contract would be accepted only for two years.

Radio Carries Bark Of Dog Over World

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., April 5.—(AP.)—"Short," a little wire-haired terrier, barked into a microphone today and the bark came back to him over a loud speaker after circling the world by way of Holland, Java and Australia.

The dog, belonging to one of the General Electric engineers, was in the radio station when the company was testing a round-the-world short wave hookup. He jumped on an operator's lap and barked at the mike and the sport began.

Graf Leaves Home For Ocean Crossing

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, April 5.—(INS.)—The Graf Zeppelin took off for Pernambuco, Brazil, today. Beginning the second of a series of trans-Atlantic passenger trips to be undertaken this year. Eight passengers and a crew of 42 were aboard.

Garner Places Economy Move Up to Hoover

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP.)—Speaker Garner today told newspapermen that if "President Hoover sends up something specific to bring about economy through government reorganization, I'll guarantee it'll pass the House."

A short time later, answering congressional attacks upon his economy suggestions, President Hoover said that without the creation of a joint congressional-administration committee to consider the question he could "see no way by which there can be a maximum reduction in expenditures."

Over in the Senate, meanwhile, Chairman Jones, of the Appropriations Committee, introduced a resolution to create the joint commission on government reorganization proposed yesterday by the President.

The Garner statement, in response to questions about the President's request designed to bring about $200,000,000 in government economy, asserted:

"If President Hoover has the information on how to effect the economies, all he has to do is to send to the House his specific recommendations. We have the machinery to do it, and it will be done. I'll guarantee it'll have prompt action. It is mighty late in the session for him to try to get anything done through a commission."

Mr. Hoover, at his semi-weekly press conference, outlined "three general directions" in which he believes federal expenses may be reduced about $200,000,000.

Referring to one of these, reorganization and consolidation of government functions, he asserted he had recommended such a step seven distinct times but that "the action recommended has not been taken."

The other two directions were direct reduction of appropriations and alteration of existing laws to reduce present unnecessary functions.

VARE INQUIRY ASKED IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP.)—A demand for an investigation of the relationship between the Pennsylvania and Reading Railroads and William S. Vare, Republican party leader in Philadelphia, was laid before the House today by Representative Golder (Rep.), of Pennsylvania.

Golder charged the railroads paid large fees for franchises to prominent politicians and that contractors exacted large sums illegally from the railroads. The resolution would empower the Interstate Commerce Commission to institute the investigation.

Summer Villa Made Ready for Pope Pius

ROME, April 5.—(INS.)—The work of restoring the Papal villa at Castel Gandolfo in preparation for the summer vacation of Pope Pius XI proceded apace today.

A small apartment in the villa is being furnished, indicating that the Pontiff plans to make a visit to Castel Gandolfo shortly to inspect the work of restoration. This will be the first real trip outside the confines of the Vatican that any Pontiff has made in more than 60 years.

Presbyterian Clergy Dean Dead at 102

MONTREAL, Quebec, April 5.—(AP.)—The Rev. Dr. James Patterson, dean of Presbyterian ministers of the dominion, died yesterday at the age of 102. He retired from active church work in 1917.

OLD TRUSTY STARTS FIRE IN PRISON

'Tired of Being Shut Up,' Prisoner Puts Torch to Joliet Chapel; in Dungeon

JOLIET, Ill., April 5.—(AP.)—An old and trusted convict "tired of being shut up" and reverting to a pyromaniacal urge, today set fire to the stone chapel in the state penitentiary. Joliet fire companies and 300 convicts put out the blaze, which resulted in damage estimated at $5,000.

Lyman Hall, a convict since 1897 and a trusty most of the time since 1919, walked into the deputy warden's office in the old prison this morning and calmly announced:

"I' mtired of the world. I'm tired of being shut up. I just set fire to the chapel and I hope the whole place burns up."

FOUND CHAPEL ABLAZE

Guards rushed to the chapel and found the inner walls and the floors ablaze. It was a half hour before the fire department and a detail of prisoners had it under control. There was no disorder among the prisoners.

Hall was sentenced from Will County in 1897 for the murder of Constable Francis Delong. He had been suspected previously as a "firebug." In 1919 he became a trusty and in 1924, while working as a teamster, he escaped.

He was at large for seven months and then was returned to become one of the oldest convicts in point of service. He had recently been in charge of an oil and gas station inside the prison walls and the fact that this station was to be torn down was one of the reasons Hall gave for firing the chapel.

ABOUT TO LOSE JOB

He explained it by saying:

"They just told me yesterday I was going to lose my job. I don't want to lose my job."

He also said it occurred to him he might escape if the fire caused enough confusion, "but it didn't work."

Hall said he used oil rags and gasoline fro mthe prison station to start the fire. He said no other convicts worked with him. He was placed in solitary confinement.

Pitt Editor on Liner Hitting Navy Boat

William Morrell, University of Pittsburgh editor, bound for the Orient, was among the seven Americans on the British motorship Javanese Prince when it collided with the Navy eagle boat No. 34, 20 miles out of Wilmington, Cal., Sunday night, according to an Associated Press news dispatch.

No injuries were reported among the passengers. The motorship sailed today for the Orient and around the world. Morrell is making the complete voyage.

Homestead Man Found Dead in Bed

William Bryson, 65, a carpenter, was found dead in his room at 230 East Fifth avenue, Homestead, when neighbors became worried about his absence for the last few days, and broke into the house this afternoon. Bryson, according to police, had been living with his sister, who was out of the city. Coroner's deputies are investigating the death, which they believe to have been caused by heart disease.

Damrosch Pities Radio 'Crooners'

CLEVELAND, April 5.—(AP.)—The radio crooners, if you ask Walter Damrosch, "are to be pitied—they can do better." Here today for the National Conference of Music Supervisors, he said:

"This silly, meaningless, crooning that appeals in an unhealthy way only to the nerves is killing itself just by its monotony."

Steiwer Backs Dry Law Resubmission

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP.)—Senator Steiwer (Rep.), of Oregon, announced his candidacy for re-election today, on a platform calling for farm and unemployment relief and resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Plane Forced Down In Glassport Storm

PILOT CLARENCE HUNTER PAT BROOKE

Two of the four men in the Harrisburg plane, en route to the Detroit air show, in a driving rain forced down on a hill near Glassport today. Owner Brooks: ". . . . three other pilots in the plane. Talk about back seat driving!" This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Pilot, 3 Passengers Land on Hill Above River

Blinded by a driving rain and his motor missing, Pilot Clarence Hunter landed his monoplane carrying three prominent Harrisburg business men, en route to the Detroit air show, on top of a lofty hill overlooking the Monongahela River opposite Glassport today, without mishap.

The ship landed on the hillside and glided up to the peak almost as smoothly as if it had come down at Bettis Field, its objective, according to Pat Brook, Harrisburg, owner of the Aircraft Corporation and one of the three passengers.

He exclaimed:

"The busiest time in a pilot's life is when he is trying to make a dead-stick landing with three other pilots in the plane. Talk about your back seat driving. Pilot Hunter made a wonderful landing."

Brook, himself a pilot, has as guests two others, also capable of handling a plane, Robert Hoover, Sr., wholesale furniture dealer, and J. Paul Harkinson, automobile dealer.

After maneuvering his plane into a nearby pasture, Hunter and his passenger took off for Bettis Field, landed there without incident, and made ready to start for Detroit.

Plane Races Death To Save Ill Banker

BOAT SENDS FLASHES TO AUTO

Curtis Believed on Craft to Contact Kidnapers; New Flight by Father Hinted

International News Service.

CHILMARK, Island of Martha's Vineyard, Mass., April 5.—Signals flashing between an automobile on South Beach and an unknown vessel off shore in the open Atlantic today were thought to anticipate a third flight over Vineyard Sound of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in the hunt for his kidnaped baby.

At the same time marks of automobile tires were found on the beach at West Tisbury, near the summer home of former United States Senator William M. Butler. The blinking signals were observed here. The vessel off shore subsequently disappeared.

CURTIS MOVE HINTED

Meanwhile, word came from New Jersey that the Lindbergh plane was being groomed, perhaps for another seaward dash.

The opinion was expressed generally that the man who left here Sunday night aboard the chartered flounder dragger Alva was John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk (Va.), boat builder and Lindbergh negotiator. Apparently he came to Massachusetts with the Lindbergh flying party Sunday afternoon and was transferred from the amphibian plane to one of the New York Coast Guard boats and thence to the Alva.

The speculation was that Curtis was "contacting" kidnapers inrough a second person and that Col. Lindbergh was keeping in touch with Curtis.

PLANE GROOMED

TETERBORO AIRPORT, N. J., April 5.—(AP.)—Two mechanics arrived this morning and immediately started going over the high-wing monoplane Col. Charles A. Lindbergh used yesterday on his flight presumably in connection with the search for his kidnaped son.

The mechanics said no one was permitted entrance to the hangar and closed the doors as soon as they had entered. They could be seen through a crack in the door working on the plane.

The ship is painted a cream color, with the top of the wings painted red. Its license number is NC 49 M.

OPTIMISM AT HOME

HOPEWELL, N. J., April 5.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who won his fame in the air, is using that same element in an attempt to get his stolen baby back.

Optimism permeates the home on Sourland Mountain as the head of the household comes and goes on mysterious airplane journeys.

Twice in three days he has soared away, apparently seeking a yacht off the Massachusetts coast,

N. J. Police Scored In Lindbergh Failure

BOSTON, April 5.—(INS.)—Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley today launched an attack on the New Jersey police authorities for the manner in which they are carrying out the search for the missing Lindbergh baby. He said:

"Since the disappearance of the child this department never has received a circular of any kind giving a description of the missing baby."

REDS DEMAND SALARY CUTS

Seventy Communists paraded before the County Commissioners in meeting today and demanded the Commissioners reduce their own salaries to $1,500.

Commissioners C. M. Barr and William D. Mansfield smiled as they heard this suggestion, but otherwise took no action.

B. Chapa and Ben Careathers, spokesmen for the visitors, members of the Unemployed Council and the Metal Workers League, requested that all county officials work for that salary.

The visitors asked $8 weekly for each unemployed person, $2 for each dependent, free gas and electricity and water for the unemployed, use of all public buildings as sleeping quarters for unemployed, a graduated tax on $10,000 incomes and a 33 per cent reduction of county expenses.

Blind Man Charges Wife Looted Home

BALTIMORE, April 5.—(INS.)—Charging desertion a year after he became blind seven years ago, Artimus Cavey filed suit for divorce. He charged his wife took everything from their home but a bed and a chair. He is 57.

Lindy, Betty Gow Help Fight Brush Fire Near Home

HOPEWELL, N. J., April 5.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Nurse Betty Gow, Ollie Wheatley, butler, and more than 50 firemen, neighbors, policemen, newspaper reporters and cameramen today fought to beat out a brush fire that came dangerously near the Lindbergh white stone home.

Fanned by a strong wind, the fire, which started about three-quarters of a mile west of the Lindbergh estate, burned its way into the Lindbergh grounds and, after traveling about a mile and a half, attacked a pile of brush close to the Lindbergh house.

When the police recognized newspapermen in the group of fire fighters they remonstrated. Col. Lindbergh heard one of the reporters tell a policeman the group had been fighting the fire for more than an hour, and told the police:

"Let those fellows alone. If they want to help, let them."

A few minutes later the police protested when cameramen appeared, but Col. Lindbergh told the police to let them take pictures. The Colonel, however, remained out of range of the cameras.

Mrs. Lindbergh and Mrs. Morrow remained in the seclusion of the home while the fire fighters were at work.

REED TO REVIVE SALES LEVY PLAN IN SENATE TAX FIGHT

BEER AND BONUS BATTLES ALSO IMPEND

Upper House Prepares for Clash Over Levies Aimed To Balance U. S. Budget

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 5.—With party lines shattered, the Senate girded itself today for a struggle over the new $1,000,000,000 tax bill with sideline battles over a sales tax, a beer tax and payment of the soldiers' bonus.

The sales and beer taxes beaten in the House will be revived in the Senate. Senator Reed, Rep., of Pennsylvania, will seek Senate approval of a sales tax to offset some of the loss of income and excises. Senator Bingham, Rep., of Connecticut, will lead the drive for a beer tax, which he argued would raise a billion dollars and obviate the necessity for increasing any other taxes.

BONUS FIGHT LOOMS

The soldiers' bonus battle has been linked to the tax bill. While the House will open hearings next Monday on a separate bill, all arguments revolve around the government's ability to pay the bonus in cash with a terrific deficit hanging over the Treasury.

All three propositions appeared doomed to defeat. The deathknell for the cash bonus plan was sounded when Senator Harrison, Dem., of Mississippi, Democratic finance leader, announced his opposition to it. After pointing out how the cost of government had increased from $1,000,000,000 in 1916 to $4,000,000,000 last year, of which $1,000,000,000 alone was for relief of war veterans, Harrison added:

"It is necessary, if the credit of the government is to be preserved, that the budget be balanced. We are now struggling with legislation to effect increased revenues. No one wants to be taxed. Every interest is protesting, but the Congress is determined to pass this tax legislation, not because the membership desires to increase taxes, but because it appreciates that the standing of the government is at stake.

"In order to balance the budget, not only will it be necessary to increase taxes to the amount of more than a billion dollars annually, but to cut government expenditures many hundreds of millions. I am citing this in order to show the impossibility of undertaking, in view of the condition of the country and federal treasury, the immediate payment of adjusted service certificates."

SALARY CUTS OPPOSED

Harrison predicted a slashing of federal salaries as a measure of economy. Other senators led by Couzens, Rep., of Michigan, however, oppose any salary slash.

Reed, meanwhile, defended the sales tax, which the House rejected. Food and clothing exemptions declared the average family would have to pay only $3 a year if the tax were fixed at 2½ per cent as first suggested in the House.

He declared the budget couldn't be balanced by merely "soaking the rich" or taxing huge incomes because "such taxes will not begin to yield the necessary revenue."

Hoover to Toss Ball At Opening Game

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP.)—President Hoover will limber up his throwing arm next Monday, tossing out the first ball in Griffith Stadium to open the big league season.

Wearing a broad smile, he today remarked to newspapermen about his desk that he was looking forward to attending the opening game, a contest between the Washington Senators and the Boston Red Sox.

28 Aliens to Leave For Deportation

Twenty-eight foreigners, being deported, will leave Pittsburgh on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at 7:30 o'clock tonight in charge of immigration authorities. They will be taken to New York from where they will sail for Europe. One, Philip Digiambattista, 36, of Brownsville, is being deported as a radical. Eight of the 28, including two children, are going back at their own request.

Reno Divorce Asked By 'Fifi' Widener

RENO, Nev., April 5.—(AP.)—The second marriage of Josephine (Fifi) Widener, daughter of Joseph E. Widener, wealthy Philadelphia sportsman, wound up in the Reno courts today.

The young society matron described as one of the wealthiest women ever to come to Reno, filed suit for divorce from Milton Whitely Holden.

Floors, Plumbing Taken by Robbers

CINCINNATI, O., April 5.—(INS.)—"Unquestionably an inside job," declared police today as they tried to solve the robbery at the home of Moses Vigransky. Stairways, plumbing, door frames, flooring—in fact the entire inside of Vigransky's house—were taken by vandals who raided it some time since he went away on a trip March 24.

FUGASSI QUITS WORKLESS JOB

John A. Fugassi, county road maintenance superintendent, "relieved" of his office last week on orders from Commissioner C. M. Barr without consultation of his colleagues C. C. McGovern and W. D. Mansfield, presented his resignation today.

It was accepted at the Commissioners' meeting this afternoon without comment. The resignation became effective immediately. The letter, addressed to the Commissioners, read:

"For approximately eight years I have served this county in the capacity of superintendent of maintenance of roads. During all of that time, I have given the best of my efforts to render a dollar's worth of service for every dollar paid me in salary.

"Since being notified by Director Frank J. Chester that I would be relieved of the duties for which I was being paid $5,000 a year, no other duties have been assigned to me. I therefore tender my resignation as I have no desire to stultify myself by accepting the taxpayers' money without giving value received therefore."

MINORITY ROLE FOR MANSFIELD

County Commissioner W. D. Mansfield who led the Republican ticket for commissionership at both the primaries and general election definitely accepted his role as the minority member of the board today.

In the absence of Chairman C. C. McGovern, in the Valley Hospital, Sewickley, with a broken ankle, his Independent colleague C. M. Barr, appeared as acting chairman.

Questioned, Mansfield said:

"I made the motion for Mr. Barr to serve as acting chairman until Chairman McGovern returns. I wanted him to have that honor."

HOOVER FILIPINO VETO EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP.)—A veto apparently waits at the White House for legislation to grant independence to the Philippine Islands.

By an astonishing margin—306 to 47—the Hare bill, under which independence would come after eight or 10 years, passed the House yesterday. Later this season, perhaps in a month, this bill or a substitute for it will be taken up in the Senate, with fair chances of passage. It may, therefore, be up to the President to meet this long-standing issue.

JUBILATION IN ISLANDS

MANILA, P. I., April 5.—(AP.)—Filipinos were slightly taken aback today by their first decisive victory in the 30-year-long fight for independence—passage of the Hare bill by the United States House of Representatives.

Although surprised, they were jubilant and some forecast a similar victory in the United States Senate.

Garner Lists Shoals Bill for Early Action

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP.)—Speaker Garner announced today the Hill Muscle Shoals bill would be given early consideration in the House.

FAYETTE MAN ENDS LIFE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 5.—When Leonard J. Duritsky, 41, awakened in his Alma avenue home early today, he told his wife he felt a pain in the head. Then he went to the next bedroom, kissed his two young daughters and walked to the cellar, where he ended his life. He fired one shot into the chest, another into the head.

A daughter, Emma, 17, found him after hearing the shots. Duritsky, a storekeeper, was believed to have been worried over business conditions.

EX-AUSTRIAN MINISTER DIES

VIENNA, April 5.—(AP.)—Count Ottokar Czernin von Chudenitz, war-time foreign minister of Austria-Hungary, died today at the age of 60.

In the old days he took a prominent part in the secret diplomacy which preceded the war and in his official capacity was an important figure during the conflict. Some years after the war he visited the United States and recently he had been actively interested in the Austrian Heimwehr, a military organization not wholly approved by the present government.

The Count was a confidant of Archduke Franz Ferdinand, whose assassination at Sarajevo precipitated the World War. It was in 1916 that he became foreign minister and during his term of office Prince Sixtus of Parma was sent on his historic secret mission to Paris to attempt to arrange a separate peace.

Portland Mayor, 10 Others Indicted

PORTLAND, Ore., April 5.—(Universal.)—Indictments were returned yesterday by the county grand jury against Mayor George L. Baker, City Commissioners Early Riley and John M. Mann and City Engineer Olaf Laurgaard and seven other persons.

The municipal officials were accused in the true bills of malfeasance and negligence in office and of advocating the commission of bribery.

Grocer Leaps Five Stories to Death

RICHMOND, Va., April 5.—(INS.)—Despondent over ill health, Chesley E. Willes, 40, a Weldon, N. C., grocer, leaped five stories to his death today at the Johnston Willis Hospital.

Pitt Girl Spurns Romance For Drug Store Career

The desire of a Hollidaysburg girl, who wa graduated from University of Pittsburgh last June, for a career as a pharmacist wrecked her marriage, Judge Frank P. Patterson was told in Common Pleas Court.

He granted a divorce to Clyde T. Bice, 29, electrician, 614 Swissvale avenue, Wilkinsburg, from Margaret Bice, 28, of 1100 Linden place, on grounds of desertion. She worked in a pharmacy in Hollidaysburg and attended high school before they were married August 12, 1925. They lived there three years when she left to enter Pitt, Bice testified. He said:

"She said it was a career she was after and it interfered with married life and she was going to be free and go to school. I helped pay her way through school. I tried to get her back but she told me she was not satisfied with married life and would not return."

Mrs. Bice is employed as a pharmacist in a downtown drug store.

HILL EXPLOSION LAID TO RUM RACKET

Sleuths See Move by Ring To Corner Bottle Market For Liquor Sellers Here

The blast that damaged the two-story home and office of Frank Lustig, at 218 Erin street, a bottle merchant, was caused by dynamite which was set off as a "warning," Detective Michael Tortorelli said today.

Tortorelli and August Ellis, both of the bomb and arson squad of the detective bureau, examined the damage and questioned Lustig as they began their investigation of the explosion which police believed to be an attempt to whip the bottle business into a monopoly.

Tortorelli said:

"This wasn't caused by a bomb. We can't find any parts of a bomb, and the damage is not great enough to have been caused by a bomb. A stick of dynamite was placed in the hallway and set off.

"In my opinion it was done as a warning. Somebody has either been trying to shake down Lustig or he has been musceling in on somebody else."

Lustig said:

"I haven't any enemies that I know of, and I was not threatened. Maybe I took somebody else's customers away and they are mad."

SEEKS TO CURE VETS' AMNESIA

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—(AP.)—An attempt to restore the memory of a man claimed by relatives to be Tobias Burke, a war veteran who disappeared from his home here 11 years ago, was begun today by Dr. George Wilson, professor of clinical neurology at the University of Pennsylvania.

Burke, or "Joe Bond," as he calls himself, was located in Berwyn, a suburb of Chicago, when a friend accidentally encountered him. He returned to Philadelphia last week but to date has failed to recognize any of the members of his family, Dr. Wilson said:

"Any man who loses his memory for 11 years and when returned to scenes of his boyhood cannot remember anything, makes a most unusual study. I have examined him, but as yet I am unwilling to make any diagnosis of the case. I am planning to see him, however, every day for some time."

Bicycle Catapaults Rider Into Sewer

BALTIMORE, April 5.—(INS.)—Free wheeling invites complications in a bicycle, police decided when they pulled Edward Cannon, 50, out of a sewer feet first. Somehow Cannon's feet and the pedals and the coaster appliance refused to co-ordinate on the Middle River hill. At the bottom Cannon went one way head first into the sewer and the bicycle the other.

LEAK ON UTILITY RADIUM PROBE QUIZ PROBED

that excessive rates and unfair legislation will be eliminated is certainly proved by this advance publication. It is impossible to say now to just what ends the power interests went in obtaining a copy.

"The questionnaire has not yet been mailed to candidates. Only members of the executive committee have had copies. There has been a leak somewhere within our ranks. Some executive member has been undoubtedly contacted by an agent of the utilities and either knowingly or unsuspectingly revealed his copy. It could have been stolen from him and later replaced. It is a glaring example that utilities watch every move made against them. The public should be even more aroused by this revelation and more determined to put legislators in Harrisburg who will represent the public rather than the public utilities."

PLEDGES SOUGHT

The questionnaire, which is expected to be placed in the mail late this week, is composed of 13 amendments or changes in state laws. Each candidate will be asked to vote yes or no on each question, while a pledge indorsing the entire program is affixed. Important among the pledges sought are those for changes in laws to permit municipalities to condemn, purchase and operate public utility plants; require a hearing on proposed rate changes before new tariff can be charged; place burden of proof and all costs in rate cases on utilities; provide for competition among utilities; limit life of charters and franchises to 50 years; limit net earnings to 7 per cent.

HAS QUESTIONNAIRE

ALTOONA, Pa., April 5.—(INS.)—W. H. Wade, president of the Pennsylvania Electric Association, in his office here today admitted that a copy of the questionnaire prepared by the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association had come to him from the Harrisburg office of the association which he heads.

Wade said he had no other statement to make at this time, after explaining that the weekly news bulletin, in which the questionnaire was published, is circulated only among employes of the electric companies.

Ice Cream Pioneer Facing Opium Trial

SHANGHAI, April 5.—(AP.)—Paul Crawley, "the man who introduced ice cream into China," will go on trial in the United States Court here April 12 on a charge of exporting opium aboard the U. S. Army transport Chaumont.

He pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned today and he was released on $10,000 bail. Crawley, who once controlled the ice cream business here, is now a slot machine operator.

Suspect Canadian Slayer Held in N. Y.

TONAWANDA, N. Y., April 5.—(AP.)—Thomas Vaughn, 39, said to be wanted in Brantford, Ont., on a charge of manslaughter, was arrested here today by an immigration border patrolman as he attempted to cross an international bridge from Canada.

Vaughn, according to the immigration officers, is wanted in connection with the death of Amber Fay Boettger, 15-year-old girl of Eatonia, Ont., near Brantford.

COUNTY TRUCK QUIZ HANGS ON COURT RULE

Judges to Decide Right of Controller Woodside to Subpena Witnesses, Books

The county inquiry before Controller Robert G. Woodside into alleged racketeering in county truck hire contracts shifts into Common Pleas Court tomorrow when Woodside's order committing Watson G. Boswer, Kittanning contractor, to jail for refusal to testify becomes effective.

Woodside said today that if a ruling is made against his power to subpena witnesses and records of contractors, he would carry the case to the Supreme Court.

DEFENDS ACTION

His right for such action, he said, is vested in the county code, passed by the 1929 Legislature, and which reads:

"The controller or auditors shall have power to issue subpenas to obtain the attendance of the officers whose accounts they are required to adjust, their executors and administrators, and of any persons whom it may be necessary to examine as witnesses and to compel their attendance by attachment, in like manner and to the same extent as any Court of Common Pleas in this state can or may do in cases pending before them, and also to compel in like manner the production of all books, vouchers and papers relative to such accounts."

Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, who with Charles Harrington, Kittanning lawyer, is Bowser's counsel, said his client would be in court tomorrow morning and that either an equity action, seeking an injunction against the commitment or a habeas corpus which would put the case on the argument list would be filed.

AIRPORT WORK

Bowser, according to an audit made for the County Commissioners by Main & Co., received $200,000 for truck and equipment hire from the county in 1931, mostly for work at the county airport.

The Controller's action yesterday afternoon followed Bowser's refusal to be sworn or to produce his records. When Bowser was called to testify, Eaton said:

"Mr. Bowser, on advice of his counsel, declines either to be sworn or to produce his records."

Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank then moved that Bowser be committed to jail in contempt of the Controller until such time as he agrees to testify and to produce his records.

Controller Woodside granted the motion, but by agreement of counsel, Wednesday morning was set for the execution of the jail committment.

Nevin Woodside, chief clerk in his brother's office, and John A. Fugassi, county maintenance superintendent, who was "relieved of his duties, but not fired," by Commissioner C. M. Barr last week, were the only two witnesses called yesterday.

Fugassi testified that former County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong told him early in December, 1930, that he was going to put Bowser's trucks on at the airport, and the following day they went to work.

Seven different kinds of slag were used in surfacing the airport, Fugassi said, and the only practicable way to complete the job was with the use of trucks.

TESTIMONY REFUTED

Fugassi refuted the testimony of L. F. Bechtel, former maintenance engineer who has been placed in Fugassi's job. Bechtel testified that use of railroad sidings on the airport would have been an efficient method of delivering the slag there and it would only have cost the county 30 cents a ton.

Fugassi testified that practically the same amount of truck hauling would have been required with a railroad siding, which would have necessitated construction of loading bins and would have slowed the job up so that it could not have been completed as quickly.

Nevin Woodside testified at length as to the manner of handling payment for the truck hire jobs through the Controller's office. All the truck hire payrolls were signed by at least two Commissioners, he said.

There were 20 rolls for truck hire and rental of equipment paid to Bowser. Of these Armstrong signed 18, former Commissioner E. V. Babcock 11 and Commissioner Charles C. McGovern 12. Every roll was attested by either William H. Ziefel or James E. Routley for the commissioners, and two employes of the Controller's office.

Pinchot in Capital Fights Forest Bill

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, today appeared at his own request before the Senate Public Lands Committee to protest against the proposed creation of a federal board of control over national forests. He asserted:

"I came here to make a vigorous protest against the provisions of the Nye bill which would give five politically-appointed men the right to exclude such lands as they think ought to be excluded from our national forests."

Jailed Follies Girl Faces New Threat

LOS ANGELES, April 5.—(AP.)—More trouble will await Natalie Chadwick, former Follies girl, when she is released from the Auburn (N. Y.) Prison next Saturday—if Los Angeles police have anything to say about it.

Jobless Tar Turns Sleuth, Wins $1,100 Reward

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—(AP.)—Keen perception, a good memory for faces and a taste for detective stories have combined to win $1,100 in rewards for a jobless sailor who caused the arrest of a man wanted for murder in Somerville, Mass. He fears reprisals, and his name is being withheld.

The sailor became suspicious after meeting Herman Snyder, alias Joseph Callahan, at the Seaman's Institute last summer, when he noticed that Snyder's hair was of two colors, marked by a line where the man's hat rested.

The incident passed from his mind until he returned from a South American cruise a few days ago and saw Snyder's picture in an old detective story magazine he had bought.

He told detectives, who found a circular asking Snyder's arrest for slaying James Kiley, filling station proprietor, in a holdup a year ago.

The man surrendered peacefully at the Seaman's Institute and admitted, police said, he was Snyder.

Authorities declared the sailor would receive the $1,000 reward offered by Somerville authorities and one of $100 offered by the detective magazine.

POLYGLOT JURY LIKELY TO TRY FOUR IN 'HONOR KILLING'

UNWRITTEN LAW TO PLAY PART IN CASE

Only Two White Men Among Six Tentatively Passed For Service With Jury

By GILBERT PARKER
International News Service.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 5.—Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, American society matron, and her three compatriots today faced the probability of being judged by a polyglot jury for the "honor slaying" of Joseph Kahahawai.

On trial with Mrs. Fortescue on second degree murder charges are her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two enlisted men of the United States Navy, Albert S. Jones and E. J. Lord.

Only two of the six jurors tentatively passed for cause as the second day of the trial was scheduled to open were white men. Two were Japanese, one a Hawaiian and one Chinese.

BATTLE LINES DRAWN

With the lines of battle already drawn by the clear suggestion of Chief Defense Counsel Clarence Darrow that the "unwritten law" will play an important part in his case, seats in the tiny courtroom of Judge Charles S. Davis continued at a premium.

The intense interest of the community in the outcome of the trial was reflected in the crowd which gathered about the historic "Hall of the Chiefs," land mark in Hawaiian history, from the steps of which was proclaimed the independence of Hawaii from the old monarchy.

Special details of police kept the throng behind the lines established about the courthouse. Special passes admitted few favored to the courtroom.

The crowd was orderly, apparently drawn only by curiosity. Heavy showers failed to dampen their interest.

Armed naval guards escorted the defendants to and from their quarters at Pearl Harbor naval base.

Darrow won his first legal clash of the trial with Prosecutor John C. Kelley over the issue of injecting the question of the guilt or innocence of Kahahawai, half caste, accused with four others of having brutally attacked Mrs. Thalia Massie, daughter of Mrs. Fortescue, and wife of Lieut. Massie.

JUDGE'S RULING

Judge Davis held that matters relating to the assault case might properly be introduced. He ruled:

"If they are pertinent to the trial, they will be covered in the instructions to the jury."

Prosecutor Kelley and his brilliant assistant, Barry Ulrich, protested vigorously that "Kahahawai's actions were not on trial."

Darrow informed the court that questioning along this line must be followed despite the protests of the prosecution, thus indicating his intention to rely on the "unwritten law" as one phase at least of the defense.

Slouching to his feet, the deep-voiced Darrow remarked significantly:

"The actions of Kahahawai will have plenty to do with the trial."

The old fire of Darrow, master of courtroom strategy, was apparent from the very outset. Although appearing physically tired, he conducted the questioning of jurors with relentless tenacity. On one veniremen in particular, Henry Beckley, part Hawaiian rancher, he concentrated the force of his deft legal weapons.

But despite his attempts to prove prejudice on Beckley's part, the rancher was seated in the jury box.

The other five to be temporarily passed were Duke Wong, Chinese accountant; Kenneth Bankston, white electrician, born in Los Angeles; Charles Akana, Hawaiian-Japanese; W. R. Chillgard, white salesman, and Hisata Imada, Japanese carpenter.

DIFFICULT TASK

That the selection of a jury will prove fully as difficult a task as anticipated by both state and defense was shown in the frequent admissions of prejudice by veniremen. More than a week is expected to be consumed in filling the jury box.

Both state and defense are permitted 24 peremptory challenges, and there was small question but that both sides would exhaust their quota after the jury box had been tentatively filled.

Because of the terrific tropical heat, court has been limited to morning sessions, starting at 9 a. m., Honolulu time, and concluding at noon.

Buzzing electric fans failed to mitigate to any great degree the suffocating atmosphere of the small courtroom.

CHARGE WHISKY PAID FOR VOTES

A quart of whisky was the price paid for a vote in the First District of the Thirty-first Ward during the last election, according to testimony taken in hearings by the Registration Commission, which was turned over to District Attorney Andrew T. Park today.

The testimony covered 25 cases the commission investigated. Most of the people arraigned before the commission said they had registered on affidavits stating that they had lost their tax receipts.

They testified, however, that "when we did what we were told we were each given a quart of whisky." The majority of them said they never had tax receipts, or that they had expired tax receipts.

MINERS STONED BY STRIKERS

ZANESVILLE, O., April 5.—(AP.)—Nearly 1,000 striking miners from adjoining bituminous coal fields stoned workers at the Muskingum coal mine near here today, seriously injuring one man.

Harry Paul, 40, was struck on the head by one of the missiles and received a fractured skull.

The trouble started yesterday when 200 strikers from the Cannesville and Perry County fields attempted to persuade workers to quit, although they were being paid $4.50 for day work, with an added premium of 50 cents for loading coal. Threatened with a ducking in a nearby river, the strikers left.

With their forces increased to nearly 1,000, the strikers returned today and began stoning the mine tipple and all the workers in sight. Paul was bombarded as he drove up to the mine mouth.

Sheriff William Curtis and deputies, armed with tear gas and riot guns, quieted the strikers.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 5.—Over 1,000 additional men working in non-union mines of the West Virginia Panhandle district joined the United Mine Workers strike here today. The No. 1 and No. 3 mines of the Valley Camp Coal Company of the J. A. Paisley Corporation, of Cleveland, were down today.

No trouble was reported.

Allegheny General's Oldest 'Grad' Dies

Miss Virginia Alexander, 72, of 3246 Orlean street, North Side, the oldest living graduate nurse of the Allegheny General Hospital, died last night in the hospital from where she was graduated 50 years ago.

Miss Alexander was engaged in active work until six months ago. She suffered a heart attack in her home yesterday. She was born in New York state and will be buried Thursday from the home of her neice, Mrs. Alice Stewart, in Dunkirk, N. Y.

Fires Gun in Radio Play, Loses Fingers

HAMMOND, Ind., April 5.—(AP.)—The shooting the fans of radio station WWAE heard yesterday was real.

Roland G. Palmer was putting some realism into a drama of the air. He made a noise like galloping horses, howling wind and rain on the roof. Then he looked at his script and found a shooting was called for. So he reached for a gun and accidentally shot two of his fingers.

Pupils Calm as Fire Rages Nearby

Pupils in the Knoxville Junior High School pursued their studies today unaware that firemen were fighting a small blaze on the school grounds, Grimes and Michigan avenues. The fire resulted when burning rubbish ignited the frame field office of the City Bureau of Building Inspection used in connection with the erection of the new addition to the school. The office building was partly destroyed.

A priest was summoned for the dying woman.

The Rev. Lawrence Trembley responded and administered the last rites of his church, unaware that the victim of the accident was his mother.

N. Y. SPEAKEASY CENSUS BEGUN BY WOODCOCK

U. S. Crusade to Close All Due to Follow Listing of Manhattan Liquor Sellers

NEW YORK, April 5.—(AP.)—Federal prohibition agents today began systematic compilation of a New York "Who's Who" in liquor.

The campaign, launched personally by Director Amos A. W. Woodcock and 60 agents was foreshadowed last night when raiders of a popular night club adopted the unusual procedure of fingerprinting on the spot and tagging their suspects for police "showup."

PLAN TO CLOSE ALL

Sent out today with sectional maps covering 10 to 20 blocks each, the agents were instructed to make itemized reports of all speakeasies, liquor-serving restaurants, cordial shops and night clubs, and told further that as soon as sufficient evidence reaches Washington every one of Gotham's speakeasies, whether 10,000 or 30,000, will be closed.

They were to make no arrests or seizures or raids for the present.

The raid last night was made on the Chimes Club, formerly the Melody Club, under the direction of Special Agent Kennedy from Washington. More than a hundred guests were herded out, among them a man described as a "well-known business man" who was alleged to be buying wine for friends. His check, amounting to $134, went unpaid.

The agents then fingerprinted 10 employes and arrested eight, and ordered the prisoners exhibited to New York detectives in the regular police lineup. Agent Kennedy also attempted to hold the prisoners without bail,a procedure customary only in cases of murder or high treason, but was unsuccessful.

WILL SEIZE FURNISHINGS

Director McCampbell of New York prohibition headquarters, said agents had fingerprinted prisoners previously to check on their records.

The club was to be stripped of its furnishings by the agents later.

The work of the 60 agents compiling the "prohibition directory" was confined to Lower Manhattan, below Twenty-third street, today. They planned to cover this territory in a short time and then to invade the northern section of the island, the Bronx and Brooklyn and possibly Queens and Richmond.

UPSET OF VETO ON BUDGET SEEN

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP.)—A prediction that not three dozen members of Congress will vote to sustain a presidential veto of cash payment of the soldiers' bonus, "if public sentiment for this proposal continues to grow" was made today by Representative Patman (Dem.), of Texas.

In a statement replying to a radio address by Representative Johnson (Rep.), of South Dakota in opposition to the veteran payments, Patman said Johnson "who was probably speaking for the President," made "misrepresentations" and "gross errors."

Among these errors Patman listed statements that the payments in new money would take the country off the gold standard and reduce the value of currency to 85 cents on the dollar.

YOUNG AVIATION WINNER FLIES TO DETROIT

Kiski Student to Be Guest Of Sun-Telegraph, Air Exposition; Given Thrill

With Lieut. Al. Wilson at the controls of the big tri-motored Stinson monoplane of the Pennsylvania Airways at Bettis Field this morning, John J. Daub, Jr., of Saltsburg, Pa., winner of the Aviation Contest recently conducted by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, stepped into the cabin of the air liner and made his start for the Detroit Aircraft Exposition.

The winner of this thrilling air trip is 16 years old, a senior at Kiski school, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Daub, former Pittsburghers. The lad's father is registrar at the Kiski school.

Young Daub is a tall, fine looking youth, and unusually studious. This was evidenced by the fact that he has passed his examinations for entrance to the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

As he boarded the Stinson this morning, he shook hands with Cliff Ball, manager of the Pennsylvania Airways. Young Daub was accompanied to the airport by his uncle, James C. Woodside, 5636 Elgin avenue; Mrs. Hal Williams and Mrs. Mary Rogers. He stopped at Cleveland on the way to Detroit and was to arrive at his destination at 4:55, after a three-hour lay-over in the former city.

At Detroit, he will be welcomed by officials of the National Aircraft Exposition and the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, and will be their guest until Friday, taking in the exposition and also getting a 60-mile airplane ride over Detroit.

Hearst Aerial Tour Thrills Boy Guests

DETROIT, April 5.—(Universal)—Nine boys from widely separated parts of the country today were enjoying the thrills of the National Aircraft Show as guests of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce and nine Hearst newspapers. Two other boys representing Hearst newspapers will arrive later.

The boys have come on a round trip by air for a two-day visit after winning an aviation essay contest conducted by the newspapers and the aeronautical body.

They were conducted through the Ford automobile factory yesterday. Following this they met well-known pilots at a luncheon given by Col. Arthur G. Goebel, winner of the Dole flight to Hawaii.

The boys went sightseeing here and in Windsor, Ontario. They also took a 60-mile flight on the international model air transport line being operated during the show.

The boys and the newspapers sending them are:

Raymond Stromer, Chicago Herald and Examiner; Shelby Krister, San Antonio Light; George Britt, Atlanta Georgian; John Stock, New York Journal; Edward Story, Washington Herald; Ira Lazarus, Albany Times Union; Kenneth Fletcher, Boston American; Robert Boyd, Omaha Bee News, and Richard Rioux, of the Chicago American.

Girl's Mysterious Death at Sea Probed

NEW YORK, April 5.—(INS.)—The strange death at sea of Miss Ivy Gush, 19, who died on board the Furness-Withy liner Rosalind a few hours after the vessel cleared from New York harbor, was being investigated today by authorities at Halifax, N. S., following the Rosalind's arrival there.

The girl's body, bearing no marks of violence, was discovered in her stateroom. Medical officials at Halifax are seeking to learn the cause of death.

LOTTERY RAIDED IN EAST END

County detectives today reported raiding one of the biggest numbers lottery headquarters in the city at 6514 Frankstown avenue.

The room was crowded with customers waiting for the nightly roll of dice when the detectives descended, seized adding machines and lottery books, and arrested Nick Cefalo, of 6517 Geary way.

The detectives said a clearing house lottery was conducted in the daytime and the dice lottery at night.

Detectives who conducted the raid were John Duderstadt, Laurence A. Kline, John Moser and Leo Dunn.

Cefalo was held for court by Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan today, charged with maintaining a lottery.

FOSDICK RITES PRIVATE

MONTCLAIR, N. J., April 5.—(AP.)—Because "of the publicity given this tragedy," plans for the funeral of Mrs. Raymond B. Fosdick, who killed herself after slaying her two children, will not be made public, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, brother of Mr. Fosdick, announced today.

Dr. Fosdick previously had said the notes left by his sister-in-law indicated she was of unbalanced mind. The Montclair police added that one of the rambling messages indicated she had at first planned to kill her husband, also.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., with whom Mr. Fosdick was associated as legal advisor, was a visitor at the home yesterday soon after the tragedy was discovered.

MOSCOW DEATH PLOT UNVEILED

MOSCOW, April 5.—(AP.)—Michael Kalinin, president of the U. S. S. R., came near being the victim of an assassin's bullet in the winter of 1928, the prosecution disclosed today at the trial of Judas Stern and Sergei Vassiliev, charged with the attempted assassination of Dr. Fritz Twardowski, the German embassy counselor, last month.

The disclosure came during an attempt by the prosecution to connect this recent attack and the plot against Kalinin through an anti-Communist organization with headquarters in Warsaw. The same organization, it was charged, was responsible for the assassination of the Soviet ambassador to Warsaw in 1928.

Vassiliev denied any connection with the organization, although yesterday he and the co-defendant admitted they had plotted the attack on the German diplomat under a "terrorist" order.

Appeal Life Term Given W. Va. Woman

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 5.—(AP.)—A petition seeking an appeal for Mrs. Minnie Stull, of Princeton, convicted of first degree murder in the fatal scalding of her 9-year-old stepson, Mickey, was presented to the State Supreme Court today.

The petition asked for a review of the case by the Appellate Court with the ultimate object of obtaining a reversal and a fourth trial for the Princeton widow sentenced to life imprisonment after she was convicted at her third trial.

Weather Conditions.

Relatively high pressure overlies the Atlantic coast states, and there is a center of high pressure over Missouri and Iowa. Centers of low pressure are located over Alberta, Utah, and between the Great Lakes and Hudson Bay. As a result of low pressure dominating such large areas, temperature moderated considerably since yesterday. There were no freezing temperatures reported this morning except in portions of the Rocky Mountain states, and in the states along the Canadian border.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is 7.1 feet. Lock No. 7 Mon. 14.2; Pittsburgh 17.0; Dam No. 4, 13.2; Dam No. 3, 18.8; Dam No. 10, 18.8; Dam No. 12, 20.6. The dams are down.

FAWCETT EXILE IN JUNGLE HELD VOLUNTARY

Brazilian Tells of Meeting Englishman in Wilds, Who Refused Return to Home

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP.)—Telmo Araujo, who believes he saw Col. P. H. Fawcett, "lost" English explorer, in the Brazilian jungle about 1927, today said the colonel may be a voluntary exile from civilization.

A meeting in the jungle with an Englishman who said he was "not going back" to civilization, was described by Araujo, son of a Brazilian rubber exporter and now a resident of Washington.

The region where he says he met the mysterious white man is near that in which Stephen Rattin, a Swiss trapper, recently reported feeting Fawcett and receiving from him a message asking to be rescued from Indian captivity.

TELLS OF MEETING

Araujo said he led an expedition in 1925 into the Matto Grosso jungle looking for rubber. The party traveled down the Madeira and Guapore rivers and camped at the head of a tributary of the latter, known as the River of St. John. One day, after the expedition had been in the region about two years, Araujo became lost while traveling alone. He said:

"One afternoon I was walking through the jungle, when I saw a white man coming toward me. When he saw me he stood still and waited for me to approach. He was about 50 years old, of medium height, blonde, a touch of gray in his hair, with blue eyes and a long beard such as all white men grow in the jungle. His khaki shorts were tattered, his shirt falling to pieces, and on his feet were native rubber shoes.

"I went up to him and asked him who he was and if he were lost.

"'I am an Englishman, and I am not lost,' he told me.

"I asked him whether there was a town nearby where he lived. He told me he lived with Indians about ten days away from that spot, but he would not tell me what Indians or in what direction his camp lay.

REFUSES TO TELL NAME

"I said to him, 'Don't you want ever to go back to your home?' and he said, 'never. I hate that life.'

"I looked straight at him and said: 'Are you Col. Fawcett?'

"'Never mind about that,' he replied. 'I am not going back.' He carried no gun, but was armed with a belt knife.

"Later he got up and walked away in the jungle. I saw he wanted no one to follow him, so I, too, went my way.

"Returning to Manaos, I told my story, and everyone there said the native rumors exactly agreed with it: that the Indians believed Fawcett never wanted to reach home again."

Fawcett disappeared in the Matto Grosso region, a vast unexplored jungle area of Brazil, seven years ago. It was generally believed he was lost in the jungle or killed by Indians.

Father Shot, High School Girl Held

TUCKERTON, N. J., April 5.—Fifteen-year-old Pauline Crosta, a freshman in the Barnegat High School, was arrested last night charged with shooting and perhaps fatally wounding her father, Amos Crosta, a bayman. In the jail here, Pauline said her father came home intoxicated and beat her mother. Pauline said he then turned from his wife and advanced toward her menacingly, she added.

"I took the shotgun from the wall brackets and pointed it at him for a bluff. It discharged accidentally."

Viscount Divorces Daughter of Actor

LONDON, April 5.—(INS.)—Viscount Ratendone, son of the viceroy to India, today was granted a divorce from the former Maxine Forbes-Robertson, daughter of Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, the actor.

Frederick Miles, an instructor at the Shoreham Aerodrome, was named in the suit, which was not contested.

DEMOCRATS ACT FOR PEACE AT CONVENTION

Barkley, Roosevelt Man, Chosen Keynoter; Shouse, Raskob Candidate, to Rule

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, April 5.—Democratic leaders here today predicted that the party's national committee will ratify the selection of Senator A. W. Barkley, of Kentucky, and Jouett Shouse as temporary chairman and permanent chairman, respectively, of the national convention which convenes in Chicago June 26.

Senator Barkley and Shouse were named last evening by the Democratic committee on arrangements following a day devoted to much wrangling.

Choice of the Kentucky Senator as the convention's keynote speaker and of the Democratic chairman of the executive committee as the man who will wield the gavel at the voting proceedings was characterized as a compromise.

VICTORY FOR ROOSEVELT

The factor working for the nomination of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York supported Senator Barkley while the selection of Shouse as permanent chairman favored the so-called Smith-Raskob-Shouse element.

Gov. Roosevelt participated in yesterday's committee deliberations by telephone. His campaign manager James H. Farley, called Albany during the noon recess. The New York governor talked to Mrs. John C. Greenway, national committeewoman from Arizona.

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, led the opposition to the Roosevelt forces in the committee's deliberations and was in the forefront of the fight to name Shouse.

Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia nominated Senator Barkley and Robert Jackson of New Hampshire, moved the nomination of Shouse.

BEAUTY EXPERT TALKS ON ROUGE

Accentuating the eyes is the season's smart touch in proper make-up and it must go hand in hand with a natural color blend of the face, according to Barbara Gould, internationally famous beauty expert who is in Pittsburgh this week.

Make-up must be natural to bring out charm, Miss Gould explained in emphasizing that the extreme rouge and lipstick of several season's ago is passe. She explained:

"A well-cared for skin is the most important factor in beauty makeup. While rouge and powder is secondary to this, yet they are important. The coloring should blend with the natural skin tone and the rouge must not look artificial.

"The purpose of my visit is to be able personally to advise my friends what tones are proper for their skin. The woman of 40 years cannot expect to use the same beautifications that a girl of 20 finds proper."

Miss Gould is appearing daily at Kaufmann's department store, where she is giving advice to all inquiries. Demonstrations are held to show the proper methods of applying rouge and eye tone. She is giving daily radio talks over Station WJAS.

Paris Movies Close In Taxation Protest

PARIS, April 5 — (INS) — For the next 24 hours at least, French and American movie fans in Paris will have to get along without their Hollywood favorites. Cinemas, cabarets and theaters throughout France closed at midnight in protest against government taxes aggregating 35 per cent.

Parisians in search of amusement tonight will have to depend upon the Opera Comique, the Comedie Francaise, the Odeon and other state-owned institutions, which alone are remaining open.

Pittsburghers Named On State's Council

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 5.—Two Pittsburghers have been given state positions with the Greater Pennsylvania Council. Clement L. Perkins, has been made an expert research engineer, at a salary of $4,500 a year and Earl C. Petrie, a ceramic engineer, at a salary of $2,400.

George P. Murray, Jr., of Bridgeville, Allegheny County, has been named a special deputy attorney general. His salary is $4,000.

PRINCESS HELEN

Rumania's divorced and self-exiled Princess Helen, who'll return to Bucharest to become King Carol's queen—but only if Magda Lupescu is banished.

HELEN DEMANDS RIVAL'S EXILE

BUCHAREST, April 5.—(INS)—The return of the Princess Helen as Queen of Rumania today hinged upon whether Magda Lupescu, King Carol's former companion in exile, is banished definitely from the country without royal retainers.

This was established at a formal visit paid Helen by Carol last night at which the monarch begged his divorced wife to return.

Helen, however, remained firm in demands that Mme. Lupescu give up the Chateau Beleme near Paris, and her annuities from the royal exchequer.

King Carol, who was backed in his appeal to Helen by his mother, Queen Marie, gave no indication of a willingness to accede to the demands, it was said.

Mt. Vernon Purchase By U. S. Advocated

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(INS)—A congressional committee today initiated a movement for government ownership of Mt. Vernon, the Washington estate on the Potomac.

A resolution approved by the House Public Lands Committee directs the Secretary of Interior to ask the Mt. Vernon Ladies' Association its terms for the transfer of Mt. Vernon to the government.

FINLAND HAILS LIQUOR AFTER 12 YEARS

Return of Legal Drinking Observed Quietly; Cafes Yield in Price Rules

International News Service.

HELSINGFORS, April 5.—Finland's 12 years of prohibition came to an end today, and the government went into competition with bootleggers to supply the country with alcoholic liquors.

Haltingly at first, but with gradually increasing smoothness as the day progressed, the new government liquor industry swung into motion and the closing hour for official alcohol dispensaries was greeted with protests and ironic cheers for prohibition.

No liquor was sold in hotels or restaurants until the late afternoon, owing to a disagreement between proprietors and the government over high prices and the margin of profit allowed them, with the result that during most of the day Helsingfors was actually drier than at any time in the last 12 years.

The restaurant owners finally capitulated, however, and began serving liquor under conditions dictated by the government monopoly.

The first day of John Barleycorn's legal return passed without untoward incident. The demand at the liquor shops was chiefly for beer and vodka, but cognac and whisky enjoyed a good sale. Women were among the first buyers.

The government liquor shops opened promptly at 10 a. m. Long lines of buyers were before each shop despite a sleet storm which made the wait uncomfortable. In some places the purchasers had been in line from 5 a. m.

Bootleggers will attempt to supply liquor at lower prices than the government offers, while the government will renew a campaign against them dropped last December when the country passed the dry referendum.

Government prices, generally considered high, were quoted as follows: Bottle of Esthonian schnapps 50 cents, imported Scotch whisky $2 to $3.50, brandy up to $5, gin $2, and wines $1.50 to $3.

PAULETTA PLEA UP TOMORROW

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., April 5.—(AP)—James Cann, attorney for Frank Pauletta, accompanied by Judge M. A. Musmanno, of Pittsburgh, will leave here tomorrow for Charleston to present a petition to Gov. William G. Conley asking that he commute the death sentence of the 45-year-old coal miner to life imprisonment.

Judge Musmanno will visit Pauletta in the death cell in the Moundsville Penitentiary today and will come here tonight for a conference with Cann. Mrs. Bruno Yank, Pauletta's daughter, is threatened with appendicitis and cannot make the trip, Cann said last night.

Cann said that 15 petitions circulated locally had been returned to him, bearing about 3,000 names. Six more petitions will be brought in today. Cann said he expected more than 5,000 persons will have urged commutation of the sentence, counting the miners in Coverdale, Pa., where Pauletta spent part of his life as a fugitive after his escape from jail here.

Freed from Ohio Pen, Faces Charges Here

William Kintz, 31, of Derry, Pa., was brought here from the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus, by deputy marshals and turned over to U. S. Marshal J. C. McGregor, to be arraigned in Federal Court on a charge of violating a probation sentence imposed by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker on June 6, 1927.

While under a three-year probation for stealing interstate freight he was arrested January 15, 1930, at Shreve, O., on a charge of pointing firearms, and sentenced to the penitentiary at Columbus, which sentence he just completed.

SIGNAL LIGHTS LINKED TO LINDY HUNT

Boat Flashes Message to Car On Shore; Curtis Believed Dealing With Kidnapers

MOVES SECRETLY

Taking a part in the hunt, which has developed in more mystery each day, he has appealed for freedom from questioning about his movements. A police statement said:

"Col. Lindbergh feels that under existing circumstances he should be privileged to move without the incumbrance of either check-up or accounting."

Driving his car near the flying colonel slipped off his estate last midnight after the second airplane journey. About 3:30 p. m. yesterday he and his closest friend, Col. Henry Breckinridge, climbed over a back fence at Newark Airport and sped away in a borrowed plane capable of 180 miles an hour.

CARRY BLANKET

Later in the afternoon a plane identified only by number as the craft carrying Lindbergh was seen cruising over Martha's Vineyard Island. It was in this vicinity also that Col. Lindbergh was reported seen flying Sunday, with three other men. Residents of the island said the four had inquired for a small yacht, Sailor.

When Lindbergh and Breckinridge started their flight yesterday, they carried a suitcase and a blanket. Many conjectures arose as to the reason for this, but none was verified.

Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University, who called at the Lindbergh home with his wife, said an "air of optimism" prevailed. Mrs. Hibben said Mrs. Lindbergh was bearing up well.

CURTIS STILL AWAY

John Hughes Curtis, one of three Norfolk, Va., intermediaries who believe they have established contact with the kidnapers, was away from his home on another mysterious journey that has lasted since Saturday. There were reports, unconfirmed, that he also had headed for Martha's Vineyard.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, of the state police, in his morning bulletin today said his headquarters had not requested the activities in Martha's Vineyard, and they "are probably an independent investigation by some other department."

MRS. CURTIS RETURNS

NORFOLK, Va., April 5.—(AP)—Mrs. John Hughes Curtis, wife of one of three Norfolk men endeavoring to arrange the return of the stolen Lindbergh baby, returned today after a week's absence and refused to say whether her trip had been made in connection with the negotiations.

Mrs. Curtis would not discuss the matter until her husband, now away on a mysterious mission in connection with the case, returned to the city. She said she expected his return within the next 24 hours.

When asked where she had been and if her trip was in the interest of the negotiations, she replied:

"I prefer to say nothing about it until Mr. Curtis returns."

Her husband was away on a trip which the negotiators have announced was in the interests of the Lindbergh case.

Mrs. Curtis left on her trip a few hours after the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, another intermediary, returned from a visit to the home of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. At that time Dean Dobson-Peacock announced that Col. Lindbergh had requested him, Curtis and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, to carry on with their work.

SLEUTH SILENT IN LONDON

LONDON, April 5.—(AP)—Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, of the New Jersey State Police, who came here in connection with the investigation of the Lindbergh kidnaping case, spent last night in London and did not go to Glasgow as he planned to do yesterday.

The Major was uncommunicative this morning. He said he could not say a word about his mission and left his hotel before noon for an unannounced destination.

This evening it was learned that he had spent more than an hour at Scotland Yard during the afternoon.

Lindy Clue Found In Bottle Held Hoax

BALTIMORE, April 5.—(INS)—Police were inclined to consider another "Lindbergh clue" as a hoax, after examining a floating bottle found in Chesapeake Bay by Julian Shapiro.

The bottle bore the photograph of Al Capone on one side, and Mrs. Anne Lindbergh and the kidnaped baby on the other. Within was a message printed in Greek characters. They spelled "The kidnapers are in Baltimore."

Cat Saves Detroit Family From Fire

DETROIT, April 5.—(INS)—Cries of Tom, their black cat, early today saved the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Kapitauens, seriously burned when flames almost destroyed their home. Awakened by the cat, the couple discovered the house ablaze with flames barring the doorways. They fought their way outside, suffering severe face and arm burns in the escape.

3 SMALL BOYS HURT BY AUTOS

Roland Anatole, 2, of 314 McKee place, and Jackie Fagan, 4, of 316 McKee place, were struck by an automobile when they walked into the street in front of their homes, according to police report. Roland was taken to Montefiore Hospital and the older boy to Magee Hospital. Albert Tronzo, 19, of 3209 Elsinore square, alleged driver of the car, was arrested.

Oliver Horvatz, 10, of 914 Pine way, Braddock, suffered a fracture of the right leg when he was struck by an automobile in Forbes street, near Beechwood boulevard. He was taken to Children's Hospital.

Curtis Carson, 22, of Box 4, Allenport, and Dale Christer, 23, of 733 Washington street, Charleroi, suffered cuts and bruises when their automobile collided with another at Hartwell street and Noblestown road.

Mrs. Mary Huffman, 60, of 312 Otella street, was struck by an automobile in Monastery avenue, near South Eighteenth street extension. She was taken to South Side Hospital.

Henry Silver, 34, of 5841 Nicholson street, was in Allegheny General Hospital today from injuries suffered when he was struck by a motorcycle in East Ohio street, near Heinz street. Edward O'Malley, 21, of Steuben street, driver of the motorcycle, was arrested, according to police.

Metro Club Suspects Seek to Prove Alibi

Alibis were to be offered by a dozen witnesses today when the trial is resumed in Youngstown to determine whether Fred Bowser, Hot Marino and Donald Joyce must return here to face indictments for the holdup of the Metro Club February 13.

Louis Finegold, from whom $100 was taken in the holdup, testified yesterday that Bowser held him up with a pistol, and that Joyce ordered him out of the club.

Port Vue Man Held In Fire at Home

John Kovatich, 50, of 312 Loretta street, Port Vue, was committed to jail today on a District Attorney's detainer at the instance of Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr. Pfarr charged that he had found pieces of fuse and gasoline cans in the ruins of the Kovatich frame dwelling, destroyed by fire Sunday night, while the family was away.

5 PATROLMEN DISMISSED AT CORAOPOLIS

Burgess, Councilmen Clash Over Chief's Dismissal; Crowd Storms Meeting

Burgess F. C. Gangloff and Coraopolis Borough Council battled last night, the councilmanic majority firing five more policemen, who observers said were dismissed in retaliation for the burgess forcing the ouster of Police Chief Leonard Kieszek.

Following the meeting a warrant charging aggravated assault and battery was served on the disposed police head by C. R. Dickerson, member of the Coraopolis Negro Improvement League, on an information made before Justice of the Peace George Kaszer. Kieszek was suspended by Burgess Gangloff for alleged mistreatment of two Negroes, chicken theft suspects, after a public hearing last Thursday.

CROWD FILLS ROOM

The meeting, attended by a crowd that jammed Council chambers, was thrown into disorder when Councilman James Ciconne moved Kieszek be discharged, after President of Council George O. Dickey read Burgess Gangloff's communication telling Council of the suspension of the chief and two other patrolmen.

The motion for Kieszek's dismissal was seconded by Councilman G. F. Colvin. The crowd ignored the rules of order by applauding and booing the speakers. A throng which gathered outside the Municipal Building heard the clash through a public address system.

Burgess Ganloff then launched a tirade against Kieszek. Justice of the Peace Kaszer attempted to speak, but was ruled out of order by Dickey.

Following council's dismissal of Kieszek, Councilman I. K. Fleming, chairman of the Public Safety Committee, moved to dismiss officers Arthur Newell, Henry Rhodes, Samuel Rawe and Joseph Conway. The motion was seconded by Councilman Louis Hofaker and carried. Fleming charged the quartet was equally guilty with Kieszek because, he alleged, they failed to intefere while the chief allegedly maltreated Thomas Phoenix, one of the suspects.

NEW CHIEF SCORED

Ciccone then charged Officer Joe Seara, later elected to succeed Kieszek, had known more of the case than anyone else and because he had not "talked" at the hearing was due for election as chief.

The last to be dismissed was Louis Redeobaugh on charges of drunkenness while on duty.

Ernest Steele, John Brush, Joseph Dawson, and Patsy Nordi were elected to succeed the dismissed men.

Council had to recess to clear the chambers of the crowd before proceeding with routine business.

3 Seize Auto, Cash Of Homestead Man

Police today were seeking three armed men who drove away in the machine of John J. Britt, of Hazel avenue, Homestead, after holding up and robbing him of a small amount of money and jewelry in Brinton avenue, East Pittsburgh, shortly before midnight.

Britt told police he was forced from the machine with two companions, robbed of $4 and a small amount of jewelry and told to keep walking. His companions were not molested, he said.

Forty Lose Lives In Rumanian Flood

BUCHAREST, April 5.—(INS)—At least 40 persons were reported to have lost their lives in floods throughout Rumania today. Eight railway lines and a dozen bridges in Transylvania were washed out. The factory district of Klausenburg was inundated.

Miners Find House On Fire, Save Family

LATROBE, Pa., April 5.—Miners returning from work early today discovered the home of Mike Hanik in Snydertown ablaze and aroused Hanik, his wife and son. The loss is about $3,000.

PRIZE IN FOX HUNT!

JOE MARFLAK, 24 . . . HE SMOKED HIS FOX FROM A HOLE

Hunter Marflak, 34 Elson street, North Side, who made the catch in the fox hunt staged by 200 in Ohio River boulevard, near McKees Rocks Bridge, when this young one mysteriously appeared. Joe thinks he'll give it to a zoo. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Barbers' War Cuts Haircuts To 20 Cents

MONESSEN, April 5.—Haircuts in Monessen—like potatoes in the song—are cheaper.

It all started last week when the Barbers' Association voted to reduce the price from 50 to [illegible] cents.

Yesterday, when all shops are supposed to close at noon under an association agreement, Louis Reillo not only kept open but cut his price to 30 cents.

Right across the street Jesse Garfolo observed his competitor's move and cut the price to 25 cents.

Louis promptly cut it to 20 cents—and that's the situation today, with business reported brisk.

3 HELD IN QUIZ IN VET'S DEATH

North Side police today are holding a woman and two men, following raids in two alleged speakeasies as they pushed their investigation into the death of Oliver C. Reed, 60, Spanish-American War veteran, of 207 West Ohio street.

Reed's body was found in an alley near Jacksonia street, with his pockets turned inside out. An autopsy disclosed he died of acute alcoholism.

Louis Owens, 45, of Loraine street, companion of Reed, said they had been drinking at 12 Sampson street and at 1407 Sandusky street. At the former address, Kenneth Wright was arrested with three men and a woman. Wright was fined $50 by Magistrate Ray Schneider today, charged with keeping a disorderly house. The visitors were discharged.

At the Sandusky street address, Mildred Hoag, 34; Lawrence O'Malley, of California avenue, and Owens were arrested. Police say they believe Reed died in the Sandusky street house and was taken to the alley, where the balance of his pension money, which he had just received, was taken.

Writer Arrested For Inciting Riot Pictures

SZOLNOK, Hungary, April 5.—(AP)—Ludwig Kasak, a writer, was arrested here today for incitement to photography.

The complaint charges him with having made a speech in which he urged working class camera fans to snap not only life, landscapes and so forth, but "real life" subjects, such as riots and police repressive measures.

The authorities said his advice was a menace to public order.

DORMONT CUTS SCHOOL BUDGET

General budget reductions totaling nearly $24,000 were made by the Dormont School Board last night to bring school expenses within the reduced tax rate and forestall a deficit arising from delayed tax payments.

Economies effected included a tax reduction from 17 to 16 mills, a 20 per cent salary cut of the board's secretary, treasurer and solicitor, a 10 per cent salary slash of all teachers receiving more than the maximum of $1,400 to $1,600 set by the Edmonds act, and a decision to close borough schools two weeks in advance of the regular schedule. Supt. Ralph Radcliff, employed under contract, voluntarily took a 10 per cent salary cut.

100 PASS STOP SIGN, ARRESTED

Alleged failure to observe a boulevard "stop" sign at the intersection of Evergreen and Wible roads, Shaler Township, resulted in the arrest of more than 100 motorists yesterday.

The patrol at the intersection was established on orders of township commissioners who said similar patrols will be established throughout the township until motorists observe the signs.

Those arrested were notified to appear for hearings before Justice of the Peace Mehrlich. Failure to stop at the signs is a violation of a township ordinance and the state highway code.

Pattern 2318

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN

By ANNE ADAMS

It's nothing at all to make, but most effective when finished. The diagonal closing and the buttons are really only two of the details and make the model smart. The sleeves are just the right length, the skirt pleat in front is just the right width, and for all practical purposes, there are no pleats in back.

Pattern 2318 is obtainable only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 44. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 36-inch fabric.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

Dentists . . . are proud of their own teeth

They don't want you to lose yours either. They warn you to care for your gums.

To take a look at most dentists, you might be inclined to think that they had chosen the dental profession because they could boast fine, sound, perfect teeth themselves. Your dentist would laugh a hearty laugh at such an idea. He knows that his teeth are good and yours will be good—if you start, as he did, to care for your gums in time.

More than half of the adult teeth lost are due to that dread gum infection, pyorrhea. When it starts, you never know—and it may take five years, ten years and even longer before it causes the loss of even one tooth. The right time to watch your gums is now, right now.

It doesn't pay to ignore pyorrhea. You simply must have professional dental advice about twice a year and when you take up seriously the home treatment of your teeth, it will pay to use a toothpaste perfected by a dentist. Dr. R. J. Forhan devoted a lifetime to pyorrhea treatment. His professional formula is embodied in Forhan's Toothpaste. It's the finest toothpaste money can buy, with an extra-protection feature in its special formula. Don't let pyorrhea get started. Use prevention. Use Forhan's. Use it twice a day—old and young. It's never too early to start the children on Forhan's, the double-duty toothpaste, at all drug stores.

GERMAN BUDGET OMITS DEBTS

BERLIN, April 5 (AP)—For the first time since the close of the World War the German budget for the fiscal year 1932-33, which is in the course of preparation, makes no provision for reparations payments, it was understood today.

The government is making an effort to balance national accounts at roughly 8,500,000,000 marks (about $2,140,000,000). The omission of reparation payments from the budget is in line with the declaration of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening that Germany is unable to pay them.

Chancellor Bruening sent a letter early this year to the British ambassador in which he stated Germany no longer was able to pay reparations, and later this was supplemented with an explanation that it was not a case of not wanting to pay, but the Reich was without capacity to meet reparations payments.

PITT VITAMIN TEST SUCCESS

After years of experiment Dr. C. G. King, young professor of chemistry at University of Pittsburgh, has succeeded in isolating and recrystallizing Vitamin C, an achievement which is expected to aid the medical world in diagnosing and preventing disease.

Dr. King's successful experiment solves a mystery which has puzzled science for many years. Scientists have known the effects of the vitamin but never had been able to discover how it accomplished its work.

Dr. King's experiment was conducted on guinea pigs. The pigs were fed the vitamin which was concentrated from lemon juice.

PINCHOT SIFTS CONOVER ROW

The stir in local medical and social circles caused by the dismissal of Dr. John R. Conover from his post as county medical director has moved Gov. Pinchot to investigate the case, it was learned today as his successor, Dr. Eugene Conti, a nephew of County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, and sponsored by the commissioner, prepared to be sworn to office.

Medical men and leaders of social agencies poured protests into the Governor's office when it became known that Dr. Conover had been removed from office.

The rumor that Gov. Pinchot had rescinded the dismissal order could not be verified.

UNION PAINTERS REPLACED

Non-union painters are continuing the work on major construction projects halted by a strike of union painters a few days ago according to a report to a special meeting of the Employing Painters of Pittsburgh in the North Side Chamber of Commerce Hall last night. The meeting was attended by 22 of the 30 contractors who constitute the organization.

The employers voted to stand by their offer of $9 a day, a 25 per cent cut from the present $12 scale. They also rejected the one-year agreement of $10.20 a day offered by the union. The scale expired April 1.

Work has been resumed on the Buhl Foundation, the new Islam Grotto Building, the Felician Sisters Academy, Coraopolis Heights and other projects, according to P. A. Freyvogel, vice president of the employers group.

Pitt Police College Plans Considered

Discussion of plans for establishing of a police college at the University of Pittsburgh will be undertaken tomorrow afternoon when Public Safety Director James M. Clark and Supt. Peter P. Walsh meet with members of the Pitt faculty. It is expected the necessary registration fee will be decided and arrangements made to request City Council to defray this tuition cost for each policeman in the city.

Butter and Egg Men Protest Peddling

Peddlers of butter and eggs from other states wreak a hardship on legitimate dealers in the city, it was charged today by the Pittsburgh Butter and Egg Exchange in a protest to Council. A hearing was requested. Council took the protest under advisement.

The exchange Council was informed, believes peddlers should be required to obtain municipal licenses.

Other speakers will include I. I. Bohannon, electrical engineer of the Brown-Dorrance Electric Company, and J. Rosenberg, of the C. V. Hill Company.

Relief Bond Issue Proposal Attacked

A protest from the Washington Heights Board of Trade against the proposed $5,000,000 bond issues to be voted on at the April 26 primaries was in Council's hands today. The Trade Board charged that the tax rate would by necessity be increased. Should the bond issue pass at the polls, the money would be used for public works improvement projects for unemployment relief.

ESSAY CONTEST ENDS, EDITOR DELUGED

Nearly 100,000 Competitors In District; Committee Soon to Start Judging

The essay contest on George Washington's Farewell Address which closed yesterday, brought hundreds of essays from college, high and grammar schools and homes.

Uncle Sam's postal men delivered many to the contest editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, while some of the schools sent their packages by messenger.

The schools' contributions averaged 10 to 1,000 written, many boards made up of teachers and principals selecting the best and forwarding them.

When they are arranged, members of the general judging committee will be given the essays, to decide which of the entrants will be recipients of the more than 500 awards. The decision of the judges will be final.

Many of the essays showed individuality, and they graded high in mental alertness and interest. Many were well written, and even the youngest of the participants displayed keen interest in the principles of the first President.

The general appreciation of the farewell address is indicated by the estimate of essays written, nearly 100,000 youths under 21 having studied and written on the address in this district.

TWO MEN LOSE DIVORCE PLEAS

Judge Frank P. Patterson denied the pleas of two men for divorces in Common Pleas Court, yesterday.

He ruled that William Roy Phillips, Foster road, McKeesport, by his own admission had filed his divorce suit in collusion with his wife, Zelda Pauline Phillips, Fite Station, McKeesport, who wanted the divorce and previously had filed and dropped a suit.

Charles Shields, 1005 Sycamore street, Turtle Creek, was not a victim of cruel and barbarous treatment from his wife, Martha Shields, 1149 Broadway, East McKeesport, the court held. Judge Patterson said:

"On two occasions she threw a dish at him, without any attendant circumstances which indicated danger to him. He further complains that she said she would put pills in his coffee, but there is nothing to indicate the threat was seriously made or that he was put in fear thereby."

Doubts Columbus First Visited Treeless Isle

MIAMI, Fla., April 5.—(AP.)—Wherever Columbus may have first landed in the "New World," it was not on the island of San Salvador, says Dr. David Fairchild, botanist and explorer, who has just returned from a three-month scientific expedition in the Bahamas and the West Indies.

To support this belief he offered geological and botanical evidence gathered on his recent trip. He said:

"The diary of Columbus describes the landing place as an island that supported a huge forest. However, it is beyond the imagination that San Salvador ever was forested. We visited it and found only brush."

Political Prisoners Flee, Kill Policeman

LISBON, April 5.—(AP.)—Six political prisoners, one with a pistol furnished presumably by a woman visitor, escaped yesterday from Aljube prison here after killing a policeman who tried to prevent their flight.

PARCEL POST RATES RAISED

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP.)—An increase in parcel post rates within the first four zones—estimated to bring in $7,500,000 in new federal revenue—will be made effective October first.

Officials of the Postoffice Department decided on the rate late yesterday. The Interstate Commerce Commission approved the increase March 15, suggesting the increase be deferred until mail order houses, which had objected to the increase, had ample opportunity to revise their catalogues and make arrangements for the new tariff on their packages.

The changes would increase rates from 7 cents to 8 cents for the first pound in zones one and two with an average increase of approximately 3 cents over present rates for parcels weighing from two to 70 pounds. Rates in the other zones are increased proportionately.

300 BACK G. O. P. STATE TICKET

The three candidates heading the ticket of the state Republican organization were indorsed at a meeting last night in Allegheny County campaign headquarters in William Penn Hotel of about 300 workers of the Twelfth Legislative District.

The principal speeches were made by William H. Coleman, Allegheny County campaign chairman, who presided, and State Senator James J. Coyne, Western Pennsylvania field marshal for the state organization.

Candidates indorsed are Senator James J. Davis, seeking a full term; Auditor General Charles A. Waters, candidate for State Treasurer, and State Senator Frank E. Baldwin, running for Auditor General.

Other speakers included Mrs. Laura J. Hinnau, vice chairman of the Regular Republican organization; Mrs. Gertrude McGinnity, of the Thirtieth Ward; W. E. Best, of Dormont; Burgess S. C. Lampe, of Greentree Borough; Burgess Al Kaufmann, of Brentwood; W. J. Craig, of Ingram; James Duff, of Carnegie; H. E. McWhinney, of Homestead; Harry Negley, of Crafton; Representative Joseph G. Steedle, of McKees Rocks, who probably will be indorsed for another term in the Legislature, and John Fugassi, of the County Road Department.

Things I Never Noodle Now!

(Give a Look and Have a Learn)

That it makes no difference who originated the expression "Hot-Cha." It is merely a sneeze spelled out.

That John Jacob Astor once bought Times Square for $25,000. At the time it was christened "Medcef Eden Farm."

That Hollywood has more private phone lines than all the other cities in the United States put together.

That all the profits earned by Paramount films in Hungary go to charities there. Adolph Zukor, Paramount chief, was born there.

That Galsworthy says the talkies will never kill the silent pictures. Not again, at any rate.

That the outlaws never refer to the federal government by that name or even as "Uncle Sam." They slanguage it this way: "No foolin' around with Whiskers—his arms are too long."

That men in Berlin are wearing spats trimmed with fur.

That J. Pierpont Morgan is the grandson of John Pierpont, a preacher, who set New England on fire with his anarchistic ideas.

That Dr. Mayo says in another 25 years we all may expect to attain the age of 70. The average age is now 58. (Too long.)

That an Oregon judge now adds $2.50 to every fine and turns it over to the unemployed. (Swelegant idea.)

That in Washington, D. C., there is a stage doorman, they say, who once was an asst. conductor at the Met. Opera.

That Mrs. Hoover's secretarial staff is now as large as the President's.

That the word "dunce" is derived from the name of the greatest of all British medieval philosophers.

That in her tale about him, Clare Boothe Brokaw reveals that Jimmy Walker can't help it. He was an hour late at his wedding.

That a Philadelphian was recently arrested for trying to start a fight with a wooden cigar store Indian. (Cold sober, too.)

That Lord Northcliffe, listed as the "greatest newspaper genius of all time," was also known as the greatest busybody.

That the late Eastman, who taught the world to snap shots, disliked photos. Which is why so few of him were found.

That a Chicago musician is now advertising three funerals for the price of two. (Anything to cheer you up, you know.)

That Peggy Conners is pessimine modest. In a London interview he says: "The trouble is that nowhere in the world is there one first-class hoss-rassler." This in love me, I am barely more than a novice.

That chorus girls on a Chicago liner are not allowed to take their fraus with them. (What a break!)

That when the Indians built a bridge over a canyon they always sent a dozen squaws over first to test its strength.

That men now get one-third of the divorces in Reno.

That they've proposed to be one half hour longer daylight on top of the Empire State edifice than on ground level.

That both parties are stuck for a Presidential slogan to match "Keep Cool With Coolidge." "Hoover and Prosperity." "He Kept Us Out of War." "Back to Normalcy" and similar amusing cracks.

That the term "grass widow" was originally "grace widow"—that is, a widow by grace of courtesy.

That Abraham Lincoln was born in a house which he helped his father to build. (Oh, don't be so clever!)

That in "Ladies of the Big House," when you saw Sylvia Sydney lean into a roaring torrent, you didn't. The gal who did it was Josephine McKim, a well-known amateur champion fish.

That Juan March, Spain's richest man, can't write his name.

That if you think you have it tough over here with the taxes—consider the gal who work in England. If they make $28 a week—they pay the government almost $6 a month for the privilege.

That at a Western university a most popular news figure vote revealed that Capone topped Vallee and Bow nosed out John D.

That California is now growing pink grapefruit.

That the author of "Mademoiselle from Armentieres" never received a penny for it. (And what punch lines!)

That according to George Gillingham Pathfinder every battleship carries 1,600 pounds of cheese (not including ensigns).

And that the latest silly is about the Scot who bought his six kids a each round (so they could all play it at once).

'THE DRAMA -:- News and Views About Stage and Screen -:- HOLLYWOOD

Browning-Barrett Romance Ends in Elopement At the Alvin

By GEORGE SEIBEL

A drama which no less than 27 American managers and stars read and rejected was played at the Alvin Theater last night before one of the largest audiences of the season, and received with such approval as few dramatic offerings elicit.

Mr. Seibel

"The Barretts of Wimpole Street," of course, is one of those things the average manager would view with cold disdain. "Who cares about Robert Browning anyway—or about costume and period plays?" That is the philosophy of the average manager—and he goes in for spice and wisecracks and gowns of latest chic. Every now and then the public rises up and shows that what it is really concerned about is good drama and good acting—which Rudolf Besier, the author, and Katharine Cornell, the star of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," have provided in this stage version of the Browning love story.

Besier has adhered rather closely to the outlines of the Browning life and letters, with considerable telescoping of dates and injection of anecdotes. It would have been a pity to omit that classic joke about the passage in "Sordello"—when he tells Elizabeth Barrett that "when I wrote that, God and Robert Browning knew what it meant, and God still knows, but Robert Browning has forgotten"—for besides being a classic joke it gets the biggest laugh of the evening. And it would have been fatal to let the action cover a few years instead of a few months, for the dynamics of the play require Browning to be as impetuous as he is handsome, to work an immediate cure in the morbid woman who believes herself dying, and to inflame her heart with a consuming passion.

The result of this process is a deep and moving drama. Almost from the start it moves along relentlessly as life—and to the end it goes onward remorselessly as death.

BESIER'S FINE DRAMA

Besier never wanders from his theme, and all the many members of the Barrett household are made to contribute to the building up of the main drama, as well-knit as any drama can be.

At the same time each character is so well drawn that some of them stand out more vividly than the stellar role, if there is one. Essentially the play belongs to the father of Elizabeth, played by Charles Waldron with diabolical force. Here is a villainous tyrant who doesn't know he is anything but a pious praying saint. Waldron's portrayal is a psychological masterpiece, executed with technical perfection. After Elizabeth has left with Robert, and the baffled father wants to wreak his vengeance on her dog, but finds the dog also beyond his reach, his thwarted rage is so marvelously portrayed that we wish Wilson, the maid, could have been there to see it as she wished.

Brian Aherne as the poet and lover also has a role of rich opportunities. He must be a Romeo with brains, a dreamer who is somewhat of a caveman, and a practical fellow with the eloquence of an Irish gypsy. Aherne does some of the most convincing quick-fire love-making seen in these degenerate and blase days. He looks like the young Browning, a sort of roast-beef Apollo, and he acts with all the impetuous poetry of a Hotspur inspired by fine old Sherry.

No wonder he cured Elizabeth Barrett and carried her off to Italy.

MISS CORNELL'S MASTERPIECE

That Elizabeth Barrett was Katharine Cornell, and it is the masterpiece of her acting career. Opening with the joy of resignation, it rises to a great calm of rapture and closes with a noble note of revolt. After all the flamboyant roles this actress has played here is something with the supreme artistry of a Rembrandt etching—and to praise Rembrandt is for auctioneers.

There are other fine portrayals. Margalo Gillmore as Henrietta is arch in her comedy and poignant in her despair. Myra Hampton as Bella Hedley captivates everybody with her "rhymes and rhythms." John Buckler as Capt. Cook is a rattling soldier, "not much brains for anything else." George Riddell as the old doctor is the very personification of stodgy Victorianism; while Brenda Forbes as Wilson gathers a gale of titters by merely gliding out of the door or across the room.

Then there is Flush, the dog. He acted so well that we are very glad he escaped the vengeance of old Barrett. His restraint, his soporific intelligence and his placid savoir-faire make him the superior of Rin Tin Tin, "whose manners have not that repose which stamps the caste of Vere de Vere."

He must feel very proud to be in such a fine play with such excellent actors and a production so atmospherically perfect.

Drama Star

Eugenie Leontovich portrays the dancer in "Grand Hotel," widely heralded play, which comes to the Alvin next week.

Plays and Players

—By WILLIAM J. LEWIS—

"Grand Hotel," Vicki Baum's dramatization of her own novel, translated by William A. Drake, will be the attraction in the Alvin next week with Eugenie Leontovich as Grusinskaia, the dancer, and Sam Jaffe as Kringelein, the bookkeeper, who is bent on making his last days merry. Albert Van Dekker will be seen in the role of the young Baron Von Gaigern. There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees. The box office sale of seats will open Thursday.

* * *

The sixth and final play of the Professional Players series in the Alvin will come to that theater Monday, April 18, when Constance Collier will return to the Sixth street legitimate stage as the star of "Hay Fever." She was seen there in October in the first P. P. play of the season, "Mrs. Moonlight." "Hay Fever," comedy by Noel Coward, originally was presented on Broadway several seasons ago, with Laure Hope Crews in the role now played by Miss Collier. As a revival, has just completed a run of three months on New York's main street.

* * *

The departments of music and drama, Carnegie Tech, will be united in the presentation of the Gilbert and Sullivan light opera, "The Gondoliers," in Carnegie Music Hall tomorrow and Thursday nights. The proceeds from the performances will be used as a student-aid fund in the departments of music and drama, and it is stated that "such a fund is imperative at the present time if deserving students of talent are to be enabled to continue their college course." This gives folks who have been guests of Tech's Little Theater, to which no admission is charged, an opportunity to pay in part for many pleasant evenings by purchasing seats for "The Gondoliers." The entertainment alone has an appeal that should be doubled by the thought that it is for a most worthy cause.

I. K. S. Players Offer Comedy Tonight

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the Theresa L. Kaufmann Theater, the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Players will present, as their second production of their 1932 dramatic series, the three-act comedy, "The Best People," by Avery Hopwood and David Gray. Included in the cast will be Anne Phyllis Hanick, Hyman Bennet, Hannah Golding, Victor Vitaro, Nat Fineberg, Myer Schwartz, Ruth Goldstock, Morris Rattner, Hyman Small, Isadore Rosenberg, Eleanor Frank and Eva Bernfeld. The play is under the direction of Louis Isaacs.

High Hat!

Bert Wheeler wears a tall hat, but he isn't a bit "high hat" in "Girl Crazy," opening Friday in the Warner.

'April Follies' In Academy

"April Follies," a burlesque in two acts and 36 episodes, is the current attraction in the Academy. Eddie Kaplan and Harry (Hello Jake) Fields again head the list of funmakers. Some of the featured skits are "April Showers and Sunshine" and the "Dance of the Sultan's Queens." The dancing of Darlin' Lucky is a highlight of the show. Two other scenes deserving comment were "Just a Flower," featuring the Four Merrymakers, a quartet; Mildred Collette, "blues" singer; Ina Thomas, dancer; Nina Vail, Kathleen Wiggins, Naomi Berger, singers, and Johnny Gilmore, comedian, are also prominent.

St. George Knights Will Stage Revue

The Knights of St. George players will give a "minstrel revue" Wednesday night in Langley Auditorium, Sheraden, for the benefit of St. Martin's Church.

Marian Nixon Will Play Rebecca

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 5.

Just because Janet Gaynor turned it down, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" shan't go a-begging for a star.

Fox officials believe they have found on their own lot the only other girl in Hollywood besides Janet who could play the part.

She is Marian Nixon, and she'll get the chance, with Al Santell directing as originally planned. The boy has not been selected as yet, but production will get under way in the near future. Just as I predicted, Janet and Charlie Farrell will co-star in "The First Year."

Marian Nixon

The idea to substitute Marian in "Rebecca" bobbed up early in the studio's difficulties with Janet. Hurried tests were made of her, and were first tried out on a group of feminine employes. They thought she was fine, so the tests were air-mailed to New York for a private showing before Fox bigwigs in the East. News of their concurrence has just been received.

So, on with "Rebecca."

AND SO TO GOSSIP

Since Norman Taurog has been preparing to direct "Hold 'Em Jail," he's averaged five calls a day from ex-convicts seeking a movie job. They give their alma-naters and tell what they were in for. Also what jobs they held in prison. . . . Janet Chandler, new Fox player, has 50 dancing trophies. She's from Pine Bluff, Ark., which also is Peggy Shannon's home town. Harvey Perry, ex-amateur boxing champion, and one of the films' best-known stunt men, tells me that James Cagney is the only actor who ever made a fight picture without using a double at any time. Even Jack Dempsey had doubles. . . Incidentally, Roy Del Ruth is heading back to Hollywood after looking over "Blessed Event," which will be Jimmie's next picture.

James Cagney

Drama of a Spy In German Cinema

By MILDRED FILLMORE

Melodrama moves into the German Cinema this week, with a thrilling spy story from the Russian front—"Im Geheimdienst" ("Secret Service"), in which Willy Fritsch is the dashing and subtle courier who saves the Teuton armies from defeat.

Brigitte Helm is the wife of a Russian major general, and of course there is love between her and the spy. He plays the violin divinely and has a way with the ladies.

A thrilling scene on the ice of the River Neva, with the czar's minions in pursuit of the gallant spy, is only the prelude to his triumph. Cunning traps and bold escapes alternate with glimpses of battle and interludes of love-making.

Melodrama with nothing left out—and victory at the end for the handsome hero on secret service in the key of F flat!

Suite for Orchestra, Opus 19 — Dohnanyi

Symphony No. 2, E Minor — Rachmaninoff

The Pittsburgh Orchestra Association closed its series of concerts by visiting orchestras last night with a second concert of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and a plea for continued support of their worthy plans. Never before did we wish more sincerely to hear again these Chicago musicians.

Mr. Lissfelt

It was a program close to Frederick Stock's heart, and although a lengthy one, it remained spirited to the last note of the symphony.

Even if it seems wearisome to single out individual perfections of this orchestra, there were such magnificent moments for the brass and woodwinds, for solo 'cello and violin, that the brilliance of their performance last night demands special mention.

Rachmaninoff's symphony is unfamiliar here though by no means a new work. He may deprecate the influence of Tschaikowsky, but it is there just the same, and Wagner and Liszt and some others, too. His themes are, in the main, original though not sufficiently rugged to crash through the frequently overladen orchestration. It is a melodic work; but that very characteristic which might win it popular approval cannot obscure the prolixity of the first movement.

Dohnanyi's suite we have heard recently enough to have been able to search among its treasures one by one. A gloriously happy bit of music, more cosmopolitan than usual from this writer, and played with elan.

Many of the audience confessed to yawns while the Parsifal music unfolded its sonorous tunes. Perhaps we are outliving Wagner, too. May I say for the playing of Stock, it was far more engaging than when I watched the awkward knights at Bayreuth, and for Wagner, that he achieved a better score than a drama for these scenes.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

"Hard-Luck" Charlie

REMEMBER THE actual story of the Canadian soldier who fought in the World War for almost four years, came home without a scratch, and broke his back two days later when he fell from a chair while trying to hang a picture? And are you familiar with the tale of Breitbart, the Polish strong man, who would rest on a bed of nails while truck horses walked over him—and finally died of blood poisoning when he scratched his finger on a rusty nail?

I ask you if you know these two episodes—but why I ask you is something that I really don't know myself. I must have had some idea in mind, or I never would have started that way. Oh, yes, I remember now. It's because the Canadian soldier and Breitbart and "Hard-Luck" Charlie all had something in common. At least, that's the way I figure it.

Consider Charlie for a moment. He was the average kid in the average small town along the Atlantic coast. He had the same hopes and dreams as the other boys, and he pictured the day that the entire town would honor him for his achievements. He was a good kid, and it was a pity that the nickname of "Hard-Luck" had to be pinned on him.

Yet, almost from the day that he was 10 years old, there it was. Things were forever happening to him. Unfortunate things through which none of the boys had to go.

As you know, every failure in life blames luck for his misfortune when it's lack of ability or just plain laziness that is responsible. With Charlie, however, it surely wasn't laziness. He was always in there trying his best. The only trouble was that his best wasn't enough.

The very first job he landed will show you exactly what I mean. He was working as an errand boy for the local grocer and he did fairly well in his first week. But, after three or four of the neighborhood stores had been burglarized, Charlie gave birth to a brilliant idea. And that was the beginning of the end.

Without saying anything to the boss, the young man devised a little scheme to fool the burglars. He rigged up a hidden contraption that would fire a load of buckshot at the intruder as soon as the grocery door was opened. Charlie was the first one in the store every morning—and all he had to do was pull a little string and the gun was swung aside. When he closed the place at night, he placed his invention in readiness once more.

All of which was very nice—for two days. On the third day the boss happened to arrive at the store before Charlie. When he opened the door, the boy's contraption worked beautifully. The boss went to the hospital, the job went to another boy and Charlie almost went to jail.

And, after all, he did mean well. No wonder they called him "Hard-Luck" Charlie . . .

No use going over the boy's life in detail. Regardless of what it was, no good could come of it in the end. The situation grew so bad that it became extremely difficult for Charlie to obtain any kind of a job. The man's future looked very dim indeed.

He had but one consolation, and that was his swimming ever since he was a baby. He almost lived in the water, and a two-mile journey into the ocean and back was nothing at all to him. They could say what they wished about the man, but there was one thing the neighbors couldn't take away from Charlie. He was unquestionably the finest swimmer the town had ever produced.

But, after all, what good was that one ability to him? Swimming is a pleasure that is difficult to commercialize, and Charlie wouldn't have known where to turn if he had received an opportunity to make some money out of it. So there he was again. The one thing he could do in magnificent fashion and without any attendant hard luck was the one thing that couldn't bring any cash.

Overnight came the big break. A business man in the Middle West, to advertise his product and his name, announced the fact that he would sponsor a marathon swim. To the winner would go a large sum of money and attendant publicity that would enable him to cash in for many years to come.

Charlie read about the stunt. And as he read, his heart bounced. Something told him that this was the opportunity of a lifetime. He just knew he couldn't miss. So he approached the local chamber of commerce and placed his cards on the table.

"You all know the kind of reputation I got," he asserted, "and you know that all the breaks I got in life this far have been pretty rotten. But there's one thing you can't take away from me. And that's my swimming.

"I ain't got a big head about my ability in the water. I just happen to know what I'm talking about. I don't think I've ever gotten tired in the water and a marathon swim would be my meat. The longer the distance, the more it will satisfy me.

"Listen, fellers. It would cost next to nothing to finance me. If something happens and I don't win the race, you haven't lost anything to get excited about. But if I won—wow! Do you realize what it would do for our town? Of course you do. It would mean that we'd be on the front pages all over the world. It would mean plenty of money for all of us. And all with a very small investment."

More along the same lines, and the business men saw the light. His enthusiasm was infectious and, moreover, the townspeople knew that he was right. It would mean plenty to them. So, after a short discussion, they agreed to back him.

Well, my friends, "Hard-Luck" Charlie began to receive praise for the first time in his life. His name was printed in all the papers, and cameramen came down to snap his picture. Every day he would swim for miles, and people would line the beach to pat the back of the man who was going to do or die for the old home town. The local boob had suddenly become the big hero.

The night before he was scheduled to leave for the marathon, the chamber of commerce tendered him a banquet. You know the type of thing. Good booze and bad speeches. But everything for Charlie. They made him take three or four drinks even though he said he was breaking training. They sang—or attempted to sing—parodies on the popular songs. They cracked local jokes and insulted each other's wives. Oh, it was all just too jolly.

In the morning, virtually the entire town was down to the station to see their hero off. But Charlie didn't show up. And for a very good reason.

Remember the Canadian soldier and Breitbart? I told you "Hard Luck" Charlie had something in common with them. The banquet and drinks had left Charlie very tired. And, while he was taking his morning bath, he had dozed off and drowned! . . .

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Lovely Katherine Cornell and her haunting voice brought to the Alvin last night one of the smartest audiences of the year to see "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," with members of both the younger and older sets there in large numbers.

During intermission the foyer, in which an orchestra played, was crowded. I saw Mrs. Joseph M. Scribner, who is interested in the Stage and Play Society, wearing a pumpkin yellow crepe gown having brief capes over the shoulders and with a long scarf tied at the back.

Emily Prew was in black velvet. Mrs. T. M. Jones III in heliotrope satin and Mrs. T. Howe Nimick in rust and gold lame.

In another group was Frances Fitzgerald in ivory satin and I saw Helen Tunnell wearing a gown of delicate cream lace and Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby in white satin.

Mrs. B. F. Jones III wearing a Kelly green crepe gown, was chatting with Mrs. George C. Burgwin in black lace. Margaret McCreary was in creamy angel skin lace and Mrs. R. Kent Hallson in deep violet crepe with a sash of scarlet and jade green.

Others I noticed in the attentive audience were Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr., Mrs. Felix B. Snowden in black lace and chiffon, and Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr., in dark blue crepe.

Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland wore an interesting gown of silver lace with a scarf of the lace draped about the shoulders and Catherine Scydam chose forget-me-not blue crepe made with long sleeves banded in kolinsky.

Betty Kennedy in flowered lame, arrived with her mother, Mrs. John J. Kennedy, in green satin, and Mrs. Bughman wore black crepe with sky-blue as accent.

Mrs. Herbert DePuy chose a gown of black velvet, and her daughter, Mrs. Frederick Ickes Merrick, black chiffon. Genevieve Bell was in rose crepe, Anita Tuttle in cream satin, and Mrs. J. I. Dawson Painter in black velvet. Others I had a glimpse of were the Carroll Fitzhughs, the William Bickles and the George Stevensons. * * *

The James Francis Burkes were the guests of Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley at the cabinet dinner last night in Washington given in honor of President and Mrs. Hoover. The cabinet officers and his wife were guests of the Burkes at the time of the Pitt-Army game. * * *

When John Langdon-Davies, author of "A Short History of Women" and other books, comes to town this week to give an address at the Nixon Theater under the auspices of the Thursday Morning Lecture Series, he will be honored at a luncheon in the William Penn Hotel following his talk.

$90,300 Raised By College Workers

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The College Club's bond saleswomen held another enthusiastic meeting yesterday at the clubhouse and next Monday will have what they expect to be their last one in the sales campaign. By that time they hope to have sold to the full extent of their $100,000 bonding power. Sales reported yesterday bring the total to $90,300.

Miss Cora Helen Coolidge spoke yesterday on the service of the College Club to the community. She called attention to the fact that the club is not a rival of any other club; that it has its own place in the community and that no other organization except the Y. W. C. A. welcomes strangers in the city. She suggested that a more definite linking up be made with things educational and that there be a definite connection with the Board of Education.

Mrs. George M. Swan, sales campaign chairman, then introduced a "fashion show" of the club's early days, the models showing ludicrous automobile and bicycle attire, the graduation dress worn by Mrs. Swan's mother and even the "foundation garments" and the "long-high" nightwear of the period. The models included Mrs. Wilson Scott, Mrs. M. W. St. John, Mrs. Samuel D. Ewart, Mrs. Howard Beatty Smith, Mrs. J. Clyde Whetzel, Mrs. Charles Simon, Mrs. J. Wallace Hopkins and Mrs. R. E. Somers.

The employes of the Twentieth Century Club, on their own initiative, have contributed 100 per cent to the Harris Family Help Family Plan. Mrs. Charles S. Shoemaker announced yesterday, after an appeal had been made by a representative of the plan.

Miss Eleanor Markell, talking on "The State of Mind in Germany as Revealed in the Novel," was the lecturer for the morning. She spoke of the work of Alfred Doblin, Leonhard Frank, Leon Feuchtwanger and Joseph Roth, prefacing her observations with the remarks that Germany is the most feverishly alive country she has ever visited in Europe, that it is one vast laboratory of experiment, and that the people, who once were willing to be led, are now beginning to think for themselves.

The "hour-by-hour" emergency employment plan, put into effect last week by Mrs. D. Edwin Miller, chairman of women's organizations of the Salvation Army, to give temporary aid to business and professional women who are out of employment, is bringing results. This is but one of the steps resulting from the meeting of club women in the Evangeline Residence of the Salvation Army last week.

Women Get Work

Under the new plan, the clubs send such needy persons with written recommendations direct to Mrs. Miller and she, with the aid of individual club women, seeks to find employment, permanent or for even an hour or two, for them or extends any other aid that is within her means.

Of the first half dozen applications received after the plan was launched, permanent employment has been found for two women and "hour-by-hour" engagements for two others.

Mrs. F. J. Hartman, piano, and Miss Ethel Tilley, soprano, with Mrs. H. P. McKown accompanying, gave the musical portion of yesterday's program for the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club. Two papers dealing with the "Playgrounds" in the different sections of the country were offered by Mrs. Helen Parker and Miss Lou Davis. Miss Irene McDermott and Mrs. C. B. Duff completed the literary program with papers on inland and artificial waterways.

Bishop Brown Discusses Buying at Press Club

In 1900 there was one pair of silk stockings for 246 women; today there are eight pairs for every women, Bishop Brown, of the research bureau for retail training at the University of Pittsburgh, speaking to the Women's Press Club yesterday cited this instance to show how buying has changed in the last 30 years. Ninety per cent of the country's retail buying is now done by women and women are more and more handling large sums of money with wisdom, he said, adding that out of this has grown a better way of living.

He went on to discuss the return of merchandise, saying that this "misuse of the credit privilege" costs the country $1,600,000 annually and Pittsburgh stores lost $16,000 in 1930.

The nominating committee elected at the directors' meeting includes Miss Mary L. Hay, the retiring president; Mrs. A. W. Smith, Jr., honorary president, and Miss Ruby Eiseman, a past president.

She Learned About Washday From Him — by C. A. Voight

I DROPPED IN TO SEE YOU ABOUT THE WASHER YOU SOLD ME. I CAN'T SEEM TO GET MY CLOTHES WHITE ENOUGH
IT'S PROBABLY THE SOAP YOU USE, MRS. GREEN. WHAT KIND ARE YOU USING?
DOES THE SOAP ACTUALLY MAKE SO MUCH DIFFERENCE?
I'LL SAY IT DOES. TRY RINSO NEXT TIME. THE SUDS ARE RICHER, MORE LASTING, AND THE WASH COMES OUT WHITE AS SNOW
LATER
I WAS TOLD TO USE RINSO IN MY WASHER. I HOPE I GET THICK SUDS WITH IT
I'M SURE YOU WILL. I'VE USED RINSO FOR YEARS — IT'S WONDERFUL!
NEXT WASHDAY
YOU WERE RIGHT, MR. WALLACE. RINSO IS WONDERFUL! IT MAKES THE THICKEST SUDS I EVER SAW AND GETS THE CLOTHES SNOWY
WHAT'S THIS—A NEW SHIRT? IT'S SO WHITE IT LOOKS NEW
THAT'S AN OLD SHIRT, DAN. THE REASON IT LOOKS SO WHITE IS BECAUSE I WASHED IT IN RINSO, TODAY

Excessive Frivolity Will Spoil Finer Things

Trix was a cute little tyke, just 17 and beginning to feel her oats, pretty as a pansy, peppy as a pup.

And her idea of the way to live was to lark around having a good time, and being the life of the party.

School? She loathed it! Why bother with dull stuff like algebra, when gypsy fires burned in her soul and all the boys were crazy about her?

We know she wouldn't give a snap of her pretty fingers for any advice we could give her, so we put it up to the rest of the girls—peppy, pretty kids like herself.

HAD GOOD TIMES

What could they tell her? Here's one youngster's answer:

"My dear Miss Martin—

"I believe I am qualified to answer Trix. May I try? Here goes:

"Trix, may I tell you something of myself first? My father died six weeks before I was born. My grandparents raised me. When I was seven my mother re-married, and my grandmother lived with us. We moved to a small town, a summer resort town. My mother helps in a little store we have. My grandmother passed away last Spring.

"From the time I was 15 I did just exactly as I pleased. I ran around with a crowd of fellows and girls a little older than myself. We dined. We danced far into the night. School work was neglected. This went on for quite a while, then people began to talk about 'That Indian'—meaning me.

"Without conceit, may I say that I am not a bad-looking girl? I can play the piano. I can sing a little. I dance fairly well. And I was very popular in 'our crowd.'

MADE POOR MARKS

"Well, one day, the superintendent issued a little notice in our school paper, saying that some of us would 'flunk' unless we got to work.

"My report card was nothing to brag about, and I was a sophomore. I chased around for a couple of years. I became a senior. The class elected officers and an 'annual' staff, and chose commencement speakers—all at the first year. At this time I became quite intimate with our class president. She told me she had proposed my name for a few of these offices, but my scholastic record was pretty low.

"Then I began to think. Where was I going, really? And I began to feel ashamed. I had the average person's intelligence, yet I had allowed myself to fall below the average. I looked back. I hadn't, in those years in high, received an 'A' in even one subject. I had been running wild.

"My mother wanted me to go to college, and I hadn't the grades. I began to take inventory of myself, and I decided I had been a silly child, just wasting my time on stuff that would get me nowhere—a fool—a self-satisfied idiot. No one could tell me to stop running around nights. I yelled at my mother. I made her miserable. And I couldn't go to college.

MENDED WAYS

"Well, I decided there was something more needed besides 'having a good time.' I decided to give myself two nights a week to go out. I studied. I slept. I put on 10 much-needed pounds. And it was a proud day when I graduated with an 'A' in five subjects.

"I'm 19 now, and, believe me, I'm not sorry I did look myself over that night! I have plenty of friends, but I'm not so anxious to run around as I was. And I have a nice boy friend who doesn't want a jazz hound with an unsavory reputation for a wife.

"I feel like a regular person now, but heaven help me if I had continued my frivolous flitting. I never would have been able to hold my head up as I can now.

"So, Trix, don't let yourself be fooled into thinking that 'all will be well so long as you have a good time.' Get next to yourself before it is too late!

"Belle."

That's a great letter, kid. I wonder if it will help the other little Trixes.

By FAY KING

Youngsters seem to be keenly interested in newspaper careers these days.

About all there is to writing is to have your facts in hand as accurately as possible and then say what you have to say as briefly and well as you can.

The best lesson you can get is to clip the same story from several newspapers and see how each has handled the same material.

Also clip a news item and study it carefully, then lay it aside and rewrite the same story yourself in your own way.

Jack London's advice to ambitious writers cannot be improved upon. He said:

"There is only one way to make a beginning and that is to begin, with hard work and patience, prepared for all the disappointments."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Hardened Arteries Due to Poisoning of Tissues

One of the common ailments is referred to as hardening of the arteries. The doctors call it arteriosclerosis.

Dr. Copeland

This is a chronic condition of the arteries in which the walls of the vessels become less elastic and thicker than normal. Although most common in advanced life, especially after the sixtieth year, such changes are by no means unknown in middle age.

This trouble is sometimes an inherited defect. It occurs, too, where great mental strain is undergone.

The chief exciting cause of the disease is chronic poisoning of the body tissues. This is found in gout, diabetes and inflamation of the kidneys. Abnormal substances in the blood may injure the blood vessels directly, or, by contracting the smaller vessels, raise the blood pressure. Acute infections may produce conditions that later develop into arteriosclerosis.

In advanced cases of arterial change, the affected vessels become hardened tubes. As a result there is an interference with the free circulation of the blood.

The symptoms of arteriosclerosis are dependent upon the vessels involved. In some cases general failure of health, pallor of the skin and loss of energy are the first symptoms noted.

Where the blood pressure is high, nervous symptoms are usual. There are dizziness, sleeplessness, mental irritability, mental depress or impairment of memory.

Advanced cases may be accompanied by disturbance of vision. Sometimes the vessels of the abdomen may be affected, causing severe pain not dependent upon the taking of food.

The abdominal symptoms may be misleading, and often are not recognized as due to the arterial condition. Usually they are regarded as indicating some form of indigestion, but the fact that the usual treatment for indigestion is useless, while remedies to reduce high blood pressure are effective, will aid the recognition of the real cause.

The outcome of the case is dependent upon the location of the diseased blood vessels and the willingness of the patient to follow the advice of the attending physician. Where the blood pressure is very high and the kidneys show signs of failure, the utmost care must be exercised.

The treatment must be suited to the general health, the habits of the patient and his financial circumstances. The most important thing is moderation in every particular. There should be no overexertion, no alcoholic beverages and very little, if any, tobacco.

The diet should be unstimulating, largely vegetable and cereal. Tea and coffee are not prohibited when taken in moderation, but most patients will do better if milk, fresh or fermented, is substituted for those familiar beverages.

A life free from excitement and worry will do much toward ensuring a comfortable and useful existence. Drugs are of less value than hygienic measures. It is important to avoid constipation.

The well regulated life of a health resort often accomplishes wonders, even in serious cases. Here gentle exercise or massage, regulated diet and freedom from stress of home life tranquilize the mind, lessen nervous excitement, bring blood pressure within normal limits and do much to assist the patient in his struggle toward health.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

By the way some of the stand-patters howl and holler against the use of rouge, one would think that factory blushes were a product of our modern age. All wrong. The prophets of Israel frowned upon Jezebel because she used too much paint. Cleopatra was a skilled hand with the eyebrow pencil and dyed her finger nails with henna.

Hot water and cold water are both helpful in treatment of blackheads and pimples. Grease in the pores is dissolved by rubbing soap in with the finger tips, then placing steaming hot moist towels over the face. Repeat several times, rinse the face with warm water, then with cold. The cold water invites the blood streams to tone up glands and tissues, provides them with health and resistance.

Hints for the Household

When baking a milk pudding, place the dish in a tin of water in the oven. This prevents the pudding from burning or boiling over.

When making mayonnaise, stand the plate in a soup-plate full of cold water, use a wooden spoon and let the eggs be both fresh and cold.

To remove grease from leather, apply white of egg to the spot and dry it in the sun. Repeat the application until the marks have disappeared.

If stew looks greasy pour a small cup of cold water over the surface. This hardens the fat which can be easily removed. Reheat and serve.

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

Well Bid and Well Played

The single stop in diamonds made B's fourth hand opening bid of 1-Spade preferable to 1-No Trump. Opponents had nothing to bid. A overcalled with 2-Diamonds, which again was better than an immediate 1-No Trump. B shifted to 2-No Trumps, and A bid 3-No Trumps. The hands are as shown below.

Short leads against no-trumps are often lauded when they turn out well, but innumerable experiments in the past have shown their danger. Z preferred to open a four-card suit bid by dummy than to lead short in any other suit. He led the 2; dummy played that 4; Y put up his 10 and lost the trick to B's K. The only certain card of entry to dummy was the top diamond. There was no evidence that the diamond finesse would work, and even if it did, there was nothing particular in any side suit to lead. Hearts should be established before trying to enter dummy. B led his Ace of hearts, followed by his 10. Z was not sure that his partner might not hold the missing J alone, so he passed that trick, but he had to put up his K when B led the J. With the Q-9 of diamonds "equals," because both the 10 and K had gone on the first trick, Z led his 9 of diamonds. The J won on what the declarer thought might be a finesse. There was no reason why Y might not hold the missing Q.

Dummy's good heart was led, Y discarded his last diamond, B let go his lowest spade, and Z did the same. The 8 of spades was led from dummy; Y covered with the 9; B's Q won the trick. The declarer had thus far lost only a single trick of the seven played. He had to do something about clubs. His lead was the 7 of clubs; Z played low; the declarer had to guess how the K and J were held; he guessed right and let the 7 draw the K from Y, making the second lost trick.

Y cunningly led back the 6 of spades. B again had to guess; again he was right when he won the trick with his K, dropping Z's J and dummy's last card of that suit.

By this time the declarer had calculated that the original distributions of his opponents had been 4-3-3-3, that Z's only four-card suit had been diamonds, and that Y's had been spades. Keeping in mind the discards, B knew that Z held the Q-6 of diamonds, and the J-X of clubs; Y held the A-10 of spades, and the X-X of clubs. That knowledge made play easy for the declarer. He led the 8 of clubs, overtook with dummy's 10, then led from that hand the Ace of diamonds. Upon the good diamond Y let go his lower spade; B discarded his only remaining spade; Z played his lowest diamond. A's Q of clubs was led, and overtaken with B's Ace, leaving his 9 good for the 13th trick.

B made five-odd, because Y had allowed his Ace of spades to go to sleep, but Y had taken what appeared to be the only possible chance of defeating the contract. He had not realized that nothing could prevent fulfillment of the game contract, even if the declarer happened to lose two clubs tricks.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Letter Signature

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Please help me settle a discussion. Is it correct to sign oneself "Miss Mary Smith?"

2. Was it ever correct to sign "Miss" to your name years ago?

3. When at a table would you pass the dishes to the left or to the right? Should everything be passed the same way?

A. L.

1. It is not correct to sign the title in the direct signature of your name in a letter. But, if it is necessary to indicate that you are "Miss" as it would be in a business letter, then the Miss is written in parentheses, either before the name or under it. Like this:

Yours very truly,
(Miss) Mary Smith.

2. No. You see, the use of the title makes the name formal, as we would use it in the third person, while a letter is written in the first person, and therefore the signature should indicate the first person—"I am Mary Smith."

3. Dishes are served to the guest at his left. This is the easiest way for him to serve himself from the dish. But beverages, since they are placed on the table in glasses, or poured into the glasses, are served at the right of the guest.

LISTENING IN

With the Radio Editor

Mr. Kaufmann

EDGAR J. KAUFMANN and Charles Rosenbloom of Pittsburgh are included among sponsors announced today for the first radio broadcast ever made from Palestine.

The program, scheduled for May 1, is planned as part of the international celebration in honor of the seventh anniversary of the Hebrew University in Palestine. Dr. Judah L. Magnes, chancellor, will deliver the principal address, and Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope, high commissioner of Palestine, has been invited to preside.

The Palestine and Egyptian governments have agreed to lay special telephone lines from Palestine to Aboukabel, Egypt, where a Marconi Company station will transmit the program by short wave to London, whence it will come across the Atlantic to the United States for an NBC network.

The Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Leopold Stokowski, is to present a symphonic recital from the Metropolitan Opera House, Philadelphia, Friday afternoon. Starting at 2:30, the Columbia chain will transmit the program of an hour and 15 minutes. The orchestra will be augmented to 123 pieces for the production, the first American performance of "Gurrelieder," by Arnold Schoenberg.

Jack Payne, popular London dance band leader, and his orchestra, are heard throughout the United States for the second time on a sponsored program tonight at 10 over WCAE when Walter Winchell gives his famous cue, "Okay, England!" Alternating with Payne's music from the heart of Piccadilly is that of Joe Moss and his orchestra, playing from New York. Congressman John Q. Tilson, Republican of Connecticut, is guest speaker during the broadcast.

Riggs and Moke, "the crazy pair" of WCAE, start a series of open-eyed programs Thursday night for the Braun Baking Company. They will be known as the Braun Loafers, and broadcast every Monday and Thursday at 7:30 for 15 minutes.

Program Pointers

ALLIE LOWE MILES, well-known in [illegible] picture [illegible] who made [illegible] debut [illegible] viewer on the Bath Club programs last night, brings as her second guest over WJAS tonight at 8, Philip Merivale, famed dramatic star.

Miss Miles

Another Broadway celebrity heard on the same station tonight is Harry Richman, singing star of the stage and screen, who makes a return appearance as Ed Sullivan's guest at 8:45.

Frank Crumit "does like an egg with his tea" . . . At least he says a word to that effect as his featured solo at 8 over WCAE.

Alice Mock, former soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, presents a program of songs, opera, [illegible] with Josef Koestner's Orchestra on KDKA at 9.

From Fort Wayne (Ind.) Ben Bernie broadcasts his first program on his present tour at 8 over WJAS . . . A selection written by his old pal and stage partner, "Bill Baker, and called "Strange Interlude," is featured.

Charlotte Shallenberger, soprano, and Paul Cannon, tenor, sing with the WCAE String Ensemble at 8:30.

Don Bestor and his orchestra are heard in two half-hour programs from the General Motors Show at Motor Square Garden over WWSW at 7 and 9:30.

Dr. Abram Flexner, fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, speaks on the philanthropic problems raised by the economic situation during the Jewish Charity Federation program on WJAS at 8.

An old London house and a notorious blackmailer whose face no one has seen provide plenty of thrills in the two-episode dramatization of Edgar Wallace's "The Secret House" over WJAS at 9:30.

* * *

Fan Fare

IRMA GUTHOERL, young Pittsburgh organist who presents a two-piano program with her brother Cyril in behalf of the Pittsburgh Musical Society on WWSW tonight at 10:15, comes from a family of seven organists, each an artist in his own right. Cyril has his own orchestra as well. Jack Kerr, the man who owns The Voice of a Thousand Shades, returns to the air tonight at 10:15 on WJAS after a week's absence because of a cold.

Real Folks moves to KDKA from WJAS Thursday night. Nothing will be changed except the name of the sketch, to be called Thompkins Corners.

The Jesters heard every night on KDKA at 7:15 are going to make a movie short with their announcer and organist very soon.

Helen Menken and Basil Rathbone, stage celebrities, will let their dogs do a bit of talking into the microphone during Dr. Cohen's Pet Club in the near future.

Ward Wilson, radio's great impersonator, is an ex-radio engineer. . . . He says Rudy Vallee is the hardest to imitate because of his New England colloquialisms and the tonal changes in his voice . . . and every time Ward impersonates Rudy, he gets a wire from the crooner with the comment: "Highly interesting."

[illegible] was [illegible] WJAS at 5:15 with Ted Hustis at the microphone.

Buddy Rogers can play nine instruments . . . Recording experts raised their hands in horror back in 1923 when the Boswell Sisters began to distort the original melodies of the then popular songs and to warm up their vocal arrangements with "hot stuff." . . . The experts said the public would never like singers who took liberties with melodies . . . Now the Boswells claim they have more imitators than any other vocal harmony team.

Question Box

Can you please tell me the names of the cast of "Friendship Town"? Do they play in any other programs? H. E. D., Mt. Lebanon.

Nine of the cast of "Friendship Town" are heard quite regularly in other NBC sketches. Virginia Gardiner, whose picture appeared in this column yesterday, plays the role of Mary Ellen; Don Carney, known to radio fans as "Uncle Don," is Jeff Quimby; Miss Edith Spencer, Broadway actress, is Abigail Quimby; Edwin M. Whitney has the role of Dr. Fowler and Hank Peters, while Pat Padgett and Pick Malone are heard as Sooky and Boxcar.

SOUSA HONORED IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, April 5.—(AP)—A dramatic tribute to the late John Philip Sousa was given here last night when 5,000 members of the Music Supervisors' National Conference stood while a 600-piece band played his immortal "Stars and Stripes Forever."

An added touch was given the tribute by the leadership of Capt. Taylor Branson, Sousa's successor as director of the United States Marine Band at Washington.

Students from 50 Ohio high schools comprised the special conference band which made the Cleveland public auditorium reverberate with music under the leadership of Capt. Branson, A. A. Harding, University of Illinois, Harry F. Clarke, of Cleveland, Edwin Franko Goldman, of New York, and Joseph E. Maddy, University of Michigan.

Dr. Walter Damrosch, conductor and composer, was the principal speaker at yesterday's session. He extolled the powerful influence of the radio in elevating the nation's appreciation of good music. He said:

"It has been a joy to unlock this treasure house of music to these people, who have received it with open arms."

PHIL RUBINOFF TO WED HERE

Phil Rubinoff, brother and manager of Dave Rubinoff, radio violinist and orchestra leader, appearing this week at the Stanley, will be married Thursday to Miss Sadye Tagress, of 312 Dinwiddie street, in the Tree of Life Synagogue, Craft avenue. They will live in New York.

The romance began when Rubinoff was a clerk in the Pennsylvania Railroad offices here. At the marriage license office Rubinoff gave his age as 32, and Miss Tagress as 21. Rubinoff's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rubin Rubinoff, live at 5600 Forbes street.

Klemperer, Noted Berlin Doctor, Dies

BERLIN, April 5.—(AP)—Prof. Felix Klemperer, of Berlin University, noted pulmonary specialist, died yesterday at 65. Ten years ago Dr. Klemperer made several trips to Moscow to treat Nikolai Lenin, leader of the Soviet Russian government.

Cadillac Invites You To RIDE · DRIVE · COMPARE

· · · for the difference between motor cars is greater today than ever

The basic superiority of Cadillac and La Salle has never been so instantly obvious as it is today—for now it is revealed, with unmistakable clearness, in the very first mile at the wheel! No matter what your experience with motor cars may have been—the new Cadillacs and La Salles will open your eyes to performance you have never known before. Their big, powerful motors can scarcely be heard at all. Regardless of what gear you drive in—there is no mechanical sound of any description. You ride with a balanced buoyancy that is most delightful to experience. And you travel the roughest highways as if you were glued to the road. Thousands of people have driven these cars—and their enthusiasm has known no bounds. In fact, approximately two out of every five who have bought cars at or above La Salle's base price, since the first of this year, have chosen either Cadillac or La Salle. And in almost every instance, the choice was based on performance—on the sheer superiority that a demonstration revealed. Come drive these cars today. And then—if you care to—drive other cars, and compare. You'll discover the greatest difference since motor car history began!

Uncle Bob and Betty Read Comics Tonight

"Read me the comics, Uncle Bob!"

In thousands of homes in the Pittsburgh district, that expression has become one of the most popular heard over the air with children and grown-ups alike. And tonight at 6 o'clock over WCAE, Uncle Bob reads the Sun-Telegraph "funnies" again for Betty as their many followers listen in.

George Seibel, literary and dramatic editor of the Sun-Telegraph, discusses the latest news of the show-world in his talk on "Plays and Players" on WCAE at 7 o'clock.

From "The Reflections of Madelon's Mirror" at 10:30 a. m., come numerous beauty and household suggestions.

Ann Zimet, blues singer, and Paul Gannon, tenor, are featured in the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club at 11, with David Levin's Orchestra and Herb McGee as master of ceremonies.

BANK OPENING PLAN PUSHED

Acting upon a suggestion of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, a plan for reopening the closed Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company will be laid before Dr. William D. Gordon in Harrisburg tomorrow morning, according to officers of Arsenal Board of Trade.

The action is seen as the latest move to block the 10 per cent dividend payment scheduled Thursday by Dr. Gordon of the State Department of Banking. The payment would be the beginning of the liquination of the bank's assets, and would prevent a reorganization of the bank, Charles I. McClure, private banker, declared.

In Pittsburgh last week, the Governor heard complaints of the alleged failure of the Banking Department to co-operate with the sponsors of the bank reorganization. Pinchot requested Dr. A. L. Lewin, chairman of the bank committee of the trade body, to list the complaints and present plans to Dr. Gordon.

Among those who will attend the hearing tomorrow are Dr. Lewin, the Rev. A. G. Curry, president of the trade body; C. G. Purse, a director of the closed bank; S. S. Bennett and G. W. Owens.

BURGESS OUT FOR ASSEMBLY

Attorney George W. Brawner, Jr., burgess of Rosslyn Farms, member of the Republican county committee for 30 years and former law partner of the late John F. Cox, speaker of the State House of Representatives in 1909 and 1911, has announced his candidacy for the Legislature in the Twelfth District.

Brawner's earliest occupations were farmer and coal miner. After graduating from college he wrote for Pittsburgh newspapers and studied law. During the World War he was prominently identified with home activities.

He has announced himself in favor of reduction of public expenditures to lower taxes, legislation to protect bank depositors, laws that will aid industries to eliminate unemployment, improvement in marketing farm products, permanent registration of voters, better election laws, an intelligent and reasonable supervision of public utilities by a competent body to prevent abuse without confiscation.

Greene Jail Afire, Prisoners Calm

WAYNESBURG, Pa., April 5 (AP).—Fire broke out in the Greene County jail-courthouse yesterday, and more than a score of prisoners marched calmly through smoke to safety.

The flames started in the basement and ate their way through the floor to a cell block. The prisoners were assembled in a hall and escorted to another part of the building. There they laughed and chatted until the fire was extinguished. The damage was slight.

350-Pound Fish Leaps High For Bait

CHICAGO, April 5.—(AP.)—Listen, fishermen. There's a place where the fish weigh 350 pounds, where they're so thick they bump into each other, and where they're so foolish they leap a foot out of the water to bite.

The only catch in the story is that you've got to go 1,000 miles up the Amazon River to find this paradise.

Dr. William McGovern, explorer, told American Legionnaires about it in an address yesterday.

Ambridge Police Chief Reinstated

Police Chief John W. Flocker, of Ambridge, recently suspended by Burgess Philip Caul for alleged failure to report for duty, was reinstated at a meeting of borough Council last night.

Patrolman Caesar Kosinski, dropped from the force last January, was re-elected at the meeting.

250,000 QUARTS OF MILK GIVEN

More than 250,000 quarts of milk were distributed in the last six months of the fiscal year of the Milk and Ice Association, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, president, disclosed today in her annual report.

According to the figures, 1,159 babies under two years of age were examined. One hundred and three morning clinics were held in the last year, while 422 cases were referred to hospitals. Nearly $35,000 was expended.

Milk is distributed to babies of needy families through social agencies.

All officers were re-elected at a meeting yesterday. They were, besides Mrs. Rauh, the Rev. Dr. Carl A. Voss, Frank C. Harper and Mrs. Harry J. Miller, vice presidents; the Rev. Francis Edwin Smith, treasurer; Mrs. O. B. Spear, secretary; Dr. Amelia A. Dranga, medical supervisor, and Mrs. T. S. Isengard, field secretary.

SEEK NEW TRIAL FOR DEPUTIES

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 5.—Thirty-one reasons, one of which was that the bailiff, tipstaves and matrons guarding the jury were not sworn as required by law, were advanced today in a petition for a new trial of nine men convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the Arnold City mine riot case.

Attorney W. Brown Higbee also contended in his petition that the separation of the jury, two women occupying separate quarters from the 10 male jurors, was a breach of legal requirements. In 21 reasons the court was held to have erred.

The contention that the tipstaves were not sworn is said to be a precedent and to presage carrying the case to the higher courts should a new trial be refused by Judge D. W. Henderson, the trial judge.

The nine coal company employes were found guilty in connection with the fatal shooting of Mike Philopovich last June 23.

POLITICS
Third Party Strategy Undecided
—By MARK SHIELDS—

Mark Shields

Republican opponents of President Hoover from whom might come the agitation leading to the formation of a third party for the national campaign are by no means decided on a course of strategy to sound sentiment as to how such an adventure would be received.

A number of Progressives, among them Senators Norris and Johnson appear to feel that a third party this year would merely muddy the waters and be of benefit to Hoover, dividing the disaffected vote which under normal conditions would go to the Democratic candidate. Norris is in the humor to support a Democrat should he be even an approach to liberalism, just as he backed Al Smith rather than the President in 1928.

Gov. Pinchot is the figure about whom much of this third-party talk revolves, and Pennsylvania's executive has adopted the policy of watchful—though vocal—waiting. Mr. Pinchot declined to enter his name in the Oregon primaries, and the California primary is private to Hoover.

* * *

Pinchot Evidently Dodging Direct Struggle

Evidently Pinchot wishes to engage in no direct struggle now wherein a possible defeat would depress the prestige he has among Progressives. An evidence of that is seen in the Governor's refusal to enter his name in his own state as a candidate for delegate-at-large to the national convention. He was offered a place on the regular slate, but naturally declined that, as there was an implication that he must be regular in that event.

Urged by some militants to fight the slate on an anti-Hoover platform, he declined that conflict also, and is content to make the fight on the Pennsylvania organization through other instruments—Gen. Smedley Butler for the United States Senate and Ralph E. Flinn for auditor general.

There is, however, an active campaign proceeding to stir interest in Pinchot throughout the country, though the campaign does not disclose the course to be pursued. One thought is that Mr. Pinchot will go to Chicago in a private capacity, ready at a moment's notice to rally such delegates as are out of sympathy with Hoover, of whom there will be many.

* * *

Pinchot Delegates Don't Fully Agree With Him

The natural assumption would be that this rally would start with some Pennsylvanians as a nucleus, it having been conceded that among the delegation from this state will be some Pinchot adherents. But even the men running as Pinchot delegates in this state do not agree at all points with the Governor, differing notably on prohibition. And at least two of the men supported by his followers for delegates from Allegheny County are in reality for Hoover, and they are not from the same district, either.

The only certainty is that Mr. Pinchot has not abandoned thought of being hit by the presidential lightning, even though it be only a third party bolt. That is one of the reasons for the present fight in Pennsylvania; that and the campaign of 1930, and the potentialities of both may explain Mr. Pinchot's disinclination to risk a personal fight in his own state in advance of either test.

* * *

Belief Persists Reed Seat Is Pinchot Aim

The campaign of 1934 is included because there persists the belief that Mr. Pinchot, passing from the governorship then, will attempt to gain the Senate seat now held by David A. Reed.

At last week's Independent mass meeting County Commissioner C. M. Barr, chairman, in attacking the candidacy of Senator James J. Davis, warned that victory for Davis might jeopardize the security of Reed. To those who have followed politics for some time, there was grave doubt that this contingency caused Mr. Pinchot much discomfort.

Indeed, if Davis should be elected, and it seems he will, it is probable Mr. Pinchot, as he gazes forward to 1934, will not be so much disturbed as might be expected. Then it will be possible to use the argument that Western Pennsylvania should not have both Senators, and Mr. Pinchot can jump in as the representative of the East.

* * *

No Political Affection Between Reed, Pinchot

There is no more political affection between Pinchot and Reed than between Pinchot and Davis. Mr. Pinchot knew that Senator Reed in 1930 disapproved the attempt of the state organization to deprive the Governor of an honestly won nomination through a legal trick. He wished Senator Reed to make a public statement. But the Senator didn't.

Only recently on the Senate floor Senator Reed has been overlooking no opportunity to stab at the Governor because of the latter's insistence on federal relief during the unemployment and economic crisis.

There are plenty of reasons Pinchot wants Davis licked, but that advanced by Commissioner Barr, the safety of Senator Reed, is positively not among them.

CIVIC INTEREST IN SUBWAY PLAN GROWS

Real Estate Board Leaders In Conference; Merchants Await Commission Report

Interest on the part of civic organizations in the subway proposals was indicated today by numerous meetings which have been called to consider the project. Opinion is divided on the route and costs.

The board of governors of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board meets today to discuss the subway. The Building Owners and Managers will take action tomorrow.

A hearing on the subway before City Council had originally been scheduled for tomorrow. The Retail Merchants' Association has asked that this be postponed until the Transit Commission has an opportunity to study the costs of the proposed subway.

Surface car short-looping in connection with the subway plan was revealed following a Transit Commission meeting. A similar system of short-looping suggested by the Pittsburgh Railways Company several years ago brought strong opposition from business interests.

MILLION-POUND SUPPLY DUE IN 10 DAYS

Family-Help-Family Drive Leaders Speeding Plans For Campaign Opening

More than 1,000,000 pounds of government flour is expected to be shipped into Pittsburgh for distribution to needy families here within the next 10 days, S. E. Claney, director of relief of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, announced today. This is approximately half the order placed by Claney several weeks ago.

The shipment will probably be about 20 car loads and is to be stored in the old Arsenal warehouse. From this point the various welfare and charitable organizations who ordered the flour through the emergency association will be given their quota. Then the flour will be distributed to the needy as they apply for it.

Claney said that he had ordered 2,240,000 pounds of flour through the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross. Yesterday he received a telegram from a Kansas City milling company announcing that they were ready to ship about 50 per cent of his order.

CITY SPENDS $48,000

Nearly $48,000 was expended by the association through the city's six relief stations during the first week's operation, Claney said today. This comes from the city's appropriation of $260,000, now providing food, coal and clothing to the destitute families in the city.

The direct relief in the county did not start until late Thursday and in the two and one-half days, $10,465 was expended, Claney said. On Saturday the county spent $6,879 and the city $10,465.

With only two days left before their campaign actually gets under way, the workers conducting the family-help-family plan of Senator Frank Harris, were rapidly completing their organization. A Catholic group, under the direction of Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, is taking form and letters have been sent to all priests asking fullest co-operation.

CLUBS BACK DRIVE

Other indorsements of the plan were received at headquarters yesterday, among them, letters from the Homestead Elks Lodge, the Beechview Civic Club, Aerie No. 76, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and the Advertising Club of Pittsburgh.

The drive will officially get under way Thursday morning, when the workers will meet at breakfast in the William Penn Hotel. The breakfast will be finished and the workers started on their way by the time the average worker gets downtown. Today the "left wing" will meet at a luncheon in the Amen Corner with William B. Rodgers in charge. Mrs. F. C. Irish, head of the women's groups, will meet Friday with her entire county organization.

Yesterday D. M. Craig, commander of the Downtown division, met with his organization in the auditorium of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. Roy A. MacGregor, chief of staff under Senator Harris, spoke, emphasizing the critical need of the 28,000 families.

FAMILIES AIDED AFTER EVICTION

Two destitute families, evicted from their homes by deputy sheriffs for non-payment of rent, found shelter in the homes of hospitable neighbors today. They were the families of Russell Harvey, of 1212 Rush street, and Mrs. Emma Buettner, a widow, of 1211 Juniata street.

Harvey was searching for a job while his wife, Lila, and their four children, Billy, 7; Jim 4; Bob 2, and Carl, 13 months, were visiting at the home of a neighbor. They were unaware their household goods were being moved.

So was Mrs. Buettner, who lost her job as a waitress three months ago.

The Family Welfare Association explained today that Mrs. Buettner had been dropped from its lists December 9 upon advice of a Catholic welfare society because of the manner in which she conducted her home. It is expected that a welfare group will provide for her children.

Helen, 16, eldest of Mrs. Buettner's three children, was home with the family pet, "Rex," a German police dog. The deputies ordered her out as they carried the furniture into the street.

Neighbors welcomed the families in their homes, and summoned trucks to take the furniture to storage houses from the streets, where it had remained for 12 hours.

California Avenue Opening Discussed

Legislation providing for the opening of a section of California avenue, an extension of the Ohio River boulevard, was to be discussed by City Council's Finance Committee today. Chairman W. Y. English announced.

The project will be started soon. Estimated cost of construction and damages to property will be $125,000, according to Public Works Director Edward G. Lang. The thoroughfare will be 70 feet wide and will provide a six-lane traffic artery from Sedgwick street to Island avenue. Lang said a contract would be advertised for soon.

2 American Women Get Paris Divorces

PARIS, April 5.—(INS.)—Two American women were granted divorces in Paris courts today. Both were on grounds of desertion.

Mrs. Morgan Ott Heiskel, nee Ann Hubbard, who was married at Wheeling, W. Va., November 4, 1908, received one of the decrees, and the other was granted to Mrs. Herbert Wertheimer, the former Gertrude Steinbach, who was married in New York, April 22, 1909.

Mills Calling For 'More' and There's No Ethel

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

When it comes to asking for more, Oliver Twist must have been our first Secretary of the Treasury and also the last.

Mr. Mills and Congress can't agree on the hoss-power necessary to pull our hubs out of the financial gumbo.

Congress digs up a potential billion by hypothecating the glorious future to the eleventh decimal point.

Ogden yells for more, and Congress discards parliamentary procedure and goes into executive session with a gypsy dream book.

Still Ogden hollers for more, and there is no Ethel Barrymore to tell him the sad news that there ain't any.

All the screeching in the world won't change the sow's ears to silk. We're giving Ogden a billion to kick around.

And when little secretaries of the treasury demand too much that's when the fairy godmother drops her wand and picks up a baseball bat.

1,322,398 Autos Pass Inspection in State

HARRISBURG, April 5.—(AP.)—Additional reports to the Department of Revenue today showed 1,322,398 of Pennsylvania's 1,469,144 registered motor vehicles were inspected during the recent inspection period which ended March 31. The department has suspended 170 of the 7,032 inspection stations for failure to meet the requirements.

McKeesport Woman Dies of Auto Hurts

Mrs. Mary McKenna, 78, of 210 West Sixth avenue, McKeesport, injured in an auto accident, March 20, at Market and Railroad streets, McKeesport, died of pneumonia today in McKeesport Hospital. Frank Koticah, 1903 Lamont street, McKeesport, alleged driver, furnished bond for the Coroner's inquest.

Child Turns on Gas, Dies With Brother

SCRANTON, April 5.—(AP.)—Two children, Clarke Kaetzle, 3, and his brother, William, 18 months old, children of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Kaetzle, were asphyxiated today in their home when one of them turned on three gas jets on a kitchen range playing "getting breakfast."

INCREASED ADS CUT LOSSES

Sixty-two firms which increased their advertising suffered fewer losses in 1930 than those which curtailed their expenditures, it was shown today by H. S. Metcalfe, general chairman of the fifth annual advertising exposition and conference which will be held at the William Penn Hotel for four days, beginning next Monday.

Mr. Metcalfe

Mr. Metcalfe, an executive of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club, which is sponsoring the conference, based his figures on the experiences of 97 national advertisers. The 62 which spent more for advertising in 1930 than in 1929 made 28.6 per cent less profit, while the 35 which decreased their advertising made 54.6 per cent less profit.

Business executives have been invited to attend the conference to hear talks by nationally known experts.

The advertising exhibit will include all types, and will be assembled from specimens used by companies in the Pittsburgh territory.

One Dead, 9 Hurt In Omaha Blast

OMAHA, Neb., April 5.—(INS.)—One man was killed here and nine were injured, some seriously, in an explosion which rocked the Allied Mills, Inc., today. The blast and a fire which followed caused damage estimated at $200,000.

INDEPENDENTS HIT VARE RULE

The coming election was seen as an opportunity to rout the Vare machine in Pennsylvania politics by speakers today at Independent Republican headquarters in the Magee Building.

Attorney Ellsworth Trott likened the Vare brand of politics to the Tweed rule and Tammany.

W. K. Hodgkinson, of the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes, declared:

"If the election of Ralph Flinn as Auditor General and Judge Stadtfeld as a Supreme Court justice is necessary to wreck the Vare machine, it is even more important that we replace Jim Davis with a Senator of the high principles of Gen. Butler."

Sir Rennell Rodd To Quit Politics

LONDON, April 5.—(AP.)—Sir Rennell Rodd, Conservative member of the House of Commons, announced his retirement from active politics today after a distinguished career. "We have turned the most difficult corner," he said, "and I feel that the country is safe and that its destinies are in the most capable hands."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 5.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I see where Secretary Stimson is going to take a vacation, he is going to the Disarmament Conference in Geneva. I was there at the opening, certainly was a picnic that day. By the way, wonder what ever became of "Doc" Wolley that was a member of the original cast. She was as pleasant a nice soul as I ever met. I hated to see her banished to Siberia like that. I tell you the whole world is "cockeyed" and we mustn't be surprised at anything. Mr. Coolidge, who never said an unkind word against anybody, in fact talks less than anybody, he pays $2,500 for talking too much. I look to see John D. Rockefeller, Sr., arrested for vagrancy. Argentine Planes Scout Chaco Region

BUENOS AIRES, April 5.—(INS.)—Argentine army airplanes were sent scouting over the oft-disputed Chaco region today as a result of rumors Bolivia was preparing for war against Paraguay.

The Bolivian minister here declared the rumors were absurd, admitting troop movements in the area, but pointing out they had to do only the regular seasonal changes.

Missing Man Found Hanging in Home

WAYNESBURG, Pa., April 5.—A 10-day search for James Sharpnack, 45-year-old bachelor of Carmichaels, ended today when his body was found hanging from a rafter in the house where he lived alone. After a county-wide hunt for the missing man, his brother, Arthur, today explored the attic, entering through a trapdoor and found the body. The dead man is believed to have hanged himself March 27, the day of his disappearance.

COURT FREES 7 IN KILBUCK VOTE

Seven of 12 defendants in the Kilbuck Township election violation case were ordered acquitted by Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff in Criminal Court today after Assistant District Attorney James Geltz, at the conclusion of the commonwealth's testimony, admitted no charges had been sustained against them.

The defense opened with five defendants remaining.

Quashing of the seven prosecutions added to the list of futile election cases instigated by Leo Riordan, chief investigator for the Independents at the September 15 primaries.

Those ordered freed were Justice of the Peace Harry Martin, Charles J. Hagan, John F. Zimmerman, A. A. Bowdle, F. L. Fiebeger, Emory Taskey and John J. Carlin, the last four employes of Dixmont Hospital.

Those still on trial are Robert Little, Cora Penny, Mrs. Norman Daugherty, Evelyn Beckman and Thomas Cronan, all hospital employes.

Ellenbogen Urges Vet Compensation

Approval of immediate full payment of veteran compensation was advocated last night by Henry Ellenbogen, candidate for the Republican nomination to Congress from the Thirty-second district, at a meeting of Uhlam Home Post, V. F. W., Mt. Oliver. Ellenbogen charged the government was devoting aid to business and neglecting the welfare of the individual.

Father James R. Cox also spoke at the meeting.

Held in Dry Raid In Stowe Township

Tony Colangelo, 27, was to be arraigned today before the United States Commissioner on a charge of selling and possessing contraband liquor. He was arrested yesterday when prohibition agents raided the second floor of a building at 36 Neville avenue, Stowe Township, and seized 300 bottles of home brew beer, two gallons of whisky and a pint of gin. He was released, pending the hearing under $2,000 bond.

Overcome by Paint, Taken to Hospital

Edward McCarthy, 19, of 1670 Perrysville avenue, was overcome by turpentine fumes while painting a room in his home late yesterday. McCarthy was taken to Allegheny General Hospital where his condition was reported fair. The youth's mother, who was in the room, was not affected by the fumes.

Auto Driver Held After Killing Man

James Durkin, of 44 Obey avenue, Crafton Heights, died this morning in the Allegheny General Hospital from injuries sustained last night when he was struck by an automobile at Mansfield avenue and Westwood street, according to a coroner's report. L. M. Morgan, of Speer, Pa., the alleged driver of the car, who was lodged in West End Police Station following the accident, was to be turned over to the Coroner today.

Last of 4 Jailed in Store Holdup to Go Free

Prison doors will open a week from tomorrow for Rufus Costner and Harry Brooks, the last of the four persons to serve time in connection with the holdup and murder of James H. Neal, Boggs and Buhl messenger, in front of the store 11 years ago. Ben Stokes, who police say, escaped with most of the cash stolen in the $48,000 robbery, never was apprehended. Yesterday Detective Inspector Boyd was notified of the approaching release of Brooks and Castner.

Last December Gilbert Kelly, of Swissvale, was released after his mother, Mrs. Washington Kelly, made a plea for him. Brooks and Costner have completed their minimum sentence and are eligible for parole. Brooks' wife served a short term in connection with the case, as it was in their home the holdup was planned.

FREE RUBBISH SERVICE CUT

Mt. Lebanon business places must pay for their rubbish disposal and a maximum of four cans of garbage a week will be hauled from business houses at the township's expense, it was decreed as an economy measure by township commissioners last night.

Accumulation of rubbish heaps which might create fire hazards will be punishable by fines, the commissioners said. Contents of garbage containers to be hauled at borough expense will not exceed two and one-half bushels. All over that amount will be hauled at the merchant's expense, the commissioners decreed.

Lieut. Ted Carrington and John Kaupel, acting police sergeants since the creation of the positions by the commissioners at the beginning of the year, were formally appointed at the meeting.

Captures Thief Who Fears Pipe Used as Gun

NEW YORK, April 5.—(AP)—By poking a pipe into the man's stomach and shouting "Stick 'em up!" Joseph Jacobs captured a thief who was fleeing with a box full of money.

Jacobs, who operates an elevator, heard the screams of Mrs. Evelyn Sellover, cashier at an uptown club, and saw a young man leap into a taxicab.

Jacobs commandeered another taxi and gave chase. Four blocks farther, the fugitive leaped from his taxi. So did Jacobs. A tussle ensued, but the thief surrendered when the elevator operator brought his pipe into play. He gave his name as Robert Taylor.

BLAST PUZZLES SHARPSBURG

Leo Horstman, Sharpsburg Councilman, and his allies on the councilmanic board who advocated a borough vice cleanup today maintained their stand that the explosion that damaged Horstman's real estate office in Main street Sunday was caused by gas and not by a bomb.

County Detective Harry Barker, who investigated the blast, however, expressed the belief that a small piece of dynamite had been exploded in the rear of the office. He said the damage was slight.

The damaged building, that of the Lowry Real Estate Company, at 905 Main street, was shaken and a window was broken when a blast let go in the cellar.

Police support Horstman's contention, although many residents of the borough suspect that the blast was a warning to Horstman to cease his insistence that gambling and liquor law violators be banished from the borough.

City Wharf Revenue Increase Continues

Collection of wharf automobile parking revenues by the City Treasurer increased $491.50 during March as compared with the same month of 1931. Total receipts were $3,995.30, according to Treasurer Richard W. Thompson. Collections for March, 1931, were $2,503.80.

Supervision of wharf parking was given the Treasurer early this year after a number of complaints had been received by Council that the wharves were being operated inefficiently by the Police Bureau. Clerks, hired by Thompson, are now stationed at the wharves in place of policemen, who have been returned to beats.

Carnegie Youth Held As Aide in Killing

Frank Bell, Negro, of Carnegie, was arrested today on a charge of accessory before and after murder. County detectives reported that he had helped his father, Richard Bell, to escape from Carnegie last Saturday after the father had shot and killed Joseph Brooks, Negro.

WOMAN FIGHTS FOR HER VOTE

The petition of Mrs. Anna Zoller, of Pennsylvania avenue, asking that she be reinstated as a candidate for Republican committeewoman in the Fourth District of the Twenty-first Ward, will be heard tomorrow before Judge Thomas M. Marshall in Common Pleas Court.

Mrs. Zoller charges that Frank J. Frederick, Jr., son of Dr. F. H. Frederick, campaign manager for Mayor Charles H. Kline in his re-election, Duncan McCarter, and Harry G. Zoller, a relative, had her sign the withdrawal without informing her of its significance.

Dr. Frederick said that his son, who is 17 and a student at Pitt, told him yesterday that Mrs. Zoller knew the paper was a withdrawal petition and signed it willingly.

SUSPECT HELD IN RUM THEFTS

When he appeared in the Courthouse to attend the trial of his pal, according to city detectives, Morris Sandler, 23, of Detroit, was arrested by Detective William Stewart and is being held pending an investigation of his alleged connection with numerous liquor thefts in the Fox Chapel district.

According to the detectives, Sandler and his gang were driven out of Detroit about three months ago when they attempted to cut in on the Blue-Purple gang's rackets. Police say there are five members of the gang that has been making liquor robberies in the Fox Chapel and Squirrel Hill districts.

According to the detectives, Sandler said he came to Pittsburgh three months ago to deal cards in gambling houses.

TWO CONCERTS DAILY FEATURE AUTO EXHIBIT

New Cars and Appliances Attract Thousands to General Motors Display

Special entertainment has been made a daily feature of the free public exhibit of General Motors 1932 products being held this week in Motor Square Garden as part of a nation-wide campaign in 55 cities to seek out the buying public and create thousands of permanent positions in the automobile and allied industries.

DISPLAY COST $80,000

The entire display has been arranged by General Motors at a cost in Pittsburgh alone of $80,000. Each division of the corporation is represented in the displays. Among automobiles, with various models on exhibit, are Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick, Cadillac and GM trucks. Other exhibits include electric refrigerators, vacuum cleaners and car accessories.

General Chairman J. A. Kenyon reported approximately 50,000 persons had visited the show during its first two days. The buying instinct of the public showed aroused interest, he added, and results from immediate and future orders are entirely satisfactory.

SPURS INDUSTRY

F. F. Brooks, president of the First National Bank, last night declared the show revealed "forceful, direct and effective methods to spur the lagging industrial machine of America." He urged other industries to follow the example.

Two concerts are given daily, afternoon and evening, by Don Bestor and his orchestra. This entertainment has been augmented with singers and other novelties for each program. The concerts are being broadcast by Station WWSW.

Second Bogus Bill Charge Brings Probe

Operative in Charge W. A. Landvoight, of the U. S. Secret Service, yesterday sent an operative to Wheeling to investigate Thomas Daugherty, of Clayville, under arrest in Wheeling for alleged passing of two counterfeit $5 Federal Reserve notes.

Daugherty was arrested Friday, charged with passing one of the bogus notes, but was released when he said he obtained it in a speakeasy and was not aware it was counterfeit. He was arrested the following day when he was alleged to have passed another spurious bill.

SUICIDE TOPS MERCY KILLING

NEW CANAAN, Conn., April 5.—(INS.)—A "mercy killing" and a suicide today brought an end to the tragedy that has hung for four years over a wealthy churchman's home.

Unable to endure the sufferings of his invalid wife, Nelson Sillman, superintendent of the Congregational Sunday School, shot and killed her as she lay in bed.

Then he ended his own life with a shotgun.

His wife was 53 years old; he was a year older. For 20 years Sillman had been prominent in church work and he was a partner in the hardware company bearing his name. The firm is one of the largest in New England.

SKIFF CARRIES BOY TO DEATH

Little hope was held today for the immediate recovery of the body of David Corrigan, 11, of 529 Standard avenue, Springdale, who drowned yesterday when a skiff in which he was playing was shoved into the rapid waters of the swollen Allegheny River by a playmate and went over Dam No. 3.

Springdale firemen, who, yesterday, tried to locate the body, said its recovery was prevented by the height and swiftness of the river. They said Corrigan and another boy were playing in a boat, which two government workers repairing the dam, left on the shore. The other youngster, they said, shoved the boat out into the stream and the swift current prevented the Corrigan boy from bringing it to shore.

OBITUARIES

Watt Funeral.

Funeral services for George C. Watt, 59, Braddock bank president, who died yesterday, will be held at the home, 215 East End avenue, tonight. Interment will be in Unity Cemetery, Latrobe, tomorrow morning. He was president of the Braddock Trust Company and the First National Bank of Braddock, and was a director of the Assets Realization Corporation, for the Second District, and the Braddock Gasoline Company, and was a past president of the Braddock Chamber of Commerce, and Group Eight, Pennsylvania Bankers' Association. He was born in Latrobe. Besides his widow he leaves a son, George C. Watt, Jr., two sisters and three brothers.

Barnes Funeral.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for Mrs. Elizabeth S. Barnes, who died at her home, 15 East Erie street, North Side, Sunday. Mrs. Barnes was born in England, but had lived in this country many years, having lived at New Bethlehem, Pa., 45 years, and 15 years in Pittsburgh. She was a member of the Methodist Church. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Mary Huling and Mrs. Alice Bain, of Pittsburgh, and a son, James E. Barnes, of Youngstown, O.

Mary Clifford.

Funeral services for Miss Mary Clifford, who died Friday in the home of her sister, Mrs. John S. Todd, 816 South Braddock avenue, were held today with solemn requiem high mass in St. Paul's Cathedral. The mass was celebrated by the Rev. F. S. Clifford, her nephew, assisted by the Rev. J. J. Fallon and the Rev. Thomas Rea. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery. She leaves two sisters, Miss Margaret Clifford, Mrs. John S. Todd, and a brother, S. D. Clifford, of Huntington, W. Va.

Church Society To Present Play

The Young People's Society of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Pennsylvania and Manhattan avenues, will present a rural drama, "Home Ties," Thursday and Friday nights in the Sunday school auditorium.

School Drama Club To Stage Benefit

The Dramatic Club of St. Augustine's Parish will produce "It Happened in Hollywood" in the auditorium, Thirty-seventh and Butler streets, April 12 and 13. Proceeds will be used to provide food for undernourished children in the school.

Legal Notices 107

NOTICE is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of Goddard & Co., will be held at the principal office of the corporation, 438 Union Trust Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., on the 27th day of April, 1932, at 2 o'clock, Eastern Standard time, in the afternoon of said day, to elect a board of directors for the ensuing year and to consider and vote upon the following proposals:

I. The decrease of the authorized capital stock of the corporation from $1,600,000 to $173,631.

(a) By decreasing the authorized number of shares of preferred stock, of the par value of $100 per share, from 12,000 shares to 8,482 shares outstanding and converting said 8,482 shares outstanding share for share, into 8,482 shares of new preferred stock, of the par value of $20 per share, with substantially the following rights and preferences: The new preferred stock shall be entitled to receive in any year before the payment of any dividends to the common stock, 7% per annum non-cumulative dividends plus as a class, 40% of any further dividends thereafter paid by the board of directors in such year, the remaining 60 per cent of such further dividends shall be paid to the common stock as a class; the preferred stock shall be redeemable at any time or from time to time, at the option of the corporation, at $25 per share; shall be convertible into common stock, of the par value of $1 per share, at any time, share for share, and shall be entitled to receive upon liquidation $20 per share in preference to the common stock, and, after the payment of $20 per share to the common stock, any remaining assets of the corporation shall be divided 40% to the preferred stock as a class and 60% to the common stock as a class; the preferred stock shall have no voting rights whatsoever, except as otherwise required by law; and

(b) By reducing the par value of the 4,000 shares of authorized common stock from $100 per share to $1 per share.

II. The waiver by stockholders of all accrued cumulative dividends on both preferred and common stock issued and outstanding and fractional shares of preferred stock, evidenced by outstanding warrants.

III. The waiver by stockholders of all preemptive rights to subscribe to any additional stock or other securities of the corporation.

IV. The increase of the capital stock of the corporation from time to time, from $173,631 to $699,420, such increase to consist of:

(a) 25,000 shares of prior preference stock, of the par value of $20 per share, with substantially the following rights and preferences: Such prior preference stock shall be entitled to receive 7% per annum cumulative dividends and no more, prior to the payment of any dividends to either the preferred stock of the common stock, shall be entitled to receive on liquidation $20 per share plus accrued and unpaid dividends and no more, before the payment of any sum to either the preferred or common stock; shall be redeemable at any time or from time to time, at the option of the corporation, on thirty (30) days' notice at $22.50 per share and accrued and unpaid dividends, and shall have no voting rights whatsoever except as otherwise required by law and except if and when default shall exist in the payment of four (4) quarterly dividends, whether consecutive or not, in which event it shall be entitled to elect a majority of the board of directors; and

(b) 25,000 shares of common stock, of the par value of $1 per share.

(c) Said 25,000 shares of prior preference stock and said 25,000 shares of common stock shall be issued and sold at the par value thereof at any time or from time to time in the discretion of the board of directors.

V. To transact such other business as may lawfully come before said meeting or any adjournment thereof.

By order of the board of directors:

BUCS, CUBS RESUME SERIES

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Kelly May Come Back. • Mullins' Long Struggle.
Floor Rule Criticized. European Fight Gates.
Jolley Done as Catcher. Sherrill Old Track Star.

FLAWS IN DODGER FIRST-BASE YARNS

EVERY TIME A first-base emergency develops anywhere in the major leagues, the bosses of the club in distress send a hurry call to the minors for George Kelly. The emergency passed, they send him back again. The last time up it was to fill in for Charley Grimm in the Cub lineup. Next he may be with the Dodgers. At any rate, it is reported Manager Donie Bush of the Minneapolis club, has been asked to consider a deal that will give Kelly's services to Brooklyn until the latter can acquire another first-sacker. If it goes through, Kelly will have played with five of the eight National League clubs, having already served with the Giants, Pirates, Reds and Cubs.

George Kelly

But perhaps the rumor will prove as poorly founded as several others that have been circulated in connection with the first-base position on the Dodger team since it developed that Del Bissonette will be out for two months or longer. Somebody appears to have been doing some romancing about the efforts of the Brooklyn club to plug the hole at the gateway.

FIRST IT WAS announced Max Carey was after Jim Bottomley of the Cardinals, but it has not been established that any offer ever was made for the player. Then Cadore said he was seeking Pat Crawford, of the same club, but that, too, have been more bunk, as last week the Cards present Crawford back to Columbus and could not have done so if Branch Rickey had refused to waive on him.

And now there's another story out that Max is trying to swing a deal for Joe Judge, of Washington. Not only has Washington announced definitely its intention to keep Judge, but even if he were on the market it is public property that Detroit has been making every effort to get him, and everybody knows there wouldn't be a chance in the world of Joe's coming to the National League, as the Tigers, at least, would not waive on him.

JOHNNY EVERETT and Jimmy Kelly are among the most outspoken local basketball men in favor of the new anti-stalling rule whereby a team gaining possession of the ball in its back court is required to cross the center of the floor toward its opponents' goal within 10 seconds.

Both say it is unfair to put an additional burden on the offensive team. They insist that the defensive and trailing team that won't come out is the one guilty of stalling and the one that should be penalized.

"IF, AFTER THE offensive team that has a lead and is protecting it, which is good basketball, drops into the back court with the ball, and the defensive team does not go in and try to get it, the defensive team should be penalized for stalling," says Freund. "The offensive side should not be punished by any means, as it has already furnished more than its part of the action in the game or it would not be leading. The rules should force the defensive team to cross the center line and into the offensive team's territory within 10 seconds, and then the offensive team will speedily get into action. If the defensive team does not want to help itself, why should the offensive side be made to help it?"

Smead Jolley

MANAGER BILL McKECHNIE of the Braves may persist in his efforts to convert Randolph Moore from an outfielder into a catcher, but Lew Fonseca, White Sox pilot, has abandoned his attempt to work a similar transformation in the case of Smead Jolley.

Fonseca changed his plans when a foul tip mashed one of Ben Tate's fingers. This left Frank Grube as the only bonafide catcher available. If anything should happen to incapacitate Grube, the Sox would be left without a real backstop, and rather than take a chance on an experimental receiver like Jolley, Fonseca has decided to return Smead to the outfield and endeavor to chisel a mask-man out of one of the other American League clubs.

THE WHITE SOX manager has also changed his plans for his own part in the club's activities. Lew had not intended to play regularly at the start, but is now conditioning himself with a view to taking a place in the outfield as soon as possible because the team needs hitting strength.

Jolley's failure behind the bat does not mean that it cannot be done. Two notable examples are Roger Bresnahan and Moe Berg. The former started as a pitcher and the latter, now a reserve backstop for Washington, began as a shortstop.

THE SUCCESS OF Chuck Mullins, of the Willow A. C., in winning the 175-pound boxing championship of the Alleghany Mountain Association by defeating Al Lamo, of the Sands A. C., in the final bout at the Keystone Club, was another instance of persistence and a never-give-up spirit being rewarded. The third time was the charm for Mullins, as in two previous tournaments he had fought his way successfully to the final, only to trip over the last hurdle. But he's up there at last, and judging from the fine form he showed it will be no easy matter for rival 175-pounders to keep him from adding to his laurels. Mullins, whose proper name is Mullen, comes of a Beechview family prominent in sports. His father, Dr. D. C. Mullen, Carson street dentist, is a well-known trapshooter, and a brother, Cline, has made an impressive record in football at South Hills High School and will be out for the freshman eleven at Duquesne University next fall.

WALTER FRIEDMAN, No. 12 Series Q in Primo Carnera's list of managers, back from the other side to pave the way for the return of the Man Mountain to this country, reports that fights are drawing fairly well in Europe.

Carnera and Charles were good for $24,000, while Thil and Torrente drew $20,000. Friedman says hockey has gone over big in Paris. The best boxing prospects he saw were Peitro Loratelli, Italian lightweight, and Walter Heusel, German heavyweight. Heusel has scored 20 knockouts in 22 starts.

THE NEWLY APPOINTED United States Ambassador to Turkey, Gen. Charles H. Sherrill, has held a prominent place in amateur sports for almost half a century. Not only has he been a member of the International Olympic Committee for more than 10 years, but as far back as 1886 he was an intercollegiate sprint champion.

Running for Yale, he won the intercollegiate championship at 100 and 220 yards four straight years, from 1886 to 1889, inclusive, and in his senior year he was captain of the Yale championship track team.

Gen. C. H. Sherrill

AS HE RELATED it to John Kieran, Gen. Sherrill got into track sports at Yale quite by chance. When a lordly sophomore knocked on the door of his freshman room and ordered him to bring his spiked shoes and report for the hundred, young Sherrill didn't know what spiked shoes were or what was meant by "the hundred." "I found out later how it happened," he said. "They needed sprinters for the track team and this sophomore was told to go out and look among the freshmen. He came around to our place and, as I still four freshmen had come in, three fat ones and a skinny one. 'What's the name of the skinny one?' he asked. They told him it was Sherrill. That's how I became intercollegiate champion. I've got all the medals I ever won and more than that. I've got pieces of the tapes I broke, old running regalia, programs of meets and a lot of other stuff. Since 1906 I've been keeping a scrap book on athletics. I'm now working on the thirty-second volume. I'll bet it's the most complete thing in that line."

THREE OTHER LOCAL BOXERS BEATEN

BOSTON, April 5.—(AP)—Steve Salek, lone defending champion in the junior amateur boxing championship tournament, barely survived his opening trial against Joe Berry, skilled 155-pound battler from Cleveland, last night. The tournament closes tonight.

Berry took a lead early in the three-round contest and managed to open a wide cut over the champion's right eye with a left jab in the second. The aggressive Lowell youth, however, refused to be daunted and put on a whirlwind closing attack that drew a close but unanimous award from the officials.

LOCAL STARS LOSE

Three of the four entrants from the Pittsburgh district were eliminated early, one in the first round and the other in the second, but the third man, Charley Cravotta, of the Sands A. C. of Uniontown, A. M. A. 147-pound champion, advanced to the semi-final round by whipping Hugo Croader, of New York, in a fast and furious three-round bout.

Frank Rosana, another Sands A. C. star, a 126-pounder, started off in fine style by knocking out Leslie Smith, of Jacksonville, Fla., in the first round. He was unable to maintain the pace, however, and lost the verdict in a second-round battle to clever Sedgwick Harvey, of New York.

CHUCK MULLIN BEATEN

Chuck Mullins, of Pittsburgh, Under A. M. A. 175-pound senior champion, was defeated in his first-round test by Al Zapella, of Lawrence, Mass. Another Pittsburgher, Steve Stefek, was eliminated in a second-round trial in the 160-pound class after having drawn a bye in the first round, when he lost to Gordon Hathaway, of Boston, in three rounds.

Henry Burns, of Boston, 118-pound member of the boxing team that toured Europe last fall with William P. Kenney, chairman of the Olympic boxing committee, gained an easy three-round victory over Lyman Hedden, of Tampa, Fla.

HARRISBURG, April 5.—Dates and locations for the 11 district meets of the P. I. A. A. and a program of 13 events for the state title carnival in Altoona on May 28 have been announced by Edmund P. Wicht, secretary of the P. I. A. A.

In the championship meet at Altoona the high school stars will compete in the 100, 220, 440 and 880-yard runs, the mile and 220-yard hurdles on the track and in the field, test power in the shot-put, javelin throw, discus, running high and broad jumps and the pole vault. Two men from each district will be eligible to compete in each event, except in the mile relay, where two quartets may be entered.

Following is the schedule of district meets:

District No. 1 at Villanova College, May 21.
District No. 2 at Wyoming Seminary, May 21. Class A championship meet.
District No. 3 at Lafayette, May 21, Class A and B.
District No. 4 at Erie, May 21, Class A.
District No. 5 details undetermined.
District No. 6 at Altoona, either May 14 or 21.
District No. 7, Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association meet, Pitt Stadium, Pittsburgh, May 21, Class A.
District No. 8 at Ridgway Oval, Punxsutawney, May 21.
District No. 9 at Smethport, May 21, Class A.
District No. 10, at Erie, May 21, Class A.
District No. 11, at either Bethlehem or Allentown, tentatively set for May 14, Class A.

MRS. HILL COPS MEDAL HONOR

GREENSBORO, N. C., April 5.—(AP)—Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, led the field in the qualifying round of the Sedgefield Dogwood tournament for women yesterday with a card of 85, four above women's par. A strong wind sent all cards into comparatively high figures.

Mrs. Hill was closely pressed by Mrs. Leon Solomon, of Memphis, Tenn., who finished with an 88.

Mrs. Hill's card:

Par out	5	5	3	5	5	3	5	5	6—40
Mrs. Hill out	5	5	4	5	5	4	4	5	6—43
Par in	5	5	4	5	5	3	4	5	5—41—81
Mrs. Hill in	6	5	5	4	6	4	5	5	5—45—88

MACKS EVEN SERIES

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—Ruffing and Foxx, hot hitting right of the Athletics, stepped over the Phils, 8-4, yesterday, to even the spring city series at one victory each. The wildness of Pitcher Hoyt handicapped the Phils in the second inning, he issued four passes.

Eastman To Try For New Mark In Half Mile

PALO ALTO, Cal., April 5.—Ben Eastman, lanky Stanford track star, who broke the world 440-yard record here March 26, will attempt to better the 880-yard run mark during a triangular meet here Saturday.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: IDENTIFYING A FISH WITH THE NOSE—The French wine tasters, whose palate will tell them on what particular hill any European wine has grown, will have to bow to the older Hawaiian natives who will nose a fish in the market and tell whether it was caught at Waikiki, a cultivated fish pond, or any other fishery on the Islands, according to Duke Kahonamoku, famous swimming champion, Waikiki Beach, Honolulu. UKULELE IS NOT A HAWAIIAN INSTRUMENT—The ukulele is of Portuguese origin, having been evolved from the Portuguese guitar, the Macheta, which is a popular instrument in the Madeira vineyards. It was introduced by the Portuguese into Hawaii in 1879 and became the most popular Hawaiian instrument. The skipping movement of the fingers over the strings from one side to the other suggested the name "ukulele," meaning a "jumping flea." THE HAWAIIAN LANGUAGE—Visitors to Hawaii will recall the soft and musical language of the Hawaiians with pleasure. They have only 12 letters in their alphabet. The maximum length of a syllable is two letters. They have more than 20,000 different words, but only about 40 syllables with which to construct them.

WILSON PACES GOLF FIELD

PINEHURST, N. C., April 5.—(AP)—Forbes K. Wilson, 22-year-old who just a week ago returned from Chile where he was employed as a mining engineer, led a field of 125 golfers here yesterday in the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round of the men's North and South amateur golf tournament.

His total of 76 was good enough to bring him in ahead of others who found the combination of high winds and treacherous traps of the championship course too difficult.

Wilson's score of five over par gave him a one-stroke lead over John D. Champman, of Greenwich, Conn., United States senior champion, and Chandler Harper, of Virginia Beach, Va., former Old Dominion champion.

J. M. Jamison, of Greensburg, Pa., scored a 93 with rounds of 50-43.

COAST LEAGUE OPENS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5.—The ball was set rolling today on the thirtieth season of the Pacific Coast League, with the San Francisco Seals champions last year, meeting Seattle at home. The other inaugural games are Hollywood vs. Oakland, Los Angeles vs. Portland and Sacramento vs. Missions. Hollywood was runner-up last year.

CANZONERI VICTOR

NEW ORLEANS, April 5.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, defeated Al Roberts, New York, Negro, in 10 rounds here last night. Canzoneri weighed 133½ pounds, and Kaiser 137½.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

It ever has been easy to learn where Walter Maranville stands on any baseball question, important or otherwise. So when the Rabbit enters the field of prophetic enlightenment he leaves the vague system to those of the negative wing; his is a positive style. Maranville writes me a letter from the camp of the Braves which reflects his manner insofar as predictions are concerned. The colorful shortstop bases some of his conclusions on first-hand information gleaned while opposing other teams. He thinks the Cardinals and Athletics will repeat, says the Reds are a much improved ball nine and declares the Dodgers are quite terrible. Read on:

"Dear Charley: Received a letter from Joe Fenton, my Springfield buddie, who is connected with the circulation department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. He wants me to give you the dope.

"I look for the Cards to repeat, but they will have keen competition from the Giants. Looks like the Cubs are a cinch for third place. Cincinnati has a very much improved ball club, and I look for the Reds to finish close to the fourth position, with Pittsburgh fifth and Boston, Brooklyn and Philadelphia fighting it out for the other places. Brooklyn is the biggest disappointment I have seen this year.

"In the American League I figure it out this way: Philadelphia, New York, Washington, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Boston, St. Louis.

"Looks like Connie Mack will stand pat with his lineup: Dykes, Boley, Bishop, Foxx, Simmons, Haas and Miller.

"The Yanks picked up a great find in Crosetti at shortstop. Best wishes to everybody.—Walter Maranville."

Maranville, as you may observe, sounds an interesting note concerning the Dodgers. With many of us mentioning Scoop Carey's club as a first-division probability, the trained eye of Maranville apparently sees significant shortcomings. Perhaps he ponders the number of games that may be lost in the Brooklyn outfield, with Frank O'Doul and Hack Wilson running down smashes to the pasture.

O'Doul, truly one of baseball's surest and prettiest hitters, is hardly a George Burns in left and Hack the Whacker will have his customary trouble in right, a good-sized burden thus being placed on the capable shoulders of Johnny Frederick, the center patrol. O'Doul and Wilson, however, will win many a battle with their dangerous hickories. The ailing condition of Firstbaseman Del Bissonette may also have prompted The Rabbit to his little dissertation on the new Dodgers. Then, too, Maranville may have looked at the slab staff collectively only to give it the "thumbs down" gesture, or, more to the point, the Bronx cheer.

ERIE BOY CAPTAIN

COLUMBUS, April 5.—(AP)—Howard Wallgren, Erie, Pa., yesterday was elected captain of the Ohio State University basketball team for next year. He is a junior in the College of Commerce and played varsity guard for two years.

OLYMPIC CARD ARRANGED

LOS ANGELES, April 5.—(AP.)—Fourteen worldwide sports governing federations have agreed on a final program for the tenth Olympiad games to be held in Los Angeles July 30 to August 14. Their completed work represents two years of study.

The programs calls for 137 separate events, all to take place during the 16 days and nights of the games in nine different stadia, auditoriums and water courses.

The schedules worked out by each of the 14 international federations were submitted to the International Olympic Committee, the governing body. Details were made public today. Each of the federations governs one of the sports on the Olympic program.

The games will open the afternoon of July 30 with a parade of nations. A night game of American football will be played in the Olympic Stadium August 8. Other events in the program:

Weight lifting, in Olympic Auditorium, afternoon of July 31 and evenings of July 30 and 31; boxing, state armory, morning of August 1, 2, 4, 5, 10 and 12; afternoons of July 31 and evenings of July 30 and 31.

Track and field athletics, Olympic Stadium, mornings of August 5 and 6, afternoons of July 31 and August 1 to 7, inclusive.

Wrestling, Olympic Auditorium, mornings and evenings of August 1 to 7, inclusive.

Field hockey, in Olympic Stadium, afternoons of August 4 and 11.

Cycling, Pasadena Rose Bowl, nights of August 1, 2 and 3; road cycling, morning of August 4.

Modern pentathlon, five stadiums, August 2 to 6, inclusive.

Yachting, Los Angeles Harbor, afternoons August 5 to 12, inclusive.

Swimming, Olympic swimming stadium mornings and afternoons of August 6 to 13.

Demonstration lacrosse, Olympic Stadium, afternoons of August 7, 9 and 12.

Gymnastics, Olympic Stadium, mornings of August 5 to 12, inclusive; afternoon and evening of August 10.

Boxing, Olympic Auditorium, mornings of August 10 and 11; afternoons and evenings of August 9 and 12.

Rowing, Long Beach Marine Stadium, mornings and afternoon of August 9 and 12, and afternoon of August 13.

Equestrian sports, Riviera Country Club, Santa Monica, afternoons of August 10 and 11 and afternoons of August 13 and 14.

Shooting, Elysian Park, mornings and afternoons of August 12 and 13.

Canoeing, Lake Casitas, Olympic Stadium, afternoon of August 14.

GIBBY PLEASED WITH WORK OF HURLERS

FORT WORTH, April 5.—The Pittsburgh Pirates and the Chicago Cubs swing into action here today in the fifth game of their exhibition series, which started last week in Los Angeles. The two teams, riding the same special train, arrived here early this morning after a tiresome ride from California.

The Pirates are anxious to resume play with the Cubs. It was against the Bruins that the Bucos finally found themselves, the Corsairs coming through after dropping the first game of the series to take the next three from the Chicago aggregation.

The Pirates may equal, but it will be very difficult for them to better their play of the last few days. The Bucs have been stepping along in sensational style, and burning things up in every department of play.

PLAY PLEASES GIBBY

Their actions certainly have been pleasing to Manager Gibson, who had predicted that the team would recover from the slump into which it had fallen earlier in the exhibition campaign. The pitchers have been doing splendid work since the tour began, and their work against the Cubs drew high praise from Manager Gibson.

Harris, Brame, Spencer, Swetonic and Swift, the latter a recruit, who worked against the Bruins, certainly checked the attack of the Chicago machine.

Harris, although defeated in the first game, pitched remarkable ball. Swetonic pitched the next day and was never in danger, limiting the Cubs to six hits.

SWIFT PROMISING

Brame and Spencer were hit hard in their engagement with the Hornsby-drilled crew, but they were effective with men on base. Bill Swift deserves special mention for his work Sunday. The Cubs could do little with his side-arm slants, garnering only six hits.

Lloyd Waner and Charley Wood were left behind in Los Angeles, Lloyd will accompany his wife, who is ill, east, while Charley is recovering his recent appendicitis operation.

HEINIE MEINE MAY RETIRE

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—Heinie Meine, holdout pitcher from the ranks of the Pittsburgh Pirates, may be through with baseball, at least as far as the Pittsburgh club is concerned.

According to persons close to the star hurler, he will not sign a Pittsburgh contract unless his salary demands are met and has plainly informed the Bucco officials to that effect. Last week, it is said, he refused to meet President Benswanger half way when the Pirate head stopped off here for a conference and indicated a willingness to split the difference between the salary offered by the club and the one demanded by Meine.

Josh Williams Ramsey High Coach

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 5.—Josh Williams, of Mars, Pa., former Pitt football star halfback, was elected athletic coach at Ramsey High School, Mt. Pleasant, last night by the school board.

Williams succeeds Clifford M. Singley, coach for the past four years. There were 22 applicants for the position.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—April 5.—It isn't tough enough running ball clubs in a depression, so Congress slaps a tax on tickets this season. When you think of it, we'll soon be paying a poll tax for voting, an amusement tax for laughing, an income tax for working and an inheritance tax for dying. It's funny Congress didn't think of a transportation taxing for going to our reward.

Nick Altrock

Uncle Nick also notices there's a tax on soft drinks, too. Every person that sucks soda through the straw will be helping pay for the depression. It proves that it's the suckers that pay for everything.

Yep, it's bad for this nation to have the Congressmen in session, but think of me—I have to live right there in Washington with them.

GRIFFIN CLUB OUT FOR WEST PENN TITLE

STRONG MOUND STAFF TEAM'S BIG ASSET

By TOM BIRKS

According to Manager Gerry Americus, the Marty Griffin club of the Hill is going to play a considerable part in the destiny of the West Penn League this season. Last year, the Hill boys, with practically only one pitcher, Zigilotti, finished just behind the leaders. This season, with a better twirling staff, the Alderman's outfit expects to cop the title, won last year by the defunct Linwood club.

To help Zigilotti carry the pitching burden, Strudnicki, former Schenley star, Bell and Jimmy Arrigo, who played a big part in the Linwood success last season, have been signed. Jimmy Fisher and Rudish will carry the receiving burden.

SOMMA AT FIRST

Mike Somma will play first base; Bert Arndt is to cover second; O'Brien will be at short with Jiggs Mongello at third.

Mauer, Bunny Taylor and Ray Desch will patrol the outfield along with these regulars. Manager Americus has a number of younger players who will be out there battling for steady jobs.

Rumors going the rounds have it that Joe Hadley, probably one of the best outfielders in the Pittsburgh district, again will be seen in a Book uniform, dazzling the Olympia Park fans with his snaring of intended baseknits.

COLLEGIANS IN FIELD

Friends of the outfield star insist that August Buck will have Peppery Joe back in the lineup as a regular, despite many other outer gardeners looking for a berth, but Joe was not admitting anything along this line.

The Pittsburgh Collegians, under the same management as in former years, will be back on the diamond again this season. The Collegians will open at St. Vincent, April 23.

BRITONS NAME CUP TEAM

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, April 5.—(AP.)—The Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews today announced the makeup of the Walker Cup golf team which will invade the United States this year to play Francis Ouimet's American squad.

The team is headed by T. A. Torrance, who is expected to be named captain; J. T. Bookless, John Burke, the Irish champion; Leonard Crawley, Lister Hartley, Rex Hartley, Eric McRuvie and J. A. Stout.

One of the surprises was the omission of Roger Wethered, former amateur champion, who had been mentioned as a probable captain of the team. E. Martin Smith, present amateur titleholder, also was not named.

Lott to Forsake Davis Cup Tennis

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—(AP.)—George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, No. 2 in the national tennis rankings and runner-up in last year's national singles tournament, has announced he will not be a member of this year's Davis Cup team.

In a telegram to a local newspaper from Houston, Tex., where he won an invitation doubles championship Sunday with Ellsworth Vines, he said only:

"I am retiring from Davis Cup competition this year for business reasons."

Sam Watters Denies Bucs to Shift Camp

Secretary Sam Watters of the Pittsburgh Pirates, issued a denial last night that the club was to shift its spring training quarters from Paso Robles, Cal., to San Antonio next year.

Speedways—for tire sizes 4.40-20, 4.50-20 and 4.75-20

"What's the best tire to buy today"?

The best tire, without regard to price, is a Goodyear. Don't take our word for it. Take the public's. The public says Goodyears are best—by a lead of more than 2 to 1 over any other tire.

And when you read these prices, you find that the best costs no more to buy.

Every price shown here buys Goodyear quality—Goodyear value—in a tire branded with the Goodyear name and house flag.

Now you can get ready for spring and summer driving by getting rid of tire troubles. No one can afford to risk skids, delays or blowouts—no one needs to use tires that have run past the danger point—when new rubber sells at such prices as you see here.

Look them over and ask yourself this easy question: "Why be satisfied with a second-choice tire when first-choice costs no more!"

HOCKEY TEAMS CLASH IN PLAY-OFF FRAYS

BISONS MEET TECUMSEHS IN FEATURE

Buffalo, London, Detroit and Windsor, International Hockey League clubs in the contenders' swing into action in the city's annual round-robin play series tonight.

The headliner of the evening's bill is the Buffalo at London engagement. The Bisons, with their victory assured, are out in front in the lead and are trying to keep the scrappy Tecumsehs from getting into the running. Buffalo has been very accommodating to London during the season, having dropped into the cellar position on purpose to help the Tecumsehs.

Detroit and Windsor, each of whom has scored one defeat are to clash at Windsor.

Unless the epidemic of ties which has marred the playoffs to date comes to an end the championship series of the International circuit is destined to end with the teams deadlocked for the crown.

The first game of the final series for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world championship, will be played in New York tonight with the New York Rangers opposing the Toronto Leafs. The trophy is to go to the team first to achieve three victories.

LOCAL PINMEN SCORE LOW

DETROIT, April 5 (AP)—Chicago bowlers created two changes among the American Bowling Congress tournament leaders in yesterday's rolling in the national classic.

Jack Burke, piling up an aggregate count of 1940 for his nine games to take third place in the all-events, a game with an average of 215.3.

While Burke was scoring 685, his veteran partner, Sam Murray, registered 666, the pair rolling in a tie for eighth place with H. Reitmeyer and H. Cook, Irvington, N. J.

Pittsburgh, hopes centered in the team event, in which the Smoky City keglers hardly will be in the money today, failed to land a first place for the first time with a mere 2,736 pins. The Pittsburgh quintet:

C. Prentiss	[illegible]
J. Kubeas	[illegible]

"He's the smartest fighter I've ever met. I've been in there with more highly-touted opponents, but never with any who outguessed me continually as he did."

That's Guy Salerno's tribute to Joey LaGrey, New York middleweight, formerly of Johnstown, and McKeesport, who defeated him in the main bout at the Kaufman Arena last Friday night.

It was LaGrey, Salerno's second defeat, who sent him to the floor, but was unable to put the veteran George Cuthbert, Guy wasn't hurt aside from having an eye cut reopened in the first round and kept open for LaGrey was merely slapping and cuffing him and keeping him from getting set, but outpointing him all of the way.

DISCOVERS FAULTS

"I figure I learned a lot in this bout," Salerno said today. "I have realized all along that I haven't been just right, and couldn't figure out what was wrong. Now I know. I have been setting myself to hit, stopping to get my punches lined up, and now I can see that the other fellow has been taking advantage of this momentary lapse and jumped in and beaten me to the punch.

"It has been a lack of co-ordination on my part. I have known what I have wanted to do, but, before I could execute the plan, the other fellow has scored and I have had to start anew. It's back to the gymnasium for me as soon as this eye heals and a lot of drilling to get back to where I was in my first bout here, against Jocko Walters. I am glad I fought La Grey, for the bout proved an eye-opener to me."

MAY RETURN HOME

Incidentally, Guy has been homesick for his native California almost all of the time he has been here, and he may decide to return there for a visit before he boxes here again. It is a cinch he'll be back this way again, however, if he does go home.

Between Rounds

Lloyd Hambright, the Lupino welter weight of Cincinnati, who has been fighting the smaller clubs in New York recently, has been selected by Ted Carroll, the main bout promoter at Madison Square Garden, Monday night. This is Nicholl's first bout since he robbed his right hand in a match with Jimmy Hill, another Pittsburgher, a few months ago.

Billy Jones and Frankie Wine box the main bout in Erie Friday night with Matty Mathison one of the principals in the semi-final. Mathison wants to box Willie Davies here.

Billy Rose of Cincinnati and Ray Hart of Homewood, welterweights, box the 10-round main bout at the Lupinian Arena, Friday night. Harry Ballone, Rose's manager, will be one of the principals in the six-round semi-final. Ballone will box Ace Hall, who has the second bout, and Russ Powers of Youngstown will meet Anson Green of Homestead in the opener.

Two eight-round bouts and a six-rounder will complete the Motor Square Garden card next Monday night, Sammy Chernoff of New York, who has been around here for several weeks, will box an opponent to be selected in the first eight-rounder and Mose Butch will take on Leo Franklin of Philadelphia in the semi-final.

The card is complete for the Motor Square show tomorrow night with Lindy Fanas and Emmett De Bernardo, both of the main bout; Lee Sala and Jimmy Moore, in the semi-final; Leon Lindenauer and Johnny Kelly in the second bout and Ray Calverine and Ray Wardlaw in the opener.

Marty Gormick will be making his first appearance around here in months when he boxes Matty Oldarb of Erie in the main bout at McKeesport Thursday night.

SPEERS PAIRED WITH LONDOS

Announcement was made today that Frank Speers, former Georgia Tech football player, will be the opponent of Jim Londos, world heavyweight champion, when the latter appears in the main bout of a wrestling match show in Motor Square Garden one week from tonight.

Speers has figured in each of the two shows recently put on at the Garden by Charley Reinecke. In the first he upset the dope by winning the decision over Ray Steele in the semi-final to a Strangler Lewis and John Maxos bout, and in the second, he won over Floyd Marshall of Chicago in the main bout. He is a heavy-set, big fellow with a lot of endurance.

DEATH CLAIMS COCKY M'COY

One of Pittsburgh's old fistic figures passed away today when James (Cocky) McCoy died at 8:30 a. m. in the Mayview Hospital, where he had been confined for three years as a result of illness that followed injuries suffered when he was struck by a truck. He had been a policeman for the Carnegie Steel Company for 28 years prior to being pensioned.

McCoy was 75 years old. In his time he fought John L. Sullivan, Joe Walcott and other notables. A son, Jimmy, boxed for 10 years as a lightweight here, meeting Eddie Wimler, Johnny Ray, Pat Brannigan, Barney McGuire and others.

Deceased was born in the Arsenal at Washington, July 27, 1856, and was brought here as an infant when his father was transferred to take charge of the Pittsburgh Arsenal in Lawrenceville. It was in Arsenal Park that he took his first walking steps.

The old boxer is survived by five children, Jimmy, Tommy and Bobby, the last named now living in Cleveland, and two married daughters, Mrs. Agnes Hallson and Mrs. Unity Bond. His former wife is remarried and living here.

The funeral will be held from an undertaking establishment.

Cronin to Undergo Treatment for Sinus

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 5.—(INS.)—Joe Cronin, conceded to be the best shortstop in the American League, was en route to Washington today to undergo treatment for sinus trouble. He expects to play with the Nationals Thursday against the Boston Braves in the capital.

Lefty Lloyd Brown still is suffering with a sore flipper.

LAYDEN GIVES DUKES FIRST SPRING DRILL

By JESS CARVER

They broke out in sweats and new uniforms yesterday afternoon up on the Bluff as Coaches Elmer Layden and Joe Bach, assisted by Graduate Manager John Holahan, Brew Jackson and the usual line-up of gridiron kibitzers, put the Duquesne University varsity football squad through the initial workout of a scheduled six weeks of spring practice.

A turnout of some 50-odd right hefty appearing athletes reported to the Duke mentors. The first drill was comparatively light, the boys being put through some kicking, some passing and a lot of running. Coach Layden attired some of his boys in the somewhat gaudy new uniforms that Elmer plans to garb his team in next fall.

Buff Donnelli and Lou Skender, the freshmen coaches, also were on hand and assisted in the drill. A good time was had by all.

The good time the Dukes had yesterday wasn't anything, at least hardly anything, to the time the Pitt boys are going to have Thursday night as they tuck their legs under the old festive board at the annual banquet at Webster Hall.

Members of the varsity football, basketball, tennis, rifle, track, golf, boxing, swimming and cross-country teams will be guests of the university at the affair. This is the first time that all sport teams have been gathered together under one roof, or, if you must, series of roofs, at a formal dinner. In the past, the feed-bagging has been more or less split up, with each team having its own blow-out.

Captains for the 1932-33 basketball, boxing, tennis and cross-country will be named at Thursday's affair.

While the Dukes were getting started here, Cam Henderson called out his ambitious laddies at Davis-Elkins and Cebe Ross rubbed his eyes when a squad of 40 turned out for spring work at West Virginia Wesleyan. Henderson went to work with fewer than 30, but Cam never wants a squad of more than 28, so he is not kicking.

Leroy P. (Hank) Day, recently appointed coach at Wash-Jeff, ushered in spring practice at College Field, Washington, yesterday, with a large squad on hand. The full squad will be available next week.

The Duquesne University varsity and freshman tennis stars also started their training on the campus courts. Julius Boise, Allegheny Country Club pro, was in charge.

Seasoned-in-cedar...protected by Cellophane flavor-guard

the Marsh Stogie

IS A BETTER SMOKE THAN EVER

THE favorite smoke of men who do things . . . men who work hard . . . who achieve. You naturally expect them to choose a man's smoke . . . a smoke that gives them keen satisfaction . . . and is mild. A smoke that is neither a drain on their nerves . . . or their pocketbook . . . and they find it in Marsh Wheeling Stogies.

For years they've chosen Marsh . . . and they stick to Marsh because it is such a good smoke. Now it's better than ever. Because we've done something no one else has done—now every Marsh Stogie is Seasoned-in-Cedar. Then we put them in a Cellophane Flavor-Guard that thoroughly protects them—keeps them fresh and guards them against breakage in your pocket. You can carry them for days—let them lie about the house. But when you take off the Flavor-Guard there is the fresh fragrance of the Seasoned-in-Cedar Marsh, ready to give you the best smoke any nickel ever bought.

So many thousands of Pittsburghers prefer Marsh to any other smoke, that you can buy them wherever good tobacco is sold. So step up to any cigar counter and ask for Marsh—5c for one—but cheaper by the box.

The Scotch have a word for it!

AND every day this word grows more popular. For thrift—an old Scotch custom—is by way of becoming an American habit.

Take regular gasoline, for instance. People, who find it smart to seek the very last penny's worth, are turning to Orange American, the leader in regular gasoline. Their rewards are more miles to the gallon—more motoring satisfaction to the mile—all for no more cost than for ordinary regular gasoline. Be Scotch—insist on Orange American Gas.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Still Sink

Lone Star Gas Steady

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES TO DECLINE

List Penetrates New Low Ground for Recent Years, Steadies Slightly Later

NEW YORK, April 5.—(AP.) — For the fifth successive session the stock market stubbornly persisted in its penetration of new low territory for recent years today.

Rather than providing any sustained forward impetus, yesterday's late covering movement appeared merely to have weakened the market's technical position, and prices dropped rather precipitantly under comparatively light selling pressure. The market steadied a little after announcement of the Santa Fe dividend, but failed to develop much recuperative power.

Santa Fe tumbled 7¾ points to 53¼, the lowest since 1901, then rebounded more than 2. Union Pacific and Norfolk and Western skidded 6 and 7 points before meeting support. American Telephone approximated its bear market low with a 3-point drop. Rails and utilities were again the notably weak groups, with Peoples Gas a soft spot in the latter, tumbling more than 8 points. Losses of 2 to 4 points appeared in such issues as United States Steel, American Can, American Tobacco "B," Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Drug, Consolidated Gas, Standard Gas, American Water Works, North American and New York Central. Losses of a point or so were numerous.

Brokerage comment remained gloomy. In fact, gloom has grown so deep in Wall street that at least one group of investment trusts has started to do a little cautious buying, on the theory that pessimism has reached an unjustified extreme which would eventually necessitate a reaction.

Santa Fe's ordering of a quarterly dividend of $1, after paying $1.50 three months ago and $2.50 previously, was not unexpected. The management announced, however, that further payments would depend upon improved earnings. In common with the majority of carriers, this company scarcely covered its fixed charges in the first two months of the year.

Advance estimates of the weekly freight car loadings report, to appear tomorrow, indicated a substantial reduction, canceling much of the improvement of the preceding two weeks.

The weekly consolidated condition statement of Federal Reserve member banks in leading cities was mildly encouraging in that it showed banks were continuing to invest in securities other than United States governments once more. Investments of this character increased $25,000,000 for the week, the largest gain in some time. Commercial loans, however, continued to shrink, largely reflecting the small demand for commercial credit. A gain of $98,000,000 in demand deposits apparently reflected in part the piling up of funds in preparation for the month-end settlements.

SETBACK GIVEN TO WHEAT

CHICAGO, April 5.—Influenced by New York Stock market downturns and by relative weakness of wheat quotations at Liverpool, grain prices suffered a material setback early today. Forecasts of showers in Nebraska counted also as a bearish factor. Opening ⅜ to 1¼ cents off, Chicago wheat futures held near the initial range. Corn started at ¼ to ⅝ cent decline and continued to sag.

Acting as a curb on wheat price declines was continued dry weather throughout most of the winter crop belt west and southwest. Crop damage complaints from Kansas included reports of wheat fields which had been thinned 50 per cent and which, if unimproved within a week, would be plowed up and be replanted with corn. Other advices from Kansas said wheat was not as responsive as it should be to growing weather, and that apparently damage was irreparable.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 5. — Fresh selling of several utilities provided uninspiring leadership for the curb today and prices were reactionary throughout the market.

LONE STAR GAS EARNINGS OFF

Lone Star Gas Corporation and subsidiaries report for year 1931 shows net income of $4,885,124, after interest, depreciation, depletion and taxes, equal, after dividends on preferred stocks of subsidiaries and parent company, to 75 cents per share on the 3,451,043 shares of common outstanding at the end of the year. This compares with net in 1930 of $6,428,936, equal, after preferred dividends, to $1.30 per share on 4,557,131 common shares.

The report of L. B. Denning, president, says the continued business depression, low price of fuel oil and warm weather prevailing during the heating season so affected earnings that for the first time in the company's history, part of the cash dividend requirements were paid out of accumulated surplus. High temperatures during the entire year adversely affected net earnings to the extent of approximately $1,250,000, he says.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Standard Steel Spring Company reports for year 1931 shows net loss of $229,854, as compared with net income of $429,626 in 1930. The company remains in excellent condition, with net current assets of $1,145,837, against current liabilities of $131,637, or a ratio of 27 to 1. Dividends of $171,960 were paid during the year, the company omitting the disbursement for the last quarter of 1931.

Timken Roller Bearing Company and subsidiaries report for 1931 net profit of $2,571,241 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equal to $1.06 per share on 2,411,842 shares of common outstanding, compared with net of $4,524,122, or $1.93 on 2,411,842 shares.

Universal Pipe and Radiator Company and subsidiaries report for 1931 net loss of $456,520, after interest, taxes, depreciation and other charges, before $600,213 in inventory adjustments and sundry property write-offs of $368,947, which were charged against surplus. This compares with net loss of $214,550, after taxes, interest, depreciation, etc., in 1930.

Chicago Yellow Cab Company and subsidiaries report for 1931 net income of $1,556,635, after depreciation, federal taxes and loss on sale of property. This compares with net of $1,204,547 in 1930.

Sparks Withington Company reports for six months ended December 31, 1931, net loss of $47,657, after charges and depreciation. This compares with net profit of $1,420 in six months ended December 31, 1930.

National Electric Power Company reports total 1931 gross operating revenues were $47,512,692, compared with $42,906,176 for 1930. Net income amounted to $13,776,611, 1931, against $15,321,290 the previous year.

Forbes

Stocks Again Hit New Lows; Senate Hopes

By B. C. FORBES

READERS SOMETIMES ask "Where has all the money gone?"

They wonder who has "got it all." What they don't realize is that there has been a shrinkage in the market value of securities alone of at least 75 billions of dollars—75 thousand millions. Nobody has got it. Values have simply shrunk that amount. The rich have lost most.

Mr. Forbes

What the shrinkage in the market value of real estate has been nobody could possibly figure. We know that it has been staggering.

Yet Congress proposes to impose still further penalties upon securities and their holders. A. C. Beane, nationally known New York stock, cotton, produce etc., broker, writes this column:

"The March value of securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange is: Stocks, $27,585,989,257; bonds, $39,347,060,100.

"A transfer tax of 1/4 of 1 per cent on stocks and 1/2 of 1 per cent on bonds is $118,148,785.

"This is but another way of saying that although the American investor has suffered losses greater perhaps than any other class, they are automatically faced with an additional loss of $118,148,785 through this proposed tax."

The misrepresentatives in the House certainly have botched taxation. The people's hope now is in the Senate. Will it exercise greater statesmanship than the House has exhibited?

Shares of industrial companies yesterday sold at the lowest average price in a decade. Congress certainly has been kind to the bears.

But isn't it time that bulls—those who are constructive, not destructive—were given a little encouragement by Congress? The richer the bears become, the poorer become the rest of the people—and the greater the number of unfortunates thrown idle.

The latest attempt of the New York Stock Exchange governors to check short-selling has proved a fiasco.

EXTRACTS FROM a letter sent by one reader to his Senator in Washington:

"I particularly resent the proposed tax on the sales of stocks and bonds because it will cripple raising new capital. I favor the general sales tax. Economically I resent that states and the national government are piling up terrific taxes on the gasoline business.

"The government should slash to the bone all appropriations and cut down expenses of running the government, including salaries of government employes, Congressmen and Senators. I am against the bonus bill although I am an ex-soldier.

"Inform your colleagues on the floor that it is time to stop legislating for votes by attempting to soak the rich. I am against the proposed Glass banking bill. I am against rocking the boat. I am against log rolling. I am against pork barrel legislation.

"It is time both houses of Congress ran the business of the government exactly as a businessman or business organization runs their own business—cut down expenses and run the government as economically as they would their own individual affairs."

Doesn't that represent the views of most people?

ANOTHER READER urges that the stock ticker tape print letter "S" after each short sale, thus giving "a more accurate gauge of conditions."

Somehow, the stock exchange governors persist in being niggardly with short-selling information. Nor do they give information promptly enough. Were they wiser, they would leave less excuse for Congress to interfere.

ANYTHING AND everything not calculated to hasten the reemployment of the millions now idle should be consciously avoided by every responsible citizen and corporation and institution, whether located in Wall street or Washington, in city or country.

ATCHISON CUTS DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, April 5.—The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company declared a dividend of $1 on the common stock. In January, this year, a dividend of $1.50 was declared. Prior to January, the company paid $2.50 quarterly since June, 1928. The following statement was issued:

"The earnings statement shows a continuing decline. The continuance of dividends on the common stock must depend upon an improvement in the corporation's earnings."

The Mellon National Bank takes this opportunity to congratulate General Motors Corporation in bringing to Pittsburgh one of its national exhibitions of General Motors Products. The exhibition being held this week at Motor Square Garden simultaneously with exhibitions held in 54 other cities, is a manifestation of that courage, initiative and foresight on the part of leading industries which eventually will bring a return of prosperity. It deserves the whole-hearted support of the citizens and business interests of Pittsburgh.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

SUMMARY OF ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1931

THE 84TH ANNUAL REPORT of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, covering operations for the year 1931, will be formally presented to the stockholders at the annual meeting on April 12th, 1932. The report shows that although total operating revenues in 1931 declined over $122,000,000, or 21.5%, the Company earned a net income of $19,545,194. This was equivalent to 2.97% upon the outstanding capital stock at the close of the year as compared with 10.55% upon the amount outstanding at the close of 1930. Net income per share (par $50) was $1.49 compared with $5.28 in 1930.

OPERATING RESULTS

	1931	Comparison with 1930 Increase or Decrease
Total Operating Revenues were	$448,090,379	D$122,379,081

Leaving Net Railway Operating Income of	$ 51,044,866	D 41,124,998
Income from Investments and Other Sources amounted to	48,056,336	D 7,339,147
Making Gross Income of	$ 99,093,143	D$ 48,345,095
Rental Paid Leased Lines, Interest on Funded Debt and Other Charges amounted to	79,547,948	I 908,519
Leaving Net Income (Equal to 2.97% of Capital Stock)	$ 19,545,194	D$ 49,254,614

Dividends of 6 1/2% were paid to the stockholders, part of which was charged to Profit and Loss Account.

FINANCE

The Company met its maturing obligations including $5,800,000 Equipment Trust Certificates. Under authority previously given by the Board of Directors there were issued and sold during the year $40,000,000 Fifty-Year 4 1/4% General Mortgage Gold Bonds due April 1st, 1981.

NEW FACILITIES AND EQUIPMENT

The Company expended $15,369,963 in 1931 for improvements on its own road and equipment, in addition to expenditures by its leased and affiliated lines. The net increase in the investment in road and equipment for the entire Pennsylvania Railroad System was $32,951,816.

Important items of new equipment placed in service were: 1,100 all-steel 70-ton gondola cars; 6 electric passenger locomotives; 2 locomotive tenders. Orders for delivery of equipment include: 90 electric passenger locomotives; 69 electric freight locomotives and 20 locomotive tenders. The electric locomotives constitute part of the equipment required for use when the electrification of the lines between New York, Philadelphia and Washington is completed and have been designed for maximum interchangeability between passenger and freight service.

During the year a new design of rail, weighing 131 lbs. per yard, was adopted and placed in general use, replacing the old 130 lb. rail section; also a heavy duty section, weighing 152 lbs. per yard, was adopted for experimental use in heavier traffic territory to provide a rail considerably stronger and stiffer for the heavier axle loads and higher speed. This is the heaviest weight of rail ever used.

PROGRESS ON IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

Substantial progress was made on the Company's improvement program including work on the following principal items: passenger terminal improvements at West Philadelphia; improvement and expansion of lines and facilities in and near Baltimore; extensive grade separations in Chicago; new passenger terminal improvements at Cincinnati and electrification between New York and Washington. The new rail-water terminal at Jersey City was completed and placed in service.

It is expected to complete electrification between New York and Philadelphia and have this section of the line ready for service in 1933 when electric operation of all local and through passenger trains between those cities will be inaugurated. This will complete the first unit of the Company's electrification project between New York and Washington, designed to speed up and improve operations in this dense traffic territory, as well as improving through service between the north and south.

Active continuation of the Company's large program of construction and electrification depends chiefly upon its ability to obtain the necessary capital on reasonable terms. Owing to the difficulty of obtaining capital for this purpose on acceptable terms from ordinary investment sources due to the unfavorable business conditions, the Company recently applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve a three-year $58,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

BETTER AND FASTER SERVICE

As a result of the constant study being made to adjust services and facilities to the changing requirements of passengers and shippers, both passenger and freight services were improved during the year. Faster passenger train time was established between many important centres and faster freight schedules inaugurated between New England and the south and west, thus widening markets, reducing inventories and accelerating sales and production for both industry and agriculture.

NEW TRANSPORTATION METHODS

New, more economical and more convenient transportation methods have been devised in the Company's continuing program of co-ordinating rail and motor services. A new form of rail-truck operation, the "demountable truck body", was inaugurated between New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore and between Baltimore and Richmond, Va., combining the advantages possessed by motor truck operation in congested metropolitan centres with the advantages of economy and expedition in railroad line haul movement. Under this plan truck bodies are loaded by the shipper, hauled by motor truck from his place of business to the railroad where they are transferred from truck to railroad car and moved in railroad freight service to destination where the reverse operation takes place. Container car service has also been extended and new types of equipment are being developed such as automobile cars which permit more economical loading by elimination of expensive blocking, etc., and covered hopper cars and containers for bulk products like cement, lime and brick.

TEMPORARY RATE INCREASES

Under the Interstate Commerce Commission's decision in the 15 per cent rate case, certain increases in freight rates became effective January 4th, 1932, to continue to March 31st, 1933, with the provision that the additional revenue be segregated from other freight revenue and loaned to financially weak railroads to enable them to meet their fixed charges. For the purpose of collecting, receiving and administering the funds resulting from the increased rates and advancing them in the form of loans to financially weak railroads, the Railroad Credit Corporation was inaugurated and is now in active operation.

RAILROAD CONSOLIDATION

Railroad consolidation in the east, which has been under active discussion for more than ten years, moved an important step nearer to accomplishment in the agreement last October between the executives of the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio and New York Central Railroads to submit a four-party consolidation plan to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Hearings on the railroads' application for the substitution of their plan for the five-party plan previously made public by the Commission, began on January 6th, 1932, have now been concluded, and if the four-party plan is approved, the gradual grouping of the railroads concerned will be effected. It is believed that each of the systems resulting from the suggested grouping will be able to operate more efficiently and serve the public better than the same number of miles operated in a less co-ordinated manner and will result in improved service, introduction of many economies in operation and a saving in capital expenditures.

STOCKHOLDERS

The capital stock of the company has reached a new high record for widespread distribution, being owned by 241,109 holders as of December 31, 1931, an increase of 12,092 compared with December 31, 1930. As pointed out in previous years the large investment represented by the stock and other outstanding securities of the Company emphasizes the duty and responsibility of the management to protect and promote this interest as well as that of the public and employes.

• • •

Notwithstanding extremely adverse business conditions prevailing during the year 1931, the results accomplished by the Pennsylvania Railroad, while not satisfactory, were better than those attained by railroads generally and reflect credit upon the loyalty and fortitude of the officers and the employes.

Continued co-operation of stockholders, bondholders and employes is again solicited in securing additional passenger and freight traffic for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

W. W. ATTERBURY,
President

EMBERS OF LOVE -:- Story of a Pretty Girl in Whom Burned The Flame of a Great Emotion -:- By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Lily Lou Is Successful When She Gets Her First Big Opportunity

CHAPTER LIII

It took Lily Lou just five years to reach her goal, the Metropolitan. Five years from the time she came to New York, a frightened, but determined girl.

After the concert trip with Madame Nahlman it was comparatively easy sailing. There was the matter of "the hole" in Nahlman's voice. To cover it, Lily Lou was allowed to join in two numbers, singing a high, flute-like obbligato to one, a lower, crooning melody to the other.

When she got too much applause Nahlman would fly into a tantrum, threaten to get a more competent accompanist and there would be uncomfortable hours. But few audiences noticed Lily Lou particularly. They had come to hear Nahlman and old and tired as she was, with a hole in her middle register, she gave them the fire and thrill of an enthusiasm that would never die. Besides the glowing, exuberant personality of the aging prima donna the accompanist was just a pretty, promising young girl.

Well—Lily Lou didn't care. Not while she was earning $200 and expenses every week and the Bubchen was rosy and blooming waiting for her in New York.

A POOR SEASON

After that there was Toscani Opera Company, a third-rate company that played what Tony called tank towns and beer-halls. He got her into it when it became evident that her absence with Nahlman had cost her the small parts she had been promised at the Metropolitan.

She wasn't very grateful. She would have preferred to stay in New York and be with the baby. She never knew that Tony spent half a year's salary buying the place for her. The Toscani Opera Company did not pay its sopranos. It allowed them to pay. And Tony never knew that she had to put down an additional $1,500 for costumes.

Uncle Eph's estate . . . that meant the curly, grayish wool sheep that used to graze on Lone Mountain . . . dear darling Uncle Eph . . . paid for eight hundred of it. She scraped up the rest.

It wasn't a very successful season. Toscani did little more than break even. She was mad with joy to get back to Robin—too big to be called Bubchen now—beginning to totter around on his little fat legs and to say things that nobody but she and Tina, the nurse, could understand.

AIDED BY TONY

But she went back for another season and when at the end of two years touring Toscani disbanded the company and retired to eat spaghetti and polenta in a cozy flat on One Hundred and Twenty-second street, she had sung 14 stellar roles and felt like a trouper.

It should have been easy to crash the gates of the Metropolitan now, but somehow it wasn't. Just the chorus and a few minor parts which she sang with charm and delicacy of which nobody took any notice. Thanks to Tony, who was creating something of a sensation since he had been made one of the conductors, she had no difficulty in getting well-paid engagements. She sang with a symphony orchestra in a tour of the southern states, then a season with a fashionable Fifth avenue church and then signed for four weeks at a moving picture theater up town.

Nobody—Tony least of all—had expected her success at the theater. It had been a lucky chance for her to make some money. The applause frightened as well as surprised her. Her mind had been so set on opera . . . had she been wrong? Should she have worked for oratorio, lieder songs? Or was she hoping for too much and was she just a cheap singer of popular ballads?

Some of this she confided to Tony. He shook his head. "No," he said, "you are an artist, Lily, and when the artist sings or plays, the world listens. It does not matter where. Was I not a success at the Roxie? No artist should really think himself good until he has made a living on the corner, passing the hat—"

"I almost came to that when I was new in New York!"

"And I did. And when I played my fiddle the people stood to listen. They didn't like it as much as when they pay, because the people, they like to pay big prices for what they like, but they listened, and they put the pennies, the fives and the 10-cent pieces, sometimes the quarter in my hat."

FOLLOWS NAHLMAN STYLE

After the theater engagement she signed a contract to sing at one of the more fashionable night clubs, because it was late enough not to interfere with her opera appearances.

Taking a leaf out of Nahlman's notebook she capitalized a dramatic entrance. The first number was always something showy and spectacular. She wore a white lace gown with lacquer red slippers and the ermine wrap lined with lacquer red chiffon that Madame Nahlman had given her three years ago.

After the first number she threw aside the wrap and the grand opera manner, put the paste and ruby tiara, another relic of Nahlman's generosity, on the piano, slipped off her bracelets which she wore again after the style of Nahlman, banked nearly to her elbows, and motioning the pianist away, sat down and played her own accompaniment to one of the ballads she had sung at the moving picture theater. After that she asked if there was anything anyone wanted particularly—any old song—any opera aria. The old trick of memory. The gift of playing and singing by ear if need be.

It was a success. An overwhelming and instantaneous success. Columnists mentioned her in the metropolitan dailies. Two of the better magazines had full page portraits of her. Lily Lou Lansing who just opens her mouth and sings . . . anything . . . anywhere . . . anytime.

"You'll ruin your voice, you darn fool!" Gwin wired her from Long Island.

"No, you won't," Tony said, "not while you keep your voice forward, and don't force it."

And after that it was easy, so easy that it never again seemed hard.

She was singing in the chorus of "Madame Butterfly." In the second act, Rosa de Rocca, who was singing the title role in spite of a serious throat affliction, found herself unable to continue. They hustled Lily Lou into the costume, told her she'd have to go on.

She waited, cold and a little weary, in the wings, while the announcement was made. Heard the subdued banging of seats, the little indignant murmur of the disappointed, who were leaving . . .

"They're all leaving, down front," somebody said.

That would have unnerved her a year ago. It did not matter so much now. This was her chance, her big opportunity, and the audience was walking out before she started. It would have mattered frightfully, once. But she was used to disappointments now, and there was nobody left but Tony to care. Her mother gone . . . Ken . . . Ken, who was to have come to the end of the world to see her make her debut, gone. God only knew where . . .

Almost from the first she knew that the audience—what was left of it—was with her. She didn't have to throw herself into the part, she WAS Butterfly, waiting, believing, despairing, giving up at last . . .

"Brava!" someone shouted from the gallery.

"Success! Success!" Tony was on the stage, embracing her almost before the curtain fell.

Synopsis

Lily Lou Lansing has ambitions to become an opera singer. She meets Kentfield Sargent, son of a wealthy shipper. Ken is also interested in Peggy Sage, prominent society girl. Ken admits his love for Lily Lou and they go away and are married. When Lily Lou first sees Ken's mother she is told that Ken was not old enough to get married. Anxious days follow. Then Lily Lou is told by Ken's father that the marriage has been annulled. He gives her $500 and a ticket to New York. In New York she has a hard time getting a job and her monies runs low. From a home town paper she reads that Ken has become engaged to Peggy. She learns that she is to become a mother. She gets a job as accompanist with Dwight Gwin, voice teacher. Nita Nahlman, famous opera singer, hears Lily Lou sing and offers to take her to Europe to study. In Vienna Lily Lou becomes the mother of a baby boy. When Lily Lou recuperates they return to Paris, where, through an injury to one of the singers, Lily Lou gets her first chance to sing in opera. She sings well and wins much praise. Lily Lou and her baby are sent back to New York by Nahlman. Maxine asks that they live with her. Lily Lou's mother dies. After borrowing train fare, Lily Lou gets home in time to attend the funeral. Before returning to New York, Lily Lou learns that Ken did not marry Peggy. Mme. Nahlman returns from Europe and offers to take Lily Lee on another tour.

Now Go On

Lily Lou was told to sing the title role.

Madge Tries to Put Some Meaning Into Babbling of Chinese

Was Lee Chow, Hugh Grantland's friend, nearer to us than we had dreamed? This was the question that beat insistently upon my brain when I had come back from my mental journey into the past in which the highborn Chinese and Hugh Grantland had figured so dramatically.

I stole another glance at Dicky from beneath my lashes, so that he should not know that I was looking at him. He was no longer frowning, but his eyes were fixed on me with an odd questioning look, and I knew that his mind had traveled back with mine over that old dramatic story, the chapters of which had caused so much mental travail.

The low wailing call stopped, and I saw Katherine and the surgeon take a step forward, their eyes fixed upon that suddenly silent figure.

I felt my throat muscles constrict with terror. Did that sudden silence mean?—I bent forward, as did Dicky and Lillian, our eyes fixed, not upon the apparently lifeless figure upon the bed, but upon the faces of the surgeon and nurse whose keen eyes were weighing, measuring the vitality left in that battered form.

The life spark had not yet been snuffed out. I knew that when neither Katherine nor the surgeon stepped nearer the bed. But there was the sense in that quiet room of everything stopped, waiting, for the return of breath to the inert body, or for the final verdict that it had gone forever.

MAKE NOTATIONS

The wailing voice sounded again and Harry Underwood spoke softly to Lillian and me.

"Get busy!" he said, but we did not need the admonition. Lillian's pencil was already making cryptic marks upon her note book, and with every faculty focused upon the wailing sounds coming from those battered lips, I was charging my memory with them.

For it was no longer the name, "Lee Chow" alone which we heard, but other sounds, more rapid, unintelligible, but which we knew were Chinese words. The man was delirious it was plain, but there seemed to run through his delirium, some connected thread of thought, for not only did the name, "Lee Chow," recur at frequent intervals, but there were other associated sounds which, after a while I realized were being repeated.

This realization did not come to me for some time because of the fixed strained attention it was necessary for me to give to that incoherent babble. My "uncanny memory," as my friends call it, is a mechanical thing. I cannot force it into any particular channel. I can only listen to or look at the thing I wish to remember, shutting everything else away for the time being.

Gradually, however, it came to me that just as the name "Lee Chow" had been repeated over and over, so this jargon of words with which I was charging my memory, was being moaned out over and over again.

REPEATS STORY

I waited until I had assured myself of this, then, knowing that I already had memorized all that the delirious man had babbled, I relaxed my strained attention, and leaning back, tried to analyze the tones of the feeble, wailing voice.

He was relating something to an imaginary listener, I soon decided that, and it was but a step to another decision, that the wounded man thought he was addressing Lee Chow. I listened once more as the delirious man ran through his story. I leaned toward Lillian.

"He's saying the same thing over and over again, I think," I wispered. "Look over your notes, and see if you don't think so, too."

"You're right," she said. "Harry, there's no use of our listening any longer, is there?"

The surgeon moved forward. "I am very glad you are willing to stop," he said, "because I should have given you only a few seconds longer. I must ask you all to go out now except Mrs. Bickett."

Katherine moved quickly to his side, and as the rest of us went quickly out of the room, we saw her bending with the surgeon in watchful scrutiny of those babbling lips. There was that in their attitude which made us agree with Harry Underwood's verdict when we came out into the hall.

"It's all up with the poor devil, I'm afraid."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Hundreds of new members were enrolled Saturday in the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, and hundreds are expected to enroll this week. Because, to be eligible to attend the big free Sunday show that will be held at the Stanley Theater, May 15, you must be a member of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club.

If you are not a member of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner-Theaters Junior Komic Club, and want to be the guest of the Sun-Telegraph and Warner Theaters at the Stanley Theater, Sunday, May 15, go to the manager of the theaters any day this week, or attend the meeting Saturday morning, enroll and you will receive your membership card and button.

You can join at any of the following theaters: Arsenal, Ambridge, Belmar, Cameraphone, Enright, Etna-Harris, Grand (Greensburg), Harris (downtown), Kenyon, Manor, Memorial (McKeesport), Mt. Oliver-Harris, Rowland (Wilkinsburg), Schenley, South Hills, Plaza, State (Washington).

MEMORIAL CHAPTER

The members of the Memorial (McKeesport) Chapter were entertained Saturday by the following boys and girls: Cookie Ueltzen, tap dance; Victoria Vulga, songs; Robert Nelson, harmonica and guitar; Mary Louise Walsh, songs. These youngsters have become great favorites with the members of this chapter and the children look forward to these meetings every Saturday morning.

The young boys and girls of Pittsburgh are not only assured of loads of entertainment every Saturday at the various meetings, but they are given short talks each week either by the manager of the theater, or by some prominent man or woman interested in the education of children.

At one of the chapters where dancing school is maintained for the youngsters, one of the mothers was overheard saying:

"When Norah came home some weeks ago and told me about the dancing instructions she was getting, I decided to come to the next meeting and see just how this class was being conducted. And, you know, I have not missed a Saturday morning meeting since. Not only is Norah learning to dance, but you would be surprised at the number of different steps and routines that I have picked up myself. Not that I'll ever appear on the stage, but I'll certainly surprise my hubby one of these days."

This mother can be found every Saturday morning in the first row of the theater watching not only her own daughter, but the sons and daughters of hundreds of other mothers. All learning poise and grace from the dancing instructor.

FINANCIAL ADVICE FOR THE FRIENDLESS

Perhaps you will be a widow some day. Who knows?

What do you plan to do with your insurance money?

Wouldn't you like a little confidential advice, a few statistics, perhaps a good-natured story to illustrate a point, and then a bite?—just something out of the ice box. Don't go to a lot of bother. Our trust officers are trained to eat what is set before them and not criticize. We figure that it is the spirit behind the lunch—not the actual victuals that count. And often something gotten together in a hurry tastes better to our experts than a pretentious four-deck sandwich that only Joe E. Brown could appreciate. Or, if you prefer, our agents will bring a can opener, someone else can bake a cake, and, with a few sandwiches—there you are.

No Reason to Delay

A Conference of State Leaders Should Be Held Immediately to Prepare a Relief Program.

Gov. Pinchot is understood to have held out the hope in private conversation that he would call another special session of the Legislature to provide state aid for the unemployed.

The belief that he will do so is encouraged by his public statement to the effect that it would be inexpedient to hold such a session until after the Supreme Court has passed on the constitutionality of the Talbot Act. It is the act through which the Legislature at its last session appropriated $10,000,000 for poor relief.

If the Talbot Act should be upheld the way is open for further and more adequate appropriations of the same character, while a decision that it is unconstitutional will necessitate the adoption of a different plan. There is good reason, therefore, for delaying the session until the decision is handed down, provided it is handed down soon.

The suggestion has been publicly made that the Governor ask the Supreme Court to indicate the date on which its decision will be announced, so that he may be able to summon the Legislature into session immediately after the court issues its ruling.

While there is justification for delaying the session, there is no reason why the state conference of business, political and welfare leaders advocated by the Sun-Telegraph to devise a relief program should be delayed. On the contrary there are some excellent reasons why it should be held at once.

Time and money will be saved if the Legislature has a program free from politics, and agreed upon in advance by the leaders of all factions, ready for its consideration when it meets. In fact there is danger that if some such plan is not adopted the session will result in prolonged and futile wrangling.

The Important Auto

Purchase of a Car at Today's Low Prices Will Advance Restoration of Normal Business Conditions.

According to the latest available statistics there are more automobiles in use in the United States than telephones—23,000,000 motor cars, 20,000,000 telephones.

And with due consideration for the convenience of the telephone, the figures give a fair ratio of the relative importance of these American necessities. One in every five persons in the United States owns an automobile, and that fraction could well be lowered, with benefit to the people who would be added to the ranks of motorists and to the improvement of industrial conditions. For the automobile industry now ranks first among American manufacturing activities when measured by the wholesale value of its product.

Those facts and many others are included in a broadside issued by the Motor Car Dealers' Association of Southern California.

It is shown how relatively cheap the automobile has become. The automobile dollar of today, as compared to that of 1914, will buy twice as much value as will the dollar spent for food under the same comparison.

The automobile industry gives work to 5,056,000 persons of the 48,800,000 normally gainfully employed in the United States. And nearly the full cost of the automobile bought today is a contribution to employment, aiding not only those engaged in building the car itself, but lumbermen, glass workers, rubber workers, iron and steel workers, oil men, road builders. For the automobile factories are the best buyers of many products and the automobile user is chiefly responsible for both the gasoline and the road building industries.

The automobile has revolutionized both the industrial and social life of the American farmer. Each year the farmer hauls 200,000,000 tons of produce to market by motor transport, and the passenger car has obliterated his isolation from town life.

These facts are evident to the observer, but the motor dealers have performed a service in summarizing them.

The motor industry does not stand on the corner with hat in hand, pleading for patrons. But it does show clearly and effectively these two things:

That the purchase of a car at today's cheap prices will materially advance restoration of normal business conditions—and that possession of an automobile gives its owner and his family a luxurious magic carpet and a necessary adjunct to modern life, combined.

The First Falk Gift

The Inquiry to Be Financed by the Foundation Is of Importance to Everybody.

The Maurice and Laura Falk Foundation announces its first appropriation, a contribution of $125,000 to the Brookings Institution of Washington, D. C., to finance an inquiry as to whether or not the present distribution of wealth and income promotes the economic welfare of society.

It is a little disappointing that a Pittsburgh institution is not to make the study, but there is much to be said in favor of its being conducted by an organization with convenient access to the government bureaus whose records must be examined.

The matters to be investigated, such as the productive and consumptive capacities of the country, are of importance to everyone, and it is not inconceivable that information may be obtained and principles laid down which will help us to avoid hard times.

Honoring Washington

Slovak and Ukrainian Societies Set a Good Example in Celebrating the Bicentennial.

While the observance of Washington's Birthday naturally marked a peak in the celebration of the Bicentennial it was contemplated that patriotic meetings and pageants in honor of the first President should continue throughout the year.

The East Pittsburgh Slovak Social Club, which held Washington Bicentennial exercises Sunday, and the Ukrainian Americanization League of McKees Rocks, which is making elaborate plans for a Washington memorial meeting, are setting good examples for our trade and civic bodies, patriotic and fraternal organizations, schools, churches and municipalities.

The laying of the cornerstone of the new Federal Building will furnish a convenient occasion for a tribute from Pittsburgh to Washington.

Roses I Bring You

These are the roses I bring you.
Not from the gardens of earth,
Roses of song that I sing you,
Roses of scintillant mirth;
Roses your fond heart can cherish
After spring's gardens are dust;
Roses that never will perish;
Roses of rapture and trust.

Others may plead with you, bearing
Treasures of jewels and art;
I can but come to you sharing
Roses that bloom in my heart,
Roses of fragrance undying;
Roses of love, life and song
That will still blossom, defying
Years that are empty and long!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 5.—At a recent banquet a distinguished toast-master, pointing to William Travers Jerome, exclaimed: "There, gentlemen, sits the noblest Roman of them all!" The description fits like the proverbial glove. He is last of the valiant vice crusaders of yesterday.

Now in early 70's, he is a rugged cameo out of a fighting era, the only district attorney to tweak the Tammany tiger's tail and send that blood-thirsty beast whimpering to its lair. Ask anyone in any part of America to name any New York district attorney. They will name Jerome.

Others come with beating of tom-toms and vanish into utter obscurity. But after 25 years Jerome is as well known as a United States President. This despite his utter indifference to the spotlight. Publishers send him blank checks vainly for his autobiography. He returns them without comment.

Similar efforts have been made for talkies, syndicated memoirs, etc. He's not interested. He visits his office far down town at intervals but most of the time is spent in the library of his peaceful home near Yonkers—"that largest city in the world next to New York."

Jerome especially endeared himself to such reporters as Irvin Cobb, Martin Green, George Buchanon Fife and others during the days he was the nemesis of Harry K. Thaw. In court his irony was biting. But at recess he dropped into a bar across the street to chaff with reporters, who loved and respected him.

It was Jerome who unhorsed Richard Croker. A neologist of the day coined the term "jeromed," meaning finished in the underworld. Jerome also tossed the biggest scare of Sing Sing a corrupt police system ever had. He put Richard Canfield out of business.

In harness he was the lone wolf, suspicious even of the reformers. Frequently he snarled: "I'm running wildcat"—meaning he would turn on those he trusted who betrayed him. He is one of the fiercest cigaret smokers on record, suggesting the Olympic's left funnel.

Lou Holtz has not yet succumbed to the dinner jacket or full evening regalia. His compromise is a blue serge with black four-in-hand. Another sartorial indifferent is the lantern jawed Groucho Marx who affects morning coat with striped trousers at evening functions. The dapper George White wore his first full dress in public at the famous Casino party.

The most popular debutante of the season—a spy reports—has no objections to visiting speakeasies, but her invariable drink selection is a glass of milk. She offers a further conspicuous contrast by not smoking.

Another touch to Broadway's increasing carnival spirit, catercornered from the Winter Garden, is a Salon de Art emblazoned with pastels of ladies as nude as skulls. A provocative banner across the facade affutter in the breezy stir of spring inquiries: "Are woman beautiful?" The idea is to drop in to see for yourself and a line had coiled the night I passed. One suspects a modern variant of the couch. (Voice: A good reporter would find out.)

Sometimes, however, I feel much stuff of the seasonal drama has little to commend itself over the circus lot hula. More than half the plays two of them smash hits are concerned with the glorification of the mistress.

The flood of manuscripts to magazine offices has reached fullest tide. So many with time on their hands consider writing one of the minor rackets which anyone may enter. Looking about, they may be right.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Here are questions every human being asks at some time.,

"Why do I get fed up on everything, every now and then?" a woman writes me. "Do you know what I mean, Elsie Robinson—that blah mood, as if everything was unreal; nothing mattered?

"I tell myself it should matter. I see scores of things in which I should be interested. But while that mood is on, I can't get excited about anything. I can't even feel love. It is as if I were walking around in a dream. Do other people get that way? If they do what's the reason? And is there a cure?"

Yes, other people get that way. All of us get that way. And the reason isn't hard to find. It's not in the least remarkable that we should have "blah moods" when we "can't feel anything—not even love." The miracle is that we have any other moods; that we are able to live so richly in our emotions.

For man, like all other animals, is naturally a blah creature. The savage in the jungle has his moments of ecstasy, rage, excitement and curiosity, but for the most part he's as torpid as a turnip. His body continues to function but his mind and feelings loaf on the job.

And this is both natural and necessary. Thinking and feeling are a comparatively new job for the human animal. He has had walking legs and striking fists and a hungry stomach for a very long time, but he has had thoughts, emotions and self-consciousness for a comparatively short time. And they are not an unmitigated blessing.

Thinking and feeling are a tiresome, often a painful business. The body rebels against that business. It wants to do the things that are easy to do—things it can do without planning, without making decisions. It wants to lie in the sun, and eat, and sleep, and fight, and make love. All of these things can be done with little thought or feeling, as an animal does them. And we humans are still nine-tenths brute.

Why do you have blah moods? That's why.

Because the mental side of you, still so new at its job, goes on a strike. Temporarily you revert to your stupid, happy, lazy jungle self.

But is there no cure for that?

Probably not, within the next million or so years.

And why should there be a cure?

Why this frantic desire to "think and feel all the time"—this constant, hysterical search for a thrill?

"That's because we want to live in high!" We refuse to be dead ones. We moderns are live wires."

Piffle! We moderns are nothing of the sort. We merely have the nervous jitters; and most of our so-called thoughts and feelings are as senseless and aimless as a monkey's chatter.

Our trouble is not that we can't use our brains all the time, but that we seldom use them ANY OF THE TIME!

Don't rebel because there are times when you can't think or feel. That is natural. It is the penalty of being that new creature, a human being.

Ask, rather that you may make good use of the times when you can think and can feel. When those times come—try to think like a man; try to feel like a man.

If you'll think one REAL Grade A human thought a day, register one REAL Grade A human feeling, you can safely park your brain on a bush for the rest of the time.

Isn't It So?

It is hard to turn back on a narrow bridge.

Life would be too smooth if it had no rubs in it.

The Money, Factories Of Americans

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

When the historian of the future comes to write the bizarre story of the last 12 years in the United States under the domination of the "best minds," from the multiplicity of odorous scandals in the Harding regime to the Hoover panic, he will find much to interest him, and his readers, in the subserviency of the present regime to the big banking interests. It now seems possible that we shall not have to wait on the historian for the story of just what happened in the case of the Missouri Pacific loan; and just why it happened.

The interference of the President in this instance, in something which is none of his business, is probably the most flagrant disregard of the law and the constitutional limitations of power in his record. Now that Senator Couzens, who in financial matters is wise in his generation, has spoken out, it is imperative that there be a showdown and an investigation. Money—$2,000,000,000—belonging to the people's treasury, and extracted from the pockets of all the people, has been set aside for loans and assistance to banks, railroads, etc.

In the case of the Missouri Pacific, $5,850,000 is generously assigned the road that it may pay back a loan made by J. P. Morgan & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. This sort of thing was not intended by Congress when it generously assigned the two billions to help out Big Business—which has made such a sorry mess of things.

Reconstruction Body Approved the Loan

We return to this subject because it is such an enlightening indication of the trend of the administration which is shocked unbearably at the suggestion that a penny shall be used to feed the jobless who are hungry.

Under the law the loan could not have been made without the consent of the Interstate Commerce Commission. But it appears that the Reconstruction Corporation, headed by Mr. Dawes, approved this loan by resolution before the Interstate Commerce Commission had begun to study the application.

The Interstate Commerce Commission was unfavorably impressed with the proposed loan. Mr. Eastman, a member, is on record. He says:

"No good reason has been shown for approving a government loan to enable the applicant to make a 50 per cent payment on the bank loan maturing April 1. I would have no difficulty in joining in such approval if there were any evidence that the loan were needed in the public interest. But no one has made or attempted to make such a showing . . . Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the Guaranty Trust Company would not, so long as the interest on the bank loan is paid, force a receivership by refusing an extension . . . I realize that the majority (of the Interstate Commerce Commission) are no more persuaded than I am that there is any need for using government funds to 'bail out' these banks."

* * *

"Too Much Is Enough"

And yet the commission, feeling this way, did agree against its judgment and its sense of propriety—under pressure. This pressure we are told came from the White House.

If that is true it is a shocking thing.

All the more shocking, Senator Couzens and others think, because of the moral obligations on the "money merchants" to grant an extension in appreciation of the fact that they have "profited largely" in handling the financing of the road in the past.

But the banks, groaning with hoarded money, want their money back.

Under normal conditions they would extend the loan.

But if they can get their money back now by dipping into the $2,000,000,000 of the people's money, appropriated from the people's treasury, by having pressure brought upon the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation by the President, who has no right to bring any pressure, they want it.

And so they get it.

This incident imposes upon Congress the duty to scrutinize the use of this money of the people's; and the people have a right to know.

"Too much is enough."

"Using Our Wealth to Destroy Our Trade"

In an article by Theodore Knappen, in the Magazine of Wall Street, we learn more about the effect of the Chinese tariff wall we have erected at our ports. This wall not only keeps goods out, but prevents goods from going out. And this is not only wrecking the great Atlantic ship lines, but the railroads of America; and, as we have pointed out before, forcing American factories to build plants in other countries with American capital to employ foreign labor.

Mr. Knappen tells us that Henry Ford's plant in Cork, Ireland, shipped 2,000 "Fordson" tractors, valued at $1,169,713, to the United States duty free.

These tractors once were made in America by American workmen.

These workingmen no longer have jobs because tractors are no longer made here.

And the 2,000 tractors sent to the American market were made by foreign workingmen, paid with American money which they spent with foreign merchants.

This merely illustrates what is happening under the operations of the present prohibitive tariff. Ford is not alone. Now that England, following the rest of Europe in retaliation, has put up the bars against the products of American factories and fields, we are told that the result is to "send American branch factories to England in swarms."

And Mr. Knappen concludes that "we are using our wealth to destroy our foreign trade." For every branch factory that goes to Europe to get beyond our Chinese wall deprives American workingmen of jobs.

What Spain Is Doing

Spain wants factories.

She wants them to furnish jobs for Spanish workingmen.

She wants these Spanish workingmen to get wages that will be spent with Spanish merchants.

And so she puts a prohibitive tariff on American motor cars.

She makes no secret of the purpose behind the act.

She thinks that American manufacturers will establish branch factories in Spain so that American cars sold there will be made by Spanish and not by American workingmen.

Return to Common Sense Tariffs

The hysterical trend toward prohibitive tariffs followed immediately after the United States, responding to the lash of Joe Grundy, built its Chinese Wall against trade. Now we have reached a point where nothing can be safely done for the restoration of international trade except through the negotiation of reciprocal agreements.

The House has passed a bill asking the President to enter into such negotiations and to take the initiative in calling an international conference on trade relations. It is still pending in the Senate.

Conditions will continue to grow worse so long as trade diminishes at home and abroad, and trade will continue to grow worse until we return to common sense tariffs and restore the purchasing power of the 40,000,000 Americans who are wrecked by our stupid economic policies.
